STIMSON CALLS
ON PARIS TO PAY
AND PAY IN GOLDProblem Now Passes

Deputies Spurn Plan

The finance and foreign affairs committees of the French chamber of deputies yesterday voted against Premier Herriot's plan to make the Dec. 15 war debt payment to the United States, unless America guarantees first to grant a revision of the debt agreement. Details on page 8.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—(Special.)—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson firmly and somewhat crisply called upon France, in a note made public today, to pay the 19 million dollar installment of her war debt due the United States on Dec. 15—and to pay in gold.

A little later it developed that the state department has received assurance that the principal debtors will make their payments on the due date, although making reservations as to future payments. It also became apparent that the whole question of reduction of the debt is to go over to the Roosevelt administration for settlement after March 4.

Congress Firm Against Reopening.

President Hoover's efforts to procure a reopening of the debt settlements by congress have proved unavailing. Congress is still adamantly opposed to debt revision, and its attitude has not been softened either by the arguments in the British note or by the President's replies to the debtors in which he suggests revision in consideration of trade and other concessions to the United States.

Finding congress unwilling to reconstitute the debt funding commission for the purpose of reopening the settlements as he has repeatedly urged, the President has fallen back upon the suggestion made by President-elect Roosevelt at the recent White House conference. This was that the discussion of the debtors' pleas for revision be carried on through diplomatic channels.

As a result of this modification of policy in the face of congressional opposition, the President informed Great Britain in the note given out yesterday, and France in the note made public today, that he is prepared to consider debt revision and related economic problems "through whatever agency may seem appropriate." Any debtors, therefore, may open diplomatic negotiations with the administration for revision of the debt. The state department will discuss the question with the debtors and congress will have nothing to do with the matter in this stage.

Congress Has Final Say.

If a revision proposal acceptable to the administration should be worked out eventually it would be submitted to congress, which alone possesses the power to change the terms of the debt settlements. Inasmuch, however, as such negotiations, if entered upon, could not be completed before March 4, it will be the Roosevelt administration to which final decision will go.

In the note to France Secretary Stimson repeated what he had said to Great Britain, that the examination of the revision question "does not imply cancellation," but would embrace "consideration of other forms of tangible compensation available for the expansion of markets for products of American agriculture and labor," as well as consideration of the armament reductions the debtors were prepared to make.

French Contention Refuted.

Refusing to take seriously the French contention that the transfer of 19 millions of dollars would upset world economy, Mr. Stimson then said in his note:

"My government, however, has not been able to reach the conclusion that a postponement of the Dec. 15 payment from the French government to the United States is necessary because of its effect on the problem of recovery. Although we recognize the serious budgetary difficulties which the French government, in common with all other governments, is now facing, the sum involved in this case and the transfer thereof would hardly seem to my government to be of disturbing weight or difficulty in respect to world economy or the reestablishment of prosperity."

"The maintenance of these agreements in their original meaning and opportunity for revision are all maintained."

SALOON DAYS
PUT ALDERMEN
His License Bill.

Pledge More Jobs

Brewers pledge to spend millions and put thousands of idle to work if congress legalizes beer. Bottle makers and other industries say legal beer would revive their business. Page 14.

Aldermen who are members of the city council judiciary committee met yesterday to discuss Ald. John Coughlin's $1,000 saloon license ordinance. The happy occasion attracted a full attendance and developed into a session marked by high good humor.

At the start the aldermen were slightly disconcerted to discover that the ordinance, introduced by "The Bath" recently, had been referred to the finance committee instead of to the judiciary committee. But the judiciary committee members wanted to talk about saloons and they went ahead and discussed the ordinance anyway, resolving to get the act transferred to themselves later.

A Stein Adorns "The Bath."

Ald. Coughlin was in his glory. His closely cropped white hair bristled triumphantly, his eyes beamed. Knitted into his gray tie was a red, white, and blue beer stein.

"This ordinance of mine," he said proudly, "abolishes the saloon. It provides for a license of $1,000 on every shop dispensing beer and liquors. There will be no bar and no rail. That is what makes a saloon, especially the rail."

"Aw, you're taking all the joy out of life," protested Ald. Oscar F. Nelson. "What's a saloon without a rail?"

"Well, you can have a side bar and a rail," said Ald. Coughlin.

"What Have We Now?"

"Why do they have to abolish the old saloon?" asked Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady, chairman of the committee. "I'd rather have it than what we have now."

"What have we now?" asked Ald. William Feigenbaum innocently.

There was a chorus. Apparently all present were intimately acquainted with drinking places under prohibition. A reminiscent atmosphere descended upon the committee. Aldermen talked to alderman about the old days. Almost, they put arms around each other's necks and wept with joy at the prospect of an early return of those "good old times."

Ald. Nelson, ascertaining that there were no ladies present, told a story.

A Dry Enters.

The subject of free lunch occupied them. Ald. Coughlin said regretfully that he had forgotten to specify in his ordinance that drink dispensaries must provide free lunch.

Ald. James B. Bowler entered to be greeted by shouts. He is known as a personal dry.

"Just too late, Jim," he was told. "We just finished a barrel of beer."

As chairman of the committee on rules, Ald. Bowler said he thought the saloon license ordinance could be transferred from the finance committee to the judiciary committee.

"Have you determined," asked Ald. John A. Massen of Ald. Coughlin. Ironically, "how many saloons in the square inch will be permitted in the 46th ward?"

Plenty of Corners.

"There are a lot of good corners up in that ward," responded Ald. Coughlin, wistfully. "What do you think would be the best corner?"

"Across from the Sheridan monument," said Ald. Massen, but his intemperate sarcasm did not disturb "The Bath."

"Montrose and Broadway is a swell corner, too," he remarked, pensively.

Ald. Massen's mild razing of the important matter before the committee aroused Chairman O'Grady.

He left the conference briefly and then returned. The hammering continued for a short time and then gradually subsided in a succession of lingering blows.

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith, a member of the committee and head of the company controlling the Empire State building, remarked:

"I'll find out how long this fellow will be rebuilding this structure."

He left the conference briefly and then returned. The hammering continued for a short time and then gradually subsided in a succession of lingering blows.

When the people in your ward want to get drunk they come down into my ward," he told the north side alderman. O'Grady represents the 14th ward.

But there could be no real acrimony at a meeting such as this. Another subject was introduced: It referred to the proposed installation of automatic gasoline pumps in Chicago. The aldermen were unanimously against it as contributing to unemployment, but their minds were still on beer.

"If you've ever been in a saloon you know that such a system wouldn't work," pointed out Ald. Nelson. "It needs an experienced bartender to prevent a big waste in beer."

Reluctantly, the jovial aldermen adjourned.

BANKER'S WIFE
WITH WARPISTOL

New York, Dec. 9.—(Special.)—Mrs. Dorothy Dore Hatch, 30 years old, wife of Axel Hatch, head of the banking firm of A. F. Hatch & Co., 40 Wall street, accidentally shot herself, according to the police, through the upper part of the body last night in the penthouse apartment she occupies with her husband about the seventy story building at 240 East 79th street.

Officials of Roosevelt hospital, where she was taken for treatment, said that although the bullet had passed through her body, she would live. The police said the banker had no permit for a pistol, which was a souvenir of the world war.

Detectors decided the shooting was accidental. They said Mrs. Hatch, who was described as being prominent in Chicago society circles, came across a German army pistol while cleaning out a closet. The pistol was a souvenir which Mr. Hatch brought back from France, where he served as captain in the 6th field artillery in the world war.

Mrs. Hatch entered the living room with the pistol to ask her husband what he wanted to do with the weapon. Then it was discharged.

Mr. and Mrs. Hatch were married in this city last August. The police were informed it was Mr. Hatch's second marriage.

"Just too late, Jim," he was told. "We just finished a barrel of beer."

As chairman of the committee on rules, Ald. Bowler said he thought the saloon license ordinance could be transferred from the finance committee to the judiciary committee.

Trades Wood for Teeth to Eat the Goose!

Fall River, Wis., Dec. 9.—(P)—Farmer Jones needed false teeth to do right by the Christmas goose. A Fall River dentist needed wood. So the farmer hauled to town five cords of wood and went home with a gleaming set of new teeth.

The transaction is typical of an increasing number of swaps in this region. Farmers are carrying fall bill folds, if any at all, with wheat at 45 cents and pork at 3 cents a pound.

Inquiry in four counties revealed that a trade may be made for almost anything except a tax receipt.

Mrs. Allan Callender wanted a radio for her home. The monthly cream check would not stand the expenditure.

She Gets the Radio.

But she got her radio from a man in Chicago who was pleased to get three chickens, a pound of butter and two sections of honey.

Her interest aroused, Mrs. Callender made a study of the extent of bartering and learned of many curious swaps, including that of the man who traded wood for teeth.

A Fall River merchant took two geese for a mattress for a child's bed. An enterprising implement dealer traded a tractor, disc, and plow for 120 cords of wood.

A garage man exchanged his services for his winter's supply of potatoes.

Pays off in Corn.

A farmer needing help employed a man for two hogs. Another farmer paid his hired man in corn.

A woman whose wash machine went out acquired a new one by making the first payment in wool and chickens.

A child wanted a toy sewing machine got it by swapping a young goat.

A Four-H club boy in need of seed potatoes met a Four-H club girl who wanted a lamb. A trade was arranged and every one was happy.

A Fall River merchant wanted a police dog to guard his store. A farmer gave him the dog for groceries.

He has been unconscious for two days. Booth is the only son of Gen. and Mrs. Bullington Booth, leaders of the Volunteers.

A BARKING DOG
THWARTS PLOT TO KIDNAP BABY

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 9.—(P)—Kidnappers, who police said patterned their scheme after the Lindbergh case, to-night attempted to abduct the two-year-old son of John R. C. Master, socially prominent young broker, from the Master home.

The barking of a police dog guarding the child's nursery door is believed to have frightened the intruders away after they had pried a metal screen from the window.

They fled as the baby's maid rushed into the room. A ladder was found leaning against the nursery window.

The attempt was made while Master and his wife were playing bridge at the home of friends.

Florence Lanther, the maid, told police she was reading downstairs when she heard a slight noise outside, followed by the dog's barking. Rushing upstairs, she said, she heard hurrying footsteps and entered the nursery just in time to see a figure escaping through the window.

There were footprints found at the ladder's base. Police said the marks near the home indicated the men escaped in an automobile.

Master is the son of Dr. Henry B. Master, secretary of the Presbyterian board of pensions. His wife is the daughter of John Beaver White of Villanova, Pa.

VICTOR, ICE MAN, GETS ALL 'HET UP'
OVER HIS HORSE

Victor La Rue of 2500 Warren boulevard walked into the Warren avenue station last night, sad of face and generally disconsolate. His horse, his sole means of support, was missing, he reported.

"What does your horse do for you?" inquired the desk sergeant.

"He draws my ice wagon," replied La Rue.

The desk sergeant looked out of the window at a thermometer, shivered, and guessed that the ice business couldn't be so profitable in these days, but promised that a search would be made for the lost horse.

"Meantime, I wouldn't worry," advised the sergeant. "If your horse has any sense he'll find his way home."

Which was exactly what the stray horse did some two hours later.

100,000 Argentine Farmers
Mass for March on Capital

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 9.—(P)—One hundred thousand farmers are preparing a march on Buenos Aires to demand congressional aid for lower rents, lower taxes, and cheaper credit. Genia districts in Santa Fe and Cordoba provinces were being organized tonight for the march and delegates from the Argentine Agrarian Federation left here for the grain centers to complete arrangements.

O.K. CREDIT; AID TEACHERS;
ACCUSE TAX STRIKE HEADCharge Bistor Held Out Money Put Up for Taxes.

James E. Bistor, executive secretary of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, whose suit to escape the payment of real estate taxes recently was lost in the United States Supreme court, yesterday was charged with the following acts:

1. Segregation of funds given him as president of the cooperative 219 Lake Shore Drive Building corporation for the payment of 1928, 1929, and 1930 realty taxes on the property.
2. Use of this money to pay attorney fees in his taxpayers' association in an effort to escape the payments.
3. Refusal to pay the taxes on the property after the stockholders in the building corporation specifically ordered payment to be made.

Accused by Stockholders.

These charges were made to County Judge Jarecki by Dr. Franklin H. Martin, surgeon; Carter Blatchford, school board trustee and head of a railway supplies company, and Secor Cunningham, insurance underwriter, all residents of the building and stockholders of the corporation. They appeared, they informed the judge, as a committee representing 11 of the 15 stockholders of the corporation. They said they favored an "ending of the tax strike and immediate payment of all taxes."

Angered at the charges Judge Jarecki demanded to know the reason for the delay in the committee's action. He asked why the stockholders had not taken united action against Bistor earlier.

"It was not until shortly before Nov. 23 that we discovered that Bistor and the board of directors had actually filed objections instead of paying the taxes," Dr. Martin told the judge. "Our building is composed of 44 apartments, 14 of which are owned by the stockholders. The affairs of the corporation are controlled entirely by Bistor and the other four directors."

Tax Money Set Aside.

"Our corporation is under no financial stress. The interest and principal retirements on our funded debt have been paid up for six months in advance. During the last three years we had continually paid aside money which we supposed was used to pay the taxes."

"Now we discover that the money has been placed in escrow in a bank and the taxes objected to under the general objection of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers. Immediately we called a meeting for Nov. 28. On that day, when the situation was exposed to all the stockholders, we voted by 11 to 3 to pay from funds now on hand 40 per cent of the total delinquent bill, which amounts to $69,128."

Judge Jarecki interrupted the recital to explain that penalties of 1 per cent a month which have accrued against this total bill will add approximately $4,000 more to its total.

"Well, even if the action didn't seem to do any good," Mr. Cunningham said.

$23,000,000 to Meet
Bond Debts.

Chicago banks, possibly with the aid of New York institutions, are ready to advance money for the $23,000,000 in bond and interest maturities which the city and school board must meet the first of the year. Furthermore, the banks are willing to buy enough tax warrants to give every city and school employee a Christmas pay check. The pay checks will certainly be for two weeks and may be for a month.

There is a string attached to the offer, however. Before the city gets any money it must give official assurance that it will keep its 1933 tax levies within the limit of $50,000,000 proposed by the citizens' committee on public expenditures.

The school board already has given such assurance in a resolution adopted by a 7 to 2 vote at its meeting Thursday pledging the board to restrict its levies to 48 millions, the limit set by the citizens' committee. These limits, of 50 and 48 millions respectively, are in each case exclusive of the bond and interest requirements of the city and school board.

Sargent Bankers' Spokesman.

Neither bankers nor city or school officials would comment, last night upon the arrangements to avoid the bond and interest default which for several months has loomed up as the most pressing fiscal problem of the two largest local taxing bodies. It was learned, however, that Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the citizens' committee, has been commissioned as spokesman for the banks in the matter.

The bankers, it was learned, were greatly heartened by the school board's action in voting to limit its 1933 levies, exclusive of bonds and interest, to 48 millions. This involved a cut of 24 millions from the tentative budget estimates of school department heads and a reduction of 5 millions from the actual 1932 tax levies of the board after they had been trimmed last spring at the insistence of the Sargent committee and the city council.

Will Meet with Officials.

Mr. Sargent is expected to confer today or early next week with Mayor Cermak and leaders of the city council. He will ask, it was learned, that the city take action similar to that of the school board, probably in the form of a resolution to be adopted by the city council affirming its intention of keeping the city levies for other purposes than funded debt requirements within 50 millions.

To date the city government has not ratified formally the Sargent committee's proposal. Mr. Sargent announced, however, following the initial conference with heads of various local governments at which the committee broached its plan to keep appropriations as they are most conservatively estimated at present.

Comparison with 1932 Levy.

In 1932 the city levied for the corporate, judgment tax, library, sanitation, working cash and police, fire and municipal employees' pension funds a total of $58,990,332. Under the Sargent committee's plan these levies for 1933 would be kept within 50 millions. Tentative estimates of the 1933 levies for these same funds were recently placed at $50,889,650.

Elimination of a 1933 working cash fund levy of $2,245,000 and reductions of $2,077,930 which are believed possible in the three pension fund levies would still leave a saving of $5,582,250 to be accomplished, with the corporate fund as the only possible target of any further large economies.

Upon an estimated 1933 corporate fund tax levy of $43,032,000, and utilizing in addition to taxes the miscellaneous revenues of the city, City Comptroller Szymczak set up a tentative 1933 corporate budget of $59,533,300. To accomplish a reduction of five and a half millions in the corporate levy it will be necessary to cut this budget below 47 millions.

Cornish Meets N. Y. Bankers.
The conviction that New York banks will participate with large Chicago institutions in helping the city to meet its funded debt obligations was strengthened yesterday by the optimistic statement which Mayor Cornish made last night in New York on the eve of his departure for Chicago.

He held an extended conference with representatives of New York banks, who for the last month have been discussing the Chicago financial situation with city officials and Chicago bankers. While he refused to go into detail on the results of the latest conference, he said that he was confident he was "paving the way" for New York purchases of Chicago tax warrants. In his talk with the bankers he stressed the efforts being made by the Sargent committee to reduce tax levies and governmental expenses, he said.

FOUND GUILTY OF RECEIVING STOLEN AUTOS

CRIMINAL COURT.

Palmer Plunkett, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; John Brockmeyer, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory; Tony Luccia, larceny, sentenced to 2 years in Pontiac reformatory; Sam Chennet, larceny, sentenced to 2 years in Pontiac reformatory; Fred Urbasak and Sam Ferro, larceny, sentenced to 1 year each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Morris Goldman, operator of the Reliance Auto Parts company, 2127 South State street, was found guilty of receiving stolen automobiles yesterday by a jury in the Criminal Court of Judge Thomas J. Lynch. Goldman, who lives at 5608 South Racine avenue, faces a sentence of one to twenty years in the penitentiary unless his motion for a new trial is granted on Dec. 23.

Prosecutor John Leonard Murphy recently assigned to automobile cases, pleaded for a conviction as warning to the criminal world that promiscuous automobile thefts must stop. He presented evidence that police found four men stripping automobiles in the Goldman yard on June 25. Among the cars, witnesses said, were those of Max Bookman, 2251 Maypole avenue, which had been stolen on the previous day, and Leo C. Keeley, 7843 East End avenue, stolen on June 6. Prosecutor Murphy pointed out that the charge of receiving stolen automobiles carries a sentence of one to twenty years, as compared with the one to ten years penalty on other charges of receiving stolen goods.

Big Brothers to Give 125 Christmas Baskets

Approximately 125 needy families will be given baskets of Christmas food and presents for the children by the Big Brothers' association. Details of the organization's Christmas program were arranged yesterday in a meeting at the Hotel La Salle.

TEACHERS WANT BOOKS, BUILDING COSTS CUT FIRST

Meeting Acts to Delay Salary Slashes.

Two hundred school teachers yesterday demanded that the board of education trim 1933 appropriations for textbooks and new buildings before touching their salaries. The action was taken by an assembly of teacher delegates at the Central Y. M. C. A. Salary cuts for all school employees are imminent as a result of the school board's decision Thursday to stay within the tax levies recommended by the citizens' committee on public expenditures. This committee proposed that the board keep all its levies for school purposes next year within $48,000,000, with the exception of the levy for bond redemption.

The teacher delegates also passed a resolution to stop their subscriptions for "newspapers unfair to the teachers."

Ralph E. Blount, who presided at the meeting, authorized to appoint a committee to call upon Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the citizens' committee, and question him on the personnel of his committee. The resolutions were offered by Henry W. Sumner, principal of the Scott school. He said that various teachers had asked him to submit the proposals.

Mrs. Hefferan Attacks Saving.
Earlier in the day Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, school trustee, attacked the proposed slash in the levies at an all day forum of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations at 208 South State street. Mrs. Hefferan voted against the reduction.

"Forty per cent of our school educational activities will be cut as a result," asserted Mrs. Hefferan. "It will probably take away our vocational advisers and our visiting teachers. It will mean a big slash in music and art instruction, cut physical education in half, do away with our night schools and possibly the normal schools. The slashed budget will mean a 10 per cent cut in teachers' salaries."

Howard P. Savage, business manager of the schools, called in all his department heads and gave out orders to prune their estimated expenditures as much as possible. In a conference with officials of the school engineers' and janitors' unions Mr. Savage said it might be necessary to broaden the lines of the employees' duties.

He explained that if it is necessary to reduce the number of men to bring about a saving in some schools it might be necessary for an engineer to wield a broom and a janitor to stoke a furnace. Sharing another employee's duties is prohibited by union rules.

Declines to Estimate Cuts.
Mr. Savage declined to surmise on how much salaries will have to come down to stay within the school board's anticipated income.

A school board committee of five to carry out the budget trimming will probably be announced today, Lewis E. Myers, president of the board, said. "Then we can start on the task, and it's going to be a big one," he added.

Superintendent William J. Hogan announced that the Christmas vacation will start at the close of school on Wednesday, Dec. 21, two days earlier than usual. This is necessary to make up a deficit in 1933 budget. The saving will amount to $200,000 for each day. Schools will reopen on Jan. 2.

Sample of tax bill for 1931 which will permit payments in two installments.

SAMPLE 1931 REALTY TAX BILLS ARE MADE PUBLIC BY TREASURER

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday made public sample copies of the 1931 real estate tax bills to be sent out shortly after Jan. 1. The bills are the first permitting taxes in Cook county to be paid in two installments.

The first half of 1931 taxes will become delinquent after March 1, and the second half after July 1, next year. The new tax system involves a change in the method of handling assessment revisions. Formerly the board of review held hearings on the assessments fixed by the board of assessors, and entered its changes before the books went to the county clerk and county treasurer for collection. Now the real estate tax books go direct from the new county assessor to the county clerk, who extends the taxes and forwards them to the county treasurer as ex-officio county collector.

The new board of tax appeals, which replaces the old board of assessors, will start hearing complaints against 1931 real estate assessments after the tax bills have gone out. Taxpayers who obtain reductions in their real estate assessments will find the change reflected in the second installment of their bill. Personal assessment complaints are heard, however, before the taxes are extended.

COUNTY TO QUIZ LAWYER WINSTON ON HIS TAX SUITS

The county commissioners yesterday began an investigation of alleged tax adjustments made by attorneys employed by Henry M. Winston, special county attorney who is under contract to collect delinquent real estate taxes from property forfeited in tax sales. The commissioners were told that chancery judges, with the assent of Winston's lawyers, had made many adjustments of delinquent real estate taxes in Circuit or Superior court suits.

The board was reminded that Winston's contract expires at the end of December. Several commissioners announced that they would oppose allowing him to prosecute suits which he has instituted and which will be pending in the courts after that date. The newly created tax department of the state attorney's office will be able to do all such work, they said. The board announced that the charges of tax adjustment would be investigated further.

Piano Tuner Held to Jury on Counterfeiting Charge

John Molnar, Austrian piano tuner, who was arrested a week ago by secret service agents under Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, yesterday was held to the grand jury in bonds of $15,000 by United States Commissioner Walker on charges of counterfeiting.

Apartment Owner Charges Janitors with Terrorism

Terroristic tactics of the Chicago Flat Janitors' union in attempting to oust a union janitor from his post in the Audrey Court apartments, 1133-57 Grace street, are related in a petition filed yesterday in the United States District court. The bill asks that the union be enjoined from harassing the building, molesting the tenants, interfering with the management, canceling the union card of the janitor and encouraging a boycott by other unions on the apartments.

The action is brought in the federal court because the complainant, Eugene L. Garey, is a resident of New York. He is represented by Attorney L. A. Stebbins and the law firm of Stebbins and L'Amoreaux. Garey has an interest of $30,240 in the 56-apartment building which is valued at $138,000. The building is now in receivership.

Names Union Officials.
The petition names officials of the union as defendants. These are Jerry J. Horan, president; Gus Van Hook, vice president; Claude P. Peters, secretary; and John Mattis, business agent. They were notified to appear before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson Monday afternoon when a temporary injunction is to be asked pending a hearing of the charges. These include bomb and death threats, alleged to have been made by union members.

The present janitor of the building is Peter Van Haeken, a member of the union for ten years. He was hired by Attorney John M. Allen, resident manager of the building and an associate of Attorney Stebbins. Allen was sent to the building as resident manager last July to protect Garey's interest.

The bill states that Allen and the receiver of the building, John C. Levinson, at all times employed union janitors. On Aug. 6 the post became vacant and Van Haeken, in behalf of the union, sent one Henry Heibrant to take the job. Heibrant, who had recently come to this country from Belgium, proved to be incompetent and at times refused to perform certain of his duties, the bill states.

Receiver Employs Janitor.
Heibrant was given fifteen days' notice. Van Haeken was employed by the receiver at the request of Allen. Van Haeken is said to be a competent and skillful janitor, whose discharge would imperil Garey's interest in the building.

"Within a few days after Heibrant was given notice Business Agent John Mattis called at the building and told the wife of Resident Manager Allen that Heibrant could not be discharged," the bill avers. "Mattis was advised as to the reasons, but refused to listen and arbitrarily ordered that Heibrant stay on the job. He was told the management of the building had not been turned over to him or the union and that Heibrant would stay discharged."

A day later, according to the petition, a man named DeSmed called at the building and said he had been sent to apply for the Heibrant vacancy. He was told Van Haeken had been employed and there was no vacancy.

"He returned to the building a few days later," the petition continues, "and was asked why he came back in view of his having been told the post was filled. DeSmed insisted there would be a vacancy and made threats to the management. He then followed the instruction of the union a strike would be called, deliveries of milk and coal prevented, and the place would be bombed."

Request Is Refused.
On Oct. 5, the day before Heibrant's notice expired, Mattis is said to have appeared to make the request that Heibrant be permitted to remain two weeks longer. The request was refused, but Heibrant was allowed to remain in his apartment for two more weeks without paying rent. On this condition Van Haeken was allowed to go to work by Mattis, it is said.

At the expiration of the two weeks Heibrant refused to leave, according to the bill, and Mattis threatened to "pull Van Haeken off the job" if Heibrant were not allowed to remain. Heibrant was removed by order of court.

Allen said he would produce affidavits from witnesses to whom Heibrant is alleged to have said his salary did not amount to what he had paid the union for the job.

On Nov. 15 Mattis returned to the building to accuse Van Haeken of doing some concrete work in the alley in violation of union rules, according to the petition. Edgar J. Allen, son of Attorney Allen and a student of engineering at Georgia Tech, told Mattis he did the concrete work and not Van Haeken, the bill states.

Chases Mattis from Alley.
"Mattis then threatened to 'bump off' young Allen," the bill charges. "The youth chased Mattis down the alley, but Mattis escaped and refused Allen's invitation 'to stand up and fight.'"

Following this incident Van Haeken received notice to appear before the executive committee of the union on Nov. 25. The bill alleges Levinson attempted to testify for Van Haeken, but was thrown forcibly out of the meeting. Van Haeken was found guilty of laying the concrete and ordered to leave his job by Dec. 15, according to the bill. The temporary injunction is asked to prevent the union from sending Van Haeken from the building.

ACCUSE BISTOR OF HOLDING CASH PUT UP FOR TAXES

Tax Strike Leader Ordered to Face Court.

as he took up Dr. Martin's recital. "Bistor refuses to pay the bills. He can't give any reasons. He doesn't even seem logical on the subject. No one can talk to him. He disputes with us all. He has imaginary reasons, I guess."

"We'd like to discover that our good tax money is being spent on legal fees and lawyers connected with the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, whose services we don't want and whose policies we abhor. Money we intended to go to the support of government is being used to fight government."

Orders Bistor to Appear.
Judge Jarecki called his clerk and ordered the objection filed by the association for the building corporation be placed on his call for Monday morning. He ordered that Bistor be notified personally to appear to answer for his acts.

"A grand jury once looked into the taxpayers' association and apparently found nothing upon which an indictment could be returned," remarked Judge Jarecki. "However, I may find plenty of reason to vent official wrath when I open my court on Monday morning. It appears that you gentlemen have been innocent victims."

Explanation from Bistor.
From his home last evening Bistor stated that the "whole thing is just a little difference of opinion between those three gentlemen and the board of governors."

As a leader in the organized campaign against the payment of taxes the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, in the name of Bistor, brought an injunction suit in the Circuit court to prevent the collection of real estate taxes for the years 1928 to 1930. The bill charged that personal property fraudulently had been left off the assessment rolls, placing an unbearable burden on realty taxpayers.

In the Circuit court and the Illinois Supreme court the case was lost by Bistor, both courts holding that omissions of one class of property did not invalidate assessments made against those three gentlemen and the board of governors.

GOSSIP COLUMNS
ON WASHINGTON
APPEAR IN OFFINGSome Writers May Pry, Tattle for Living.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The keynote and wastebasket school of journalism which has been developing in Washington with the publication of anonymous books is the extreme reaction to the unofficial censorship which the correspondents imposed upon themselves and their editors and custom imposed upon them.

This sort of reporting, however repugnant to the sensitive ethics of Washington journalism, is remarkably popular with the public which is suspicious of and sore at Washington and it predicts the development of a Washington type of gossip column in the next few years similar to the Broadway Jim-dash and triple dot column.

The Washington correspondents are more mindful of their ethics than any other group of newspaper reporters in the business and I doubt that any reputable Washington man can be induced to write such material, but some in time may be willing to pry and tattle for a living if that is the only way.

Protection for Drunken Dregs.
But it will be no problem to find columnists and the only question is whether the demand for the poison pen books which have been published in the last few years will break down the reticence of years. I believe that it will and that the privilege which has protected Washington people, particularly the drunken dregs of whom vague mention is made from time to time, will be largely dissipated.

The Washington correspondents enlarged the category of conduct and incidents which were deemed to be not legitimate news until they found that they had restricted themselves almost entirely to official business, considered statements and interpretation. In the exercise of this restraint much interesting and generally indelible information was withheld from print. The question arose: "What constitutes news?" and it was decided that a President's private habits didn't.

There is a middle ground, however, between that school of journalism which reports that a statesman had eggs on his vest or a blonde on his arm or saw down and so boom and that other which inverts government officers, including congressmen, with a holy privilege and depicts them as they walk to appear. The latter school, dealing impersonally with men in the government, is unable to suggest the personal characteristics which reflect their cynicism, their incompetence for big affairs, and their stolid purpose to keep their jobs. Unchal longed, they are able to establish themselves for years, to the detriment of the country, until Nature takes her course and others of the same type succeed them.

Stuffy and Pompos Lot.
The Republicans are a stuffy and pompous lot by comparison with the Democrats, and the coming of the new administration, with Jim Farley, the prize fight commissioner, as publicity man, probably will do much to warm the Washington copy. Mr. Farley was almost unknown to the Washington crowd a few months ago and there were a few of them who were at first inclined to underestimate him, but he has made a very favorable impression in the months since the convention and the informal ring-side manner of the prize fight commissioner will be a relief from the solemn importance of Republican statesmen who wouldn't endorse the Ten Commandments for publication.

As prize fight commissioner Mr. Farley made many inconsistent decisions, but instead of sinking under criticism, which has been one of Mr. Hoover's worst errors, he was always willing to explain why he had changed his mind. He suspended Primo Carnera for life, but admitted that he would not be able to make the sentence stick because Primo was a figure in the heavyweight championship and there could be no decision of the title unless he were reinstated. So Primo came back after a little while and Mr. Farley did not compel himself to stand by a bad decision.

Farley May Tell the Boys.
It is possible that when the Democrats come in there will be a tie for transom peering and keyhole listening, because it would be just like Mr. Farley to come out and tell the boys what Frank said and who was up to the house last night and who had how many beds for that matter.

The interest in government and government men never was as lively as it is today and the apparent desire for intimate prattle about Washington people is the natural consequence of years of aloof secrecy. The country knows all about the bootleggers, crooners and brokers of New York by now and the new curiosity demands to know what congressmen tried to duck for apples in the punch bowl at what drow senator's house the other mawning.

Women's Orchestra Ready for Auditorium Dedication

Organizations Merged

Rehearsals for the charity concert which will reopen the Auditorium next Wednesday under the auspices of the Bohemian club began yesterday at Orchestra hall, when Eric De Lamar combined the forces of the Women's Symphony and Civic orchestras. These in turn will combine with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, making a total organization of about 300 players. The huge band will be directed by Frederick Stock, and the soloists will be Elsa Alben, soprano; John Charles Thomas, baritone; and Josef Hofmann, pianist, all of whom are donating their services.

The entire house has been sold out for several days, including extra seats in the orchestra pit and extra chairs in the boxes. Many persons who attended the last performance of opera in the old house just before the Civic Opera company moved to 20 Wacker drive, preserved their seat checks and requested that the same seating be given them for the reopening.

42 GANG RECRUITS
BOYS OF 6, SAYS
POLICE CAPTAIN

Start Out as Aids to Auto Thieves.

Nearly all the charter members of the "42" gang on the west side are dead or in prison. But so efficient was the recruiting system of the pincers that now, in the opinion of Acting Captain Philip Parodi of the Maxwell street police district, the organization has 600 members.

"They are the terror of this part of the city," the captain declared. "I doubt if any other body of criminals in the country has learned better how to beat the law."

Recruit Boys of 6 Years.
"Recruits come in when they are only 6 or 7 years old. It sounds silly, but it's true. The bigger boys teach the little fellows how to open the doors of automobiles with skeleton keys. A big one stands a little way off and when he sees that the doors have been opened he gets in and drives away. A quarter or 50 cents goes to the first grader when the car is stripped and the parts sold."

"Suppose we catch the little fellow. What can be done about him? He goes to the juvenile court and is reprimanded and sent home. The first thing he learns is to keep his mouth shut and hate the police. They never tell us a thing from the time they first open a car door until they are shot and killed or sent to the penitentiary."

Drivers Outdistance Police.
"Once in a stolen automobile the larger boys are practically safe. Policemen can't without public censure shoot at youths of 15 or 16. Also they can't drive their cars as fast as these youngsters. The boys hold practice sessions on Sunday mornings. One of their tests is to sweep an automobile from a street into a narrow alley at 50 miles an hour."

"Auto theft is too slow for the nearly grown lads. They go into hold-ups and are finally caught. But when the older brothers go the younger ones carry on."

Capt. Parodi said the "42" mob was formed only about twelve years ago and that there had been no such problem of youthful crime before and during the war.

"Post-graduates" Seized.
Yesterday nine of the "post-graduates," ranging in age from 20 to 25 years, were arrested by a Maxwell street squad in a flat at 2921 West Adams street. One man, Harry Brunson, 1849 West Roosevelt road, had a pistol and a map of the offices of the Archer Avenue Building and Loan association, 3217 Archer avenue. The police had received information that the office was to be held up.

Among those taken in the raid were Joseph Galliano, 22 years old, 824 South Hermitage avenue, whose elder brother was killed by rival gangsters recently, and Joseph Cheneau, 22 years old, 1016 South Hermitage avenue, who has elder relatives with police records. The nine were lined up at a showup last night, but there were no identifications in connection with recent crimes.

THREATENS JAIL
OF CLOSED BANKFisher Sees Contempt in Receivership Business.

Walter J. Cox, who was president of the Chicago Bank of Commerce when it closed on June 25, and 13 directors of the bank at that time were threatened with jail sentences for contempt of court yesterday by Circuit Judge Harry Fisher. He held that in diverting funds of properties for which the bank was receiver into the general funds of the bank they were guilty of contempt.

OBJECTS TO POSING
SO ASKS A DIVORCE

Bridgman, Conn., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Gertrude McDonald Chase Shinn, wife of Everett Shinn, artist of the Westport colony, who is famous for his nude paintings, demanded a divorce here today because her husband insisted on photographing her without benefit of raiment.

Posing for her husband when he wielded his paint brush was not unpleasant, Mrs. Shinn asserted, but posing while his camera clicked shocked her sensibilities and constituted cruelty.

Once at a musical at her home Mrs. Shinn said, Mrs. Paul Hartley, society matron of Westport, was at the grand piano when Shinn walked in, slammed shut the top of the piano, turned out the lights, and roared: "It's time to go home now; get the hell out of here!"

A specific court order to keep the funds of the receivership separate from the bank's general assets. He was told that while separate accounts had been kept for the funds the money itself had been put in with the bank's funds. He continued the case until today, when the same statement was repeated to him.

"The bank's officials are responsible for this money," Judge Fisher ruled. "They laid themselves open to contempt proceedings when they mingled the funds in defiance of a specific court order. The men who were appointed a receiver must bear the brunt of this action."

"If the bond is sufficient to protect every one of those funds fully, I'll forgive the contempt," said Judge Fisher. "Otherwise these men will have to go to jail."

These cited in the case with Cox are Henry S. Henschen, Delano C. Letts, John Guilleman, Clark Washburne, Edward M. Heinz, H. G. Towne, Adolph Lindstrom, G. W. Springer, J. H. Jenkins, J. M. Trevelyan, Philip Weinheimer, and John J. Nichols.

The case came to Judge Fisher's attention on Nov. 25, when Sam Selikowitz, whom Judge Fisher had appointed receiver, moved to the bank for an apartment building at 4016-23 Melrose street, appeared in court with a petition asking that the bank's former receiver, turn over to him $455 in funds belonging to the building which he had collected.

INSULT GETS HIS
VALISE ON FLIGHT

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

ATHENS, Greece, Dec. 9.—[Special.] Insult today received a large wardrobe trunk which was sent to him from Paris. It was ordered from Paris ten days ago by Insult and was the remainder of the heavy baggage left behind when he fled to Greece.

Whether Insult had the trunk forwarded here in anticipation of being extradited to the United States in the near future to stand trial on charges of embezzlement and larceny, or whether he believes he would need it for a long stay in Greece, could not be learned.

Meanwhile Andrew J. Vlachos, assistant state's attorney of Cook county, Illinois, completed translation of the documents required in the extradition proceedings and began drafting other papers in Greek for submission to the foreign office.

YANKEES INJURED SCALING HIGHEST PEAK IN CHINA

Two Face Amputation of

BY JOHN POWELL.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
SHANGHAI, Dec. 9.—The scaling of Mt. Minya Konka, "mystic mountain" of the Niarong range, which is located between the western provinces of Szechwan and Szechuan in Tibet, has cost the Chinese-American expedition a heavy price. Next to Mt. Everest, the peak is believed to be the highest on the Asiatic continent.

The Tribune correspondent today received two letters, written Nov. 1 and Nov. 5, from Tatsienlu stating that Arthur B. Emmons of Boston, one of the explorers, had returned to Tatsienlu with his feet so badly frozen that amputation possibly will be necessary. The loss of several toes is certain.

Richard L. Birdsall of Port Chester, N. Y., another member of the expedition, is seriously ill. He faces the amputation of five fingers which were frozen, according to the messages. The party is staying at the home of Robert Cunningham, a British missionary.

Call for Physician.

One letter said that a telegram had been sent to Dr. Rudolph Grook, a member of the American Baptist mission at Yachow, Szechwan, asking him to hurry to Tatsienlu in order to attend the suffering explorers. The distance between Yachow and Tatsienlu—200 miles—is almost impassable because of the mountains.

The letters were written by Jack Theodore Young, Chinese member of the party. They were carried by a runner from Tatsienlu to Chengtu, capital of Szechwan, thence by motor car to Chungking on the Yangtze river. From Chungking the letters were brought to Shanghai by a Chinese plane, piloted by an American.

"We have climbed Mount Konka [known as Gonggaga by the Chinese] and planted the Chinese and American flags at the highest pinnacle ever scaled by Americans anywhere," Young wrote. "The peak is believed to be 23,000 feet high, but we have paid a terrible price in suffering."

Crawls; Feet Are Frozen.
"Emmons' feet were so badly frozen it was necessary for him to crawl a considerable distance after dismounting from his horse in order to reach the door of the Rev. Mr. Cunningham's house."

According to the letters the party scaled Mount Konka by making gradual ascents and establishing camps. The last one was pitched at 21,000 feet, whence the final dash to the top was accomplished.

The party, the letters said, had considerable success zoologically and had bagged a family group of blue sheep.

Members of the expedition experienced no trouble with the natives, who respected the passport issued by the Nanking government.

USES 3 CHILDREN AS LURE FOR HIS BEGGING; JAILED

From his post in the traffic control tower at Michigan avenue and Jackson boulevard, James Kennealy, south park policeman, watched a man, woman and three little girls begging last night on Michigan boulevard.

While he looked on a kindly couple took them into a restaurant and fed them. Then the family group emerged and continued its solicitations, with evident success. Policeman Kennealy descended to the street and went to investigate.

At his approach the man snatched up the youngest girl and fled. Questioning the woman, he learned that she was Mrs. Mary Carpenter. Her husband, who had fled, was Edward, 32 years old, and he had carried Jessie, 3 years old, with him. The other girls were Rose, 8, and Helen, 5 years old. Carpenter returned presently.

Carpenter admitted that he had collected $5 in the 15 minutes after supper campaign which Kennealy had watched. When the policeman started to call a patrol wagon, Carpenter took him and the family across the street and drove the party to police headquarters at 11th and State streets in his own sedan, a 1925 model.

At police headquarters Carpenter said that his home was in Pacific Beach, Cal., but that since early November he has been driving all over the country, using his wife and children as "properties" for his begging campaigns. The family drove into Chicago yesterday from Columbus, O.

Carpenter and his wife were locked up. The three children, who refused to tell anything about their parents' activities, were sent to the Juvenile home. None of the children had an overcoat.

LEAGUE DODGES ACTION ON JAPAN; SEEKS U. S. HELP

Refers Manchurian Row
Back to Committee.

BY JAY ALLEN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
GENEVA, Dec. 9.—With the passing of that Japanese hurricane Yokus Matsuoka, who yesterday defied the league of nations to attempt to punish Japan, the league's special assembly was able today to quietly pass the Manchurian dispute on to its special committee of nineteen.

The committee was charged, without the Japanese making a single reservation, with a study of the Lytton report, the observations of the two parties to the dispute, China and Japan, and the opinions and suggestions expressed in the last three days before the assembly and with drawing up proposals with a view to a settlement of the dispute. The committee is to submit these proposals to the assembly at the earliest possible moment.

Play Down Condemnation.

With the documents was sent along also the draft resolution of Spain, the Irish Free State, Czechoslovakia and Sweden demanding that Japan be punished, which yesterday set Matsuoka off into his "crucifixion speech."

To allay Japanese fears that public opinion might mistake the draft resolution for something already passed, Paul Hymans, Belgian president of the assembly, said it is understood that "no suggestions or proposals made during the assembly can prejudice the opinion of the committee, which remains entirely free."

So the Japanese allowed the draft to go on. Whether they trust most in Matsuoka's warning yesterday or the moderating influence of the British to prevent the committee from devising any rash suggestions was not stated.

Sound Out U. S.

As the time approaches formally to invite the United States to join the committee of conciliation which is to work out a settlement of the problem, Washington's opinion is being sounded out. The committee of nineteen will, of course, recommend a committee of conciliation, but they would like to know whether the invitations to the United States and Russia to join will be accepted.

Maxim Litvinov, Russian foreign commissar, will arrive Sunday, ostensibly for the disarmament conference, and he will reveal Russia's intention toward the manner of settlement of the dispute, it is hoped.

American representatives here have preserved silence, but allow it to be understood that Washington will not make up its mind until it sees what instructions the assembly is willing to lay down for its commission over the Japanese protest.

PROGRAM TO LOP TAXING BODIES TO BE READY SOON

Merriam Urges Action for Interstate Co-operation

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Prof. Charles B. Merriam, of the University of Chicago, told the Senate committee yesterday that a program of measures looking towards reduction of unnecessary taxing agencies and cost of government in Cook county, now under preparation by groups sponsored by Mayor Cermak and Governor Horney, probably will be ready by Christmas. They will be submitted to the Senate committee for recommendation to the legislature soon after it meets next month. They represent governmental remedies which are expected to have a good chance of getting through the general assembly.

Meanwhile Prof. Merriam urged the investigating legislators to develop the long time idea at Springfield this winter of working out many problems affecting the Chicago metropolitan area through interstate compact between Illinois and Indiana, and possibly Wisconsin and Michigan. Police, water supply, sanitation, and parks were among affairs on which interstate agreements might accomplish much, Prof. Merriam remarked, pointing out that a start already has been made in the joint measures on the part of Illinois and Indiana in the matter of a regional port commission.

He pointed to "Free Cities." Prof. Merriam reiterated the views set forth in his survey for the University of Chicago, in which he developed the idea that inasmuch as commerce, industry, business, and crime pay no heed to state boundaries in metropolitan areas which sprawl across state lines, the compact system might serve to establish these areas somewhat similar to those of the old "free cities" of Europe. He pointed to what has been done by the port authority of New York, embracing New York and New Jersey.

Separate statehood for the Chicago region, as the state of Illinois, embracing parts of Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin, also was suggested by the professor as offering possibilities well worth studying.

"It would involve the consent of the state legislatures and the subsequent consent of congress," he said. "As a

Court Relieves Ex-Wife of Carrying Alimony Load

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, Dec. 9.—A contract calling for a monthly payment of $555 by Mrs. Violet Drummond to her ex-husband, Capt. Edmund Peel, would not oppose divorce action by her, was ruled "illegal" today by the Chancery court division. The court held that the document was based on collusion.

Besides herself, the plaintiff's only witness was her brother, Sir John Buchanan-Jardine. Both alleged that Capt. Peel had threatened to oppose the divorce action unless he was paid and Sir John declared that Capt. Peel had mentioned a flat sum of $150,000.

Tells of Male's Threats. Justice Bennett ruled that the money provided for in the contract, which was drawn up by solicitors, amounted to payments in order to restrain him from opposing the suit. Capt. Peel denied this and insisted on payment of installments which he claimed were in arrears.

Mrs. Drummond testified that she returned to London in 1925 and informed Capt. Peel at their flat that she meant to sue for divorce.

"You will not bring divorce proceedings against me," she testified. Capt. Peel replied, "I will bring you to pay if you want to divorce me."

After the divorce suit was filed, she continued to pay Capt. Peel $555 monthly, although a court having said she was not to pay him.

Says She Feared "Fuss." "What for?" the court asked. "Not to make a fuss," Mrs. Drummond answered. After the first incident, Mrs. Drummond said, her brother interviewed Capt. Peel. Sir John testified that Capt. Peel told him he did not want his wife to get a divorce, because he had no income, and that he would not pay her anything.

"I asked him what sum he was thinking of, and he mentioned $150,000," Sir John testified. "I pointed out that that was a large sum of money and that we did not know how we could raise it. He said he felt sure if my sister were properly approached she would make some arrangement."

Ellie Whaley, solicitor for Capt. Peel, who negotiated the contract, denied there was any situation concerning the divorce suit, but the bench ruled that Capt. Peel had been paid to keep him quiet.

many of these lie in more than one state. Officials of Cook county, Ill., and of Lake county, Ind., correspond and confer, but do not always cooperate in meeting sewage, juvenile and police problems. Subjects even in murder cases have been hustled across the state line from Gary without attention to the formalities of extradition. Water has been sold by Chicago to private consumers in Hammond.

"The New York port authority operates interstate bridges and tunnels, supervises railway belt lines, and works out agreements between truckmen and shippers of food products sold in Manhattan. It is a long jump from harbor supervision to suburban transit or food marketing agreements, but the inter-relationships of metropolitan commerce and government are such that like developments in the Chicago area need not come as a surprise."

Sees $15,000,000 Yearly Saving. An estimated saving of $15,000,000 a year for the 101 Illinois counties outside of Cook in two departments alone—school and highways—was declared possible in the report on downstate government presented by Griffiths and Associates.

The Griffiths study recommends the construction and maintenance of Illinois highways outside of Cook county by the state department of public works and buildings. It would include the bond issue and state aid systems, local public roads, and city streets that are connecting links in the state systems. It calls for a metropolitan highway organization for Cook county to perform similar work.

The report estimates that $5,500,000 would be saved annually downstate if its proposals were adopted. It is shown that in 1931 31 per cent of all state and local government expenses in Illinois, coming to $72,000,000 downstate, was for roads, and that there are 3,500 downstate governmental units which control road building and upkeep.

The Griffiths report proposes elimination of the offices of county highway superintendent and local highway commissioner, and the reduction of school districts downstate from 13,085 to fewer than 500 as recommended by the report, which calls for the division of hundreds of rural school districts and the combining of high school and elementary districts. It declares the number of elected school district officials could be reduced from 47,000 to about 2,000. It calls for abolition of 4,571 school township treasurers and 1,637 school township trustees, saving $600,000 in need, less salaries. It also calls for abolition of the office of county superintendent of schools, saving another $600,000.

Axel Lonnquist of Wilmette argued that suburban taxpayers are more interested in cutting cost of government and cutting out overlapping agencies than in any plan involving annexation.

"The country towns are for consolidation of governments," he said. "In the schools there is much overlapping. In New Trier township we pay $12,000 a year to a town treasurer, whose office should be taken over by the county treasurer."

But any talk of absorbing Oak Park, Evanston, and other suburbs is nonsense. They won't stand for losing their autonomy.

The full commission on taxation and expenditures, of which Senator Martin Carlson of Moline is the head, is to meet at Springfield on Tuesday to take up downstate problems. Other members who have sat in the Chicago hearings are Senator Adelbert H. Roberts, and Representative Michael F. Hennerty of Wilmington and Elmer J. Schnackenberg, who head of the subcommittee on local government.

OPEN OGDEN AVE. VIADUCT LINKING WEST AND NORTH

20 Million Project.

With a pair of gold shears Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton yesterday afternoon cut a streamer of ribbon and officially opened the Ogdan avenue improvement project, linking Lincoln park and the west side.

Officials, representatives of civic organizations, and spectators shivered in the cold as they waited for the ribbon to be cut. With its parting the improvement project had its first traffic jam. Hundreds of motorists raced to lead the dash across the last gap in the broad highway connecting the north and west sides.

The project connects two previously widened stretches of Ogdan avenue. It consists of two bridges, one across the north branch of the river and the other across the Ogdan canal, linked by a viaduct over Goose island. The viaduct has a roadway of 78 feet wide, with two 15 foot sidewalks. The bridges, each approximately 280 feet long, have roadways 60 feet wide with 10 foot sidewalks.

Cost is $4,000,000.

The improvement is 3,400 feet long, extending from Rees street on the north to the Chicago and North Western railroad tracks at Cornell street. The first shovel of clay was removed Feb. 10, 1931. The net cost of the improvement was $4,000,000, which was $100,000 under the contract price and $300,000 under the bond issue voted in 1929.

The entire Ogdan avenue improvement had been under way 14 years and cost approximately $20,000,000. Of this sum approximately $16,000,000 was spent in widening Ogdan avenue, northwest and southwest of Goose island. This work, completed under the former city administration, might have been done for half this sum, civic organizations have charged.

Corporation Counsel Sexton dedicated the improvement in the absence of Mayor Carmichael, who is in New York. Mr. Sexton also was the principal speaker at a luncheon in the Parkway hotel, following which a parade formed at Center and Clark streets. High school bands and American Legion drum corps furnished music for the march to the north approach of the improvement.

Cuts Two Ribbons.

At the north end the corporation counsel cut a ribbon opening the span to north side residents. The parade proceeded to the south end, where a similar ceremony took place.

The celebration was sponsored by the West Central association, West Side Commercial league, Center Street Business association, North Central association, North Avenue Business association, North Halsted Street Business association, West Division Business association, Lake Park Edwanis, and other civic organizations.

Among those assisting were Ernest J. Krueger, member of the board of local improvements; State Senator Edward O'Grady, marshal of the parade; Ald. J. B. Walter (43d), Dorsey Crowe (42d), Frank Konkowski (31st), George D. Kells (28th), and Jeremiah P. Leahy (27th).

Enforce Law, Courtney Warns Heads of 100 Towns

State's Attorney Courtney told representatives of all country towns in Cook county yesterday that he expected the county to be kept clean under his administration. More than 100 presidents of village boards and chiefs of police gathered in the Criminal court building for the meeting called by the newly elected state's attorney. After the closed meeting, Prosecutor Courtney said he had told the village officials they are responsible for the enforcement of laws in their own communities. "How about gambling?" Courtney was asked. "That's a violation of the law," he told reporters.

SENATE CLERK THREATENS TO KILL REPORTER

Angered by Magazine Article.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The senate press gallery provided its own story of a revolver and threats of violent death today.

It happened because of a senate employee's resentment at having been included in an article in a current magazine exposing some of the more notorious extravaganzas of congress.

Charles F. Pace, veteran financial clerk of the senate; Charles Stevenson of the senate staff of the United Press, and Joseph E. Willis, assistant superintendent of the senate press gallery, were the principal actors.

As author of the magazine article, Stevenson had devoted four lines to a mention of the automobile provided for Pace and the expenditure of $1,700 in repair on the car.

Takes Item to Heart.

Pace, a man well along in years, was described by friends as having taken the item to heart.

Shortly after the press gallery opened this morning he called Willis, the assistant superintendent, and in vigorous language threatened to kill Stevenson. A few minutes later Pace came up to the gallery, demanding Stevenson, who was absent.

Pace repeated his threats and ended with "and I've got the thing to do it with." He pulled a revolver, flourished it wildly in Willis' direction and again declared he would kill Stevenson. He was finally persuaded to leave and a police guard was placed over the gallery entrance.

Representatives of the press gallery took the matter up with senate authorities. Many of them had been mentioned in the same magazine article. When approached, they proved noticeably disinterested. One explained that the gun could not be taken from Pace, because as a disarming officer of the senate he had a permit to carry firearms.

Curtis Would Defend Pace.

Vice President Curtis was informed of what had taken place and replied that he was sorry that half the members of the press gallery had not been shot up. He said he would defend Pace if the clerk were called to account.

Later, Mr. Curtis explained that this was intended in fun, but he asserted that newspapers, particularly the Chicago Tribune, had told the "stinkiest" lie about him.

It was not until Senator John J. Blaine, Wisconsin radical, used the incident as a starting point for a speech on police conduct during the recent Chicago riot march, that the officials could be stirred into saying they would take action.

Calls Police Insulting.

Senator Blaine charged that police who handled the marchers, bottling them up under guard in a vacant lot, had used insulting language to women and that "liquor had flowed freely among them." Their conduct was "arrogant," said the senator, and their language "abusive, disgraceful, and such as could be uttered only by those who had learned it in brothels."

"I am not surprised," said Senator Blaine, "that such an example should encourage a senate employee to draw a pistol and threaten a member of the press gallery."

Senator George H. Moses (Rep., N. H.), thereupon stated that as chairman of the senate rules committee he had looked into the Pace incident and that the committee would meet and take action tomorrow.

Charles Stevenson, author of the article, in the meantime is covering another beat. Which does not at all affect Francis M. "Little Joe" Stephenson, chief senate correspondent of the Associated Press, who must stay on the job.

PUBLIC EMPLOYEE, IF UNPAID, MAY NOW ASK RELIEF

The county bureau of public welfare was authorized by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday to accept applications for relief from all municipal employees whose salaries are in arrears.

This will affect city, county, school board, park board, and sanitary district employees, it was explained.

Joseph L. Moss, director of the bureau, said that the applications will be handled in the same manner as applications from the idle.

"The applicant will have to get a statement from the head of his department that he is destitute," he said. "His salary must be at least two months in arrears and must be less than $300 a month. He will not be given more than $50 of relief in any calendar month. And he must arrange to have the relief advances deducted from his salary when it is paid."

Award Grocery Contract.
The commission also voted to award a $500,000 contract to the National Tea company for the supplying of staple groceries to families on the relief rolls for one month. An order promulgated by the commission some time ago, that persons receiving relief must turn in their state automobile license plates if they own automobiles, was said to be put into effect.

SCHLEICHER WINS RIGHT TO RULE SINGLE HANDED

Prevails on Reichstag to Adjourn Indefinitely.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Staff Writer.]
BERLIN, Dec. 9.—The Reichstag today granted Chancellor Schleicher the right to rule single handedly. The Reichstag adjourned indefinitely after Schleicher had secured the support of the National Socialists, Catholic Centerists, Bavarian People's party and small conservative groups.

"Give the government a chance to prove what it can do," was their argument.

The Socialists and communists struggled to force Schleicher to present his declaration of policy on Monday, but the Hitlerites came to the new chancellor's rescue by voting for an adjournment.

EAGLES LOTTERY OPERATORS GIVEN TERMS IN PRISON

Trio Sentenced to 21 Months, Fined $28,000

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Conrad H. Mann, president of the Knickerbocker City Chamber of Commerce, Republican politician and former head of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, was sentenced to five months in prison and fined $12,000 by Federal Judge Frank J. Coleman today for violation of the national lottery law.

Frank E. Herling, editor of the Eagles magazine and trustee of Notre Dame university, was sentenced to four months and fined $4,000, and Edward C. McGuire, professional promoter, was sentenced to one year and a day in prison and fined $12,000.

Sentences Run Concurrently.

Although the prison sentences were imposed on each of two counts in the cases of all three defendants, Judge Coleman's sentence provided that the sentences run concurrently on each of the two counts. A maximum punishment of three years and $12,000 fine was provided under the law.

Judge Coleman granted a ten day stay of execution to allow the defendants to carry appeals to the Circuit Court of Appeals and to obtain release on bond pending hearing of the appeals.

"I believe," said Judge Coleman, in imposing sentence, "that the lottery was run honestly, with the qualification that many of the purchasers of tickets were not aware that the promoters were benefiting to the extent of $4,000,000 and had no idea that the contribution to charity would be so small."

Believes They Took Chance.

"Maybe they (the defendants) did not know they were violating a criminal statute; it may well be that they would not have done it had they known it was a crime. However, I believe they knew they were skirting very close to the criminal law and took the chance."

"As to the guilt of the three of them—Herling is the least culpable. He had the smallest interest, the least profit. I think the most guilty of all was McGuire, who was in that business."

A verdict of guilty with a recommendation for leniency was returned Dec. 2 by a jury which deliberated six hours.

The lotteries were conducted in a series of frolics and dances staged by the Eagle series throughout the country in 1931. The government contended that Mann, as head of the bazaar department of the Eagles, contracted with McGuire to promote a series of entertainments for the ostensible purpose of raising funds for the Eagle series. Of the total income from the sale of tickets the local lodges were to retain 25 per cent.

The terms of the contract stipulated that Mann and McGuire were to split the net profits 50-50, according to the government. Checks produced by the prosecution indicated that Mann and McGuire split $260,000.

WOMEN ENLIST TO AID DRIVE FOR WELFARE FUND

1,000 Volunteer for Work as Solicitors.

A thousand women yesterday offered their services as solicitors to help the Emergency Welfare Fund of Cook County raise the remainder of the $7,500,000 sought to finance five major private charities in the care of thousands of needy families.

The women are members of the Children's Benefit League, the Federation of Aged and Adult Charities, and the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs. They met at the Palmer house to receive instructions from Mrs. William P. Hodgkins, chairman of the women's division of the fund, preparatory to the solicitation of neighborhood stores and the smaller concerns in the loop area not covered by the trades and industries division.

Start Task on Monday.

Next week, Mrs. Hodgkins announced, will be designated as women's week in the fund drive. The women's activity will begin on Monday. In the loop booths will be placed in the hotels and stores and public buildings where members of the Junior League, headed by Mrs. Robert Ripley, will enroll contributors. Women's clubs and church groups are organizing to carry on the work.

R. Douglas Stuart, president of the Emergency Welfare fund, addressed the women at the Palmer house meeting.

"Money contributed to the fund is well and wisely spent," said Mr. Stuart. "We have heard reports that sixty cents on the dollar goes to the workers, but this is not true. Only three-tenths of 1 per cent is the cost of raising this $7,500,000 fund and the overhead cost will not exceed 9 per cent."

The raising of this fund has been slower than we had hoped but we still feel that we will reach our goal. It is essential that those suffering from hunger and cold should be fed. We must dig deeper in their pockets."

Robert A. Gardner, chairman of the campaign, reported that yesterday's contributions had brought the fund to a total of $3,326,114. Leading the subscription list was $50,000 from Lord and Thomas. Another large gift of $25,000 came from the Milk Distributors and Pure Milk association. Employees of the City National bank sent $8,916 while the bank itself sent $2,500.

Cardinal Makes Appeal.

Cardinal Mundelein issued a message last night calling on pastors of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago to join other faiths in supporting the Emergency Welfare Fund drive. More than 1,500 churches of all faiths will take cognizance of the fund in their services tomorrow and special collections will be taken.

"The drive this year is rendered necessary because federal and state authorities have insisted that the people of the city show their interest and cooperation before any further relief can be expected from the state and federal funds," the cardinal's message said. "The drive in previous years was rendered successful by large donations from wealthy donors or successful business houses. Nearly all these are no longer in a position to repeat this. From the beginning this year it was quite apparent that if the drive was to succeed the funds must come from a multitude of small givers."

JUDGE FITZHENRY MENTIONED FOR APPEALS COURT

Federal Judge Louis Fitzhenry, of the southern district of Illinois, who was mentioned in Washington dispatches yesterday for promotion to the Circuit Court of Appeals, is now holding court in Chicago because of the pressure of business in the northern district.

Congressman William H. Dieterich, who takes his seat as the junior senator from Illinois next March, said that Judge Fitzhenry was "mentioned most prominently" in capital discussions resulting from Judge James H. Wilkeson's withdrawal of his own name from consideration for promotion to the Court of Appeals.

GOOD FELLOWS' BIG DAY IS JUST 2 WEEKS AWAY

Christmas Giving to Make Their Holiday Merrier.

Two weeks from today, the Good Fellows will storm the strongholds of gloom in their twenty-fourth annual campaign in the cause of Christmas cheer. Laden with baskets, this army will invade homes that poverty locks against Santa Claus. Young children will be saved from bitter disappointments. Parents, suffering from the adversity of the times, will learn that there is much kindness left in this world. There will be a merry Christmas in households where the holiday would otherwise have been just another gloomy day.

After performing their missions, the Good Fellows will return to their own homes for Christmas celebrations with their own families. They will be happier themselves for having witnessed the gratitude of the needy.

It's not too late to join these Good Fellows if it would make your Christmas the happier. The cost isn't much, an hour's time and an inexpensive basket of toys, candy, and some holiday foodstuffs.

There's a coupon on this page. Mail it to Good Fellows, in care of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, or call in person at THE TRIBUNE public service office, Dearborn and Madison streets. The telephone number is Superior 6100.

The Good Fellow headquarters will furnish you with the name of a family, or several families, if you like, who are worthy of your kindness. These families have been investigated and recommended by the United Charities (Catholic); the Cook County Bureau of Public Welfare; the Juvenile court, or some other affiliate of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies.

If you are going to be too busy to deliver a basket on the day before Christmas, you need not be deprived of all the pleasure of being a Good Fellow. You can make a cash donation, 100 per cent of which will be spent on baskets for the poor. THE TRIBUNE pays all administration costs.

FRENCH DEPUTIES SPURN HERRIOT'S PLAN TO PAY U. S.

Insist on Guarantee First of a New Deal.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, Dec. 9.—The Herriot-MacDonald formula for meeting the war debt payments due the United States next Thursday, with the formal reservation that they be the last payments made until the American congress has granted a downward revision, was judged insufficient today by the French chamber of deputies as represented by its two most powerful committees.

The finance committee voted, 26 to 6, with 18 absent or abstaining, against any payment at all.

The foreign affairs committee voted unanimously to refuse all payment until congress has given formal assurance that America will sit at an international conference for revision of intergovernmental debts.

Read American Note.
The two committees acted in full knowledge of the latest American note to France, which was read to them by Premier Herriot. Their vote did not constitute a direct judgment of Herriot's policy, because the premier did not tell them he had taken any formal decision on making Thursday's payment.

The premier and Finance Minister Louis Germain-Martin contented themselves with outlining the conversation held yesterday with Prime Minister MacDonald and Chancellor of the Exchequer Chamberlain of Great Britain, at which the decision was reached to push negotiations with Washington to obtain definite assurance that revision would be granted after the Thursday installment is paid.

The adverse votes of the two committees are a sharp setback to Herriot in his effort to keep his country from defaulting. The most discouraging aspect of the day for Herriot was that the Socialists, who at first rabidly opposed payment, and then wavered, now are lined up solidly on their original positions.

Herriot Aids Dodge Issue.
Even their leader, Leon Blum, who has been a first partisan for payment since the beginning, gave up the fight to coax his flock into the fold and dodged the meeting of the finance committee. Herriot's own followers on the committee avoided an embarrassing dilemma by going to call on sick aunts or frankly abstaining from voting.

In parliamentary circles Herriot's chances for Monday, when the chamber will debate the debt question, are quoted very low. But there is plenty of precedent for the deputies voting one way in committee and another in public debate, where the government's life is at stake. Friends of the government are counting on Herriot's oratorical magic plus ingenious political maneuvering to save the day.

Reveals U. S. Weapon.
Herriot was liberally heckled in the hearings before the two committees, especially the finance committee. Jacques Stern, independent left deputy, pointed out a formidable weapon which America holds in case of need but which it is obviously reluctant to use. It is article 7 of the Mellon-Berenger accord, which specifies that France is to deposit $4,025,000,000 worth of gold bonds corresponding in number to the annuities specified in the accord and redeemable as the annuities are paid. These bonds, according to the accord, may be placed on the market by the American government at any time desired and in any quantity, with the reserve that France has the option of redeeming them before they are offered for sale.

Warns Against Break with U. S.
As Stern took pains to explain, it would be disastrous to French credit either to have these bonds brutally dumped on the market or to have to shell out nearly 4 billion dollars, more than the entire gold reserves of the Bank of France, in order to redeem them.

Stern warned against creating an open conflict with America which might incline the Washington government to measures of reprisal. Herriot in guardedly outlining his conversation with MacDonald, said negotiations had been engaged in with Washington to obtain a promise of general debt revision. He is believed to have explained to the committees that refusal of Washington to accept the Franco-British conditions need not keep them from carrying out the agreed plan. He admitted the unilateral reservations would not have legal weight, but they would definitely set the French policy, making it impossible to back down later.

Following the chamber hearings Herriot went before a joint meeting of the finance and foreign affairs committees of the senate. No vote was taken and little interest attached to the hearings, as Herriot is believed to have the support of the upper house. One of the speakers here was Pierre Laval, former premier, who gave an expose of his trip to Washington and the hitherto secret details of his conversations with President Hoover which preceded issuing of their famous joint communique.

BRITAIN TO PAY IN GOLD

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LONDON, Dec. 9.—While Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain was occupied today in informal conversations with cabinet colleagues on the war debt question following his return from France last night, no formal cabinet meeting was held and none is likely before Monday or Tuesday, when a formal decision is to be made on the American debt is to be taken and the method of payment fixed.

These two decisions, however, will be purely formal, as the British already have decided to pay the installment in gold. It will be physically impossible, however, to transfer the actual gold by the due date and the method will be to earmark the gold in England for the American account.

The gold will then be held on deposit for America and may be transferred at leisure if and when desired by the American treasury or American banks which will probably assist in the transfer.

Satisfied with Hoover Note.
In the absence of Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald at Geneva, official comment on the latest American debt note, in which President Hoover agreed to reopen the question, still is not available, but British opinion is, on the whole, satisfied.

While Britain has definitely decided to pay, there is a growing body of opinion in favor of default. The leader of this party is Sir Walter Layton, ters bearing upon your request for revision and its consideration by the American congress and people still appears to us to outweigh any reasons presented for a delay."

France in her recent note asking postponement of the December payment sought to anticipate the argument that she has plenty of gold with which to pay.

"The inflow of gold into France which has taken place during the last year," the note said, "was caused or rendered inevitable in the last analysis by virtue of conditions existing throughout the world. This gold does not in any sense belong to the French treasury. It is not a source of permanent wealth of France. It is the guarantee of all the deposits made in France whether by Frenchmen or foreigners. Its normal redistribution, which is desirable, can only follow a general recovery of confidence and the needs which will follow such a recovery."

With respect to this argument Col. Stimson's comment is to the effect that the French gold holdings make it possible for France to pay without exchange difficulties.

"I appreciate," said the secretary of state, "the significance of your explanation with respect to the gold inflowing into France. The existence of these French gold holdings, however, does not appear relevant to the present problem of meeting the immediate difficulties of transfer with special reference to the Dec. 15 payment."

"In view of the position which I feel my government must take, I trust that the French government will appreciate the importance of making the Dec. 15 payment in accordance with its terms and thereby, in my judgment, bring about a more favorable situation for any subsequent examination of the problem between our two governments."

THOUSANDS SEE FIGHT ON FIRES NEAR THE LOOP

Three hundred firemen, summoned by a 4-11 alarm, fought two fires which were discovered almost simultaneously yesterday in abandoned warehouses near the Chicago river in the railroad switching area east of Michigan avenue. The fires were brought under control within an hour and the damage was estimated at a few thousand dollars. Thousands of spectators gathered on the Michigan avenue bridge and in skyscraper windows along that thoroughfare to watch the fires, which were discovered about noon.

The fire tug Graeme Stewart served hose lines which were played upon one fire, in a warehouse beside the river, formerly used by the Morton Salt company. The other blaze was 200 feet south in a warehouse formerly used as a cold storage plant by the Western Cold Storage Warehouse company. Both fires, it is believed, were started by hobos who had been sleeping in the abandoned buildings.

EXPECT STORMS TO GO IN POLICE SHAKEUP TODAY

The much expected shakeup at the detective bureau will probably occur tonight. Well founded reports at the city hall yesterday indicated that Commissioner Alton will issue the shakeup order tonight, and that the transfers designated will be effective Monday.

Among those slated to go, it is said, is Deputy Chief of Detective Walter Storms. He will probably return to his old rank of lieutenant and do duty elsewhere, it is reported.

WIDOW CHARGES BROTHERS WITH $120,000 FRAUD

Mrs. Kathryn E. Lucas, a widow of Erie, Pa., charged yesterday in a suit filed in the United States District court that she was defrauded of $120,000 in cash and securities by Harry and Fred Winston of Chicago. The bill, filed by Attorneys Albert Fink and George I. Haight, said that cash and securities lost made up the estate of Mrs. Lucas' husband, Langley, president of the Austin-Lucas Paint company of Chicago.

Lucas died on Aug. 1, 1927, according to the suit, and the Winston brothers induced Mrs. Lucas to give them the $120,000 for safe investment. Fred Winston is identified as a real estate operator in the petition and his brother as a former advertising man.

Mrs. Lucas gave them power of attorney and made them trustees of the estate, according to the bill. The Winston brothers sold the estate a $98,000 note of the Midway Woodlawn Building corporation, 6104 Woodlawn avenue, of which Fred Winston was president, the suit charged.

The note was practically unsecured, according to the petition, and was defaulted in July, 1932, after the brothers had made several payments of $400 a month to Mrs. Lucas out of their own pockets.

The brothers had represented that the $98,000 note was backed by a quitclaim deed on the property at 6104 Woodlawn avenue, according to the suit, which charged that the property was so heavily mortgaged that the Winston brothers had no equity in it. The petition asked that the Winston brothers make an accounting and be forced to return the estate to Mrs. Lucas.

Reut Drug Store Bandits; One Is Believed Wounded

Two robbers who entered the drug store of Mathias Merz at 1844 Lawrence avenue last evening were routed by the gun fire of the proprietor's brother, Raymond Merz. The bandits approached Mathias and commanded him to hold up his hands. His brother had remained behind a counter and the two men did not see him. When he fired on them the robbers dropped their pistols and fled. Blood on the sidewalk outside the store indicated that one at least of the pair had been wounded.

RELIEF MEMBERS ORDER AUDIT OF COAL COMPANY

Plan to Check on Bieschke Fuel Substitution.

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday ordered an audit of the books of F. Bieschke & Sons, coal contractors to the commission. The Bieschke company was detected substituting a cheaper grade of Indiana coal for the more expensive Illinois contract fuel, and the audit is expected to determine whether this was an accident or had been done intentionally over a period of time.

The board's action is expected to delay State's Attorney Courtney's investigation of the substitution charges against the Bieschke company, and meanwhile the Bieschke company will be permitted to continue deliveries to families on the relief rolls. The audit will also delay an investigation by Mr. Courtney to determine whether any of the commission's six other contractors have substituted the Indiana for the Illinois product.

Ferdinand Bieschke and his son Ray appeared before the commission yesterday and were questioned behind closed doors. A member of the commission said later that Ferdinand Bieschke explained that the substitution was an accident.

"My son Ray was in charge," he told the commissioners. "We ran out of Illinois coal. He received some rush orders for charity deliveries and, out of sympathy for the poor families, he obtained some Indiana coal and sent that out instead. It was all an accident and we are very sorry it happened."

After hearing this explanation Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton and other members of the commission urged that the board delay taking any action against the Bieschke company until after an investigation of the company's books. The books are expected to show where coal delivered to families on the relief rolls came from.

State's Attorney Courtney was informed yesterday that the coal mines that produce 95 per cent of the tonnage in Franklin and Williamson counties, Ill., where the charity fuel must originate under the commission's contracts, shipped less than 30,000 tons of fuel directly to the seven Chicago contractors last month. That is less than half the total tonnage of charity fuel delivered by the seven contractors.

Coal Is Analyzed.
Mr. Courtney was also given the results of analyses of the coal that Bieschke delivered and the coal from a typical Franklin county, Ill., mine by Frank H. Lanser, director of the coal division of the Better Business bureau.

The results follow:

| Coal Delivered by Bieschke, Per Cent. | Coal from Franklin County, Per Cent. |
|---------------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| Moisture..... 12.15                   | 7.98                                 |
| Ash..... 18.80                        | 8.35                                 |
| Volatile..... 23.68                   | 34.10                                |

| Sulphur..... 11.351                   | 12.111                               |
| Sulphur..... 2.39                     | 1.18                                 |

"Ash and moisture are of no value," Lanser said. "The coal Bieschke delivered contained 243 pounds of water a ton, compared with 157.2 pounds of water a ton in the Illinois coal. Bieschke's coal contained 201 pounds of ash per ton, compared with 169 pounds of ash per ton in the Illinois coal. The Illinois coal contains almost 1,000 more British thermal units [a measure of heat] than Bieschke's coal."

Yesterday the Hungry School Children's fund received $7.60 from the intermediate department, the proceeds of a recess sale of food on Dec. 1. In making the gift the class, through its scribe, Joanne Rosenhal, wrote: "We wish that these few dollars may create as much joy in their spending as we find in their sending."

The total contributed yesterday was only $90.35, a decided drop despite the fact that the day before Miss Frances L. ## CALLS ON CHURCH TO KEEP ITS EYES ON THE FUTURE

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The greatest need of the world today is religion, but a religion that is better than anything now in sight. This was the declaration of Dr. William Pierson Merrill, pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church of New York, speaking at the Fourth Presbyterian church last night. The service closed the twenty-fifth anniversary celebration of the founding of the Presbyterian extension board.

Dr. Merrill was the pastor of the Sixth Presbyterian church of Chicago 25 years ago and was named by the Chicago presbytery to head the committee which formed the extension society. He contended in his address last night that all divine revelation did not cease in some past historical period and urged Christians to be alert to present and future guidance as well.

"The church of the future needs to be much more Christian than any church we have known until now," said Dr. Merrill. "We need a new mind and a new heart. As Presbyterians we must not claim that ours is to be the basis of the coming great church, but we should strive to help bring in the Christ that is to be. We must be willing to receive further light."

A colorful part of the celebration last night was the processional to the Fourth church from the Drake hotel. More than 600 persons, led by representatives of the 25 institutions of the denomination and 100 pastors, formed in line behind flags of the nation and church and marched to the doors of the famous Gold Coast church.

Following Dr. Merrill's sermon special offerings from each of the 131 churches of Chicago to the 16 neighborhood houses were presented. While the amount received in the combined offerings was not reported last night, Dr. Henry Seymour Brown, superintendent of the extension board, said he expected that the total would reach $25,000.

CONGRESS GETS HOOVER'S PLANS TO REORGANIZE

Would Shift and Combine Federal Agencies.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Orders for the reorganization of 68 executive agencies and parts of agencies were transmitted to congress today by President Hoover.

The latest effort to bring about a reorganization of the executive branch of the government was made in reply to the resolution of congress adopted at the last session. The resolution, in the turn, approved a recommendation by President Hoover.

The program which Mr. Hoover sent to congress was incorporated in seven executive orders. Under the terms of the resolution they must lie on the table for sixty days before becoming effective. An adverse vote by either house may block all or any part of them.

Few Units Abolished.
The President's plan of reorganization was marked by transfers rather than the abolition of bureaus and commissions. He pointed out, however, that the power to abolish lay not with him but with congress.

President Hoover announced that he made no estimate of the economies to be expected from his plan. He pointed out that the total appropriations for the agencies involved during the present fiscal year are $100 million dollars. Only a small part of this sum, however, goes for administrative expenditures. And since services were transferred and not abolished it was considered a problem of economy rather than of saving.

Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, senate Democratic leader, pointed out that many changes would require legislation and he explained that the orders would therefore have to go to various committees.

It appeared, therefore, that the latest reorganization program would go the way of all that have preceded it, and be allowed—so long as the Republicans are in power, at least—to gather dust.

New Public Works Division.

The most important recommendation of the President was the creation of a division of public works within the interior department, to be headed by one of the assistant secretaries.

To the new division would be transferred such large bureaus as that of public roads, now in the department of agriculture; the nonmilitary activities, including rivers and harbors and flood control, now handled by the chief of army engineers; and the office of supervising architect, now in the treasury, which supervises the plans for and construction of all public buildings.

Immediate criticism of this change was voiced in congress.

Representative Fred A. Britten (Rep., Ill.) declared no saving would be made in taking such work as rivers and harbors out of the hands of the 162 engineer corps officers and the 15,000 field employees now in charge.

A second division in the interior department, also under an assistant secretary, was built around the educational, health, and recreational activities of the government, with the public health service, transferred from the treasury department, and the public parks service, already in the interior department, as the chief focal agencies.

Land utilization activities, the President recommended, should be consolidated in the department of agriculture, to which the general land office would be transferred.

Assigned to Commerce Department.
To the commerce department the President assigned numerous agencies, among them the hydrographic office, the independent United States shipping board, merchant fleet corporation and the Inland Waterways corporation from the war department.

The weather bureau, largely because of its service to marine and air transportation, was also transferred to the commerce department.

Asserting that their similar functions pointed to their proper unification into one body, the President recommended that the border patrol of the immigration service in the labor department, and the customs border patrol be transferred to and consolidated with the coast guard, which is under the treasury.

In the words of Senator James F. Byrnes (Dem., S. C.), "The program is simply a shuffling of the bureau. I don't think it will promote efficiency, let alone economy."

OFFER $20,000 FOR MAIL LOOT AND 5 ROBBERS

Rewards of $20,000 each for the capture of the five bandits who obtained $200,000 of securities in a street robbery last Tuesday and an additional reward of $10,000 for the recovery of the privately insured mail were announced yesterday by K. P. Aldrich, chief postal inspector. The rewards total $200,000. The loot consisted of registered mail addressed to the First National bank and the First Union Trust and Savings bank.

The $20,000 per mail thief is a standard reward, Inspector Aldrich said, and is payable upon conviction. Whoever contributes information leading to the capture and conviction of one or more of the robbers will be entitled to a share of the reward or perhaps all, as postal inspectors may not participate even though they make the arrests. City policemen are eligible.

Much of the mail was insured by the Commercial Union Assurance company, however, offered the $10,000 reward or a share of it in proportion to the portion of the whole that is recovered.

Text of Hoover's Recommendations for Reorganization of the Government

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Following is the text of President Hoover's message accompanying his recommendations to congress for reorganization of the government:

"The congress, on June 30, 1932, enacted provisions for the reorganization of the executive departments which subject I have from time to time laid before the congress.

"The declared policy of the congress, as set out in section 401 of title 4, part 2, of this act follows:

"Sec. 401. In order to further reduce expenditures and increase efficiency in government it is declared to be the policy of the congress—

"(a) To group, coordinate, and consolidate executive and administrative agencies of the government, as nearly as may be, according to major purpose;

"(b) To reduce the number of such agencies by consolidating those having similar functions under a single head;

"(c) To eliminate overlapping and duplication of efforts; and

"(d) To segregate regulatory agencies and functions from those of an administrative and executive character."

Authority Given Executive.
To accomplish these purposes, the President was authorized by executive order to transfer executive agencies to and from departments and independent executive agencies and to designate titles and duties of officials connected therewith.

"The act provides that such executive orders must be transmitted to the congress while in session and that they shall not become effective until the expiration of 60 calendar days, unless the congress shall in the meantime approve them. In accordance with this authorization, I am transmitting herewith to the congress executive orders which have been issued today, transferring and grouping a large number of executive agencies.

A further limitation is placed upon executive action in the provision that statutory functions may not be abolished by executive orders, the effect of which renders it necessary to retain many commissions, but, under the order issued, their administrative functions are placed under various departments, the commissions retaining their advisory functions only. A total of 68 executive agencies and parts of agencies have been grouped or consolidated. One effect is to reduce by about 15 the number of independent agencies and commissions.

No Estimate of Economies.
"I have made no estimate of the extent of the economies which will eventually result from this reorganization program. The local appropriations for the present fiscal year of these agencies are approximately $200,000,000.

"These orders constitute the necessary initial action required in carrying out the policy which the congress has proclaimed in connection with reorganization of the executive branch of the federal government. They undertake to group certain executive agencies and activities in logical and orderly relation to each other as determined by their major functions and purposes, and to vest in the head of each department, subject to executive approval, the authority and responsibility to develop and put into effect the ultimate details of better organization, elimination of overlap, duplication, and unnecessary expenditure. These results can only be worked out progressively by the executive officers in charge of the different divisions.

"An example of the value of such grouping and consolidation is well shown in the increased efficiency and administrative economy brought about through the consolidation of agencies relating to veterans' service and likewise of enforcement activities which were authorized some time ago.

"I have under consideration further consolidations and grouping in the different departments, including certain functions of the army and navy, which I hope to be able to transmit to the congress at a later date.

PUBLIC WORKS.
"I have established a division of public works in the department of the interior and designated that the title of one of the present assistant secretaries shall be changed to 'assistant secretary of interior for public works,' under whose direction I have grouped the following organizations and functions:

"5. The activities and duties relating to the construction, repair and maintenance of roads, tramways, ferries, bridges, and trails in the territory of Alaska, now in the department of the interior.

TELL CHICAGO'S WORK IN CURING OF CROSS EYES

An announcement in THE TRIBUNE of Dec. 5 of the opening of a clinic for correcting "cross-eyes" without the use of surgery at the Fifth Avenue hospital, New York, modeled after the Royal Westminster Eye hospital in London, revealed that two such clinics have been operating in Chicago for more than two years.

"Much more work has been done in this country than abroad," said Dr. H. E. Pine, president of the Illinois State Society of Ophthalmologists. "Some of the instruments in use in the Royal Westminster Eye hospital, in which Dr. Ernest Maddox, in the moving spirit, are made in this country."

100 Charity Patients Daily.
Of the 100 charity patients treated daily in the Northern Illinois College of Optometry eye clinic at 4043 Drexel boulevard, 27 are given the treatment for "cross-eyes." The patients are sent by the Cook County Bureau of Public Welfare and the Illinois Emergency Relief committee.

"A great deal of quackery is being perpetrated by doctors who claim that they can cure any cross-eyes," said Dr. W. Jerome Heather, director of the eye clinic. "Of course pathological cases and eyes crossed through anatomical defects or malformation of the head, cannot be treated by the new method."

"But a conservative estimate is that from one-fourth to one-third of the patients we have treated for cross-eyes and we treat only those called amblyopic, or cross-eyes which have dimness of vision—have been treated, with definite success. In many cases glasses or some other corrective measures must follow the treatment, but in many others nothing is needed after the eyes are trained and straightened."

"2. The powers and duties now exercised by the general accounting office which relate to the administrative examination of fiscal officers' accounts and claims against the United States, and the adequacy and effectiveness of the administrative examination of accounts and claims in the respective departments and establishments and the adequacy and effectiveness of departmental inspection of the officers' accounts of fiscal officers."

"3. The powers and duties of the bureau of efficiency."

RECOMMENDATIONS REQUIRING LEGISLATION.
"I recommend that legislation be enacted to accomplish the following additional changes in organization which the law does not now cover upon me:

"1. Abolish the Rock Creek and Potomac parkway commission, whose powers and duties are transferred to the department of the interior. This commission has accomplished the purpose for which it was created and need no longer be retained as a separate entity.

"2. Transfer jurisdiction over the operation, protection, and maintenance of public parks, playgrounds, and recreational activities of the District of Columbia, from the office of public buildings and public parks to the commissioners of the District of Columbia, making it possible to consolidate and coordinate these activities with similar functions now performed by the municipal government of the district, and relieving the federal government of the control of activities which are purely local in character and which are paid for out of District of Columbia funds.

Abolish Compensation Commission.
"3. Abolish the employees' compensation commission. I have transferred those duties and activities of the commission which involve relations between private employers and their employees to the department of labor, and the remainder of its duties and activities, involving relations of the federal government and the municipal government of the District of Columbia, with their own employees, to the civil service commission. This gives no justification for the retention of the employees' compensation commission.

"4. Abolish the board of trustees of the national training school for boys, and transfer the powers, duties, and functions of that board to the board of public welfare of the District of Columbia. The practice of committing delinquent boys to this institution from jurisdictions outside of the District of Columbia has been generally discontinued. This will automatically convert it into a local reform school, the management of which should be entrusted to local authorities. A similar change in jurisdiction over the national training school for girls was made by an act approved March 16, 1926.

"I am submitting herewith not only executive orders, but also a brief discussion prepared by the bureau of the budget of the proposed transfers and the basis on which they are predicated.

ILLINOIS, PRAISED FOR ITS PROGRESS IN SIGHT SAVING

Great progress in the conservation of vision has been made by Illinois educators, Lewis H. Carris of New York City, managing director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, declared yesterday. He spoke at a conference on sight saving classes for children, held at the Harriet McCormick Memorial Y. W. C. A.

"The Illinois society is doing a splendid work," said Mr. Carris. There are now 42 sight saving classes in the state located at Aurora, Elgin, Evanston, Joliet, Rockford, Rock Island, Jacksonville, Springfield, and Villa Park. The greater number, 29, are in the city of Chicago.

ECONOMY CODE OF ROOSEVELT IS PUT TO HOME TEST

Tells New Yorkers How to Get Out of the Red.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Albany, N. Y., Dec. 9.—[Special.]—The economic philosophy of government of Franklin D. Roosevelt was put to a practical test today when he asked the New York legislature to adopt a program looking toward a new order of drastic retrenchments in spending taxpayers' money.

The President elect, performing his last important duties as governor of New York prior to his retirement from that office on Jan. 1, sent messages to both houses asking adoption of laws permitting savings this year of $40,000,000 in the expenditures of New York City.

This was the aim which led Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, while Mr. Roosevelt was resting in Warm Springs, Ga., to summon the legislators into special session that opened this afternoon, and bills were introduced at the opening session today to accomplish this purpose.

Not Alone in City.

But Mr. Roosevelt went farther, and proposed other reforms as a method for controlling unwarranted and extravagant spendings by local taxing bodies elsewhere in New York state, and for abolishing systems of government which have become unwieldy and have permitted graft and waste.

This is what Mr. Roosevelt had to say about the government of the nation's biggest city:

"To all persons interested in efficient government it has become as clear as day the defects in the governmental structure of the city of New York have made and are making for a grave extravagance and wastefulness in its wise connected with the existing economic emergency. Drastic reforms in the details and structure of the administration of a city of over six million people must come and come at once."

Curb on Municipalities.

Another proposal by the governor was that the assembly pass legislation empowering the governor to appoint a fiscal agent for any municipality in the state which has defaulted upon its obligations, the agent being permitted to approve or disapprove all expenditures made by that municipality during its period of financial distress.

The legislative program outlined by Mr. Roosevelt to give the New York City administration authority to effect savings this year of $40,000,000 follows demands by New York City bankers that the city retrench or be denied further credit.

The governor's first specific recommendation to the legislature, which has authority to consider only such subjects as are propounded by the governor, was a bill allowing the city of New York to reduce the salaries of policemen, firemen, and other employees whose minimum wages had been fixed mandatorily by law. The board of estimate agreed in a formal resolution to lop off $20,000,000 this year from these wages.

Protects Pay of Teachers.

But Mr. Roosevelt refused to permit legislation governing the salaries fixed for teachers in New York City to be repealed, holding that the state has a double responsibility to maintain "free education of the highest possible type." Mr. Roosevelt declared that the state properly exercised immediate control over the salaries of teachers.

"It is only in the pressing emergency now existing that warrant can be found for lowering teachers' salaries in any respect whatever," the governor said, and recommended legislation permitting only a temporary reduction in teachers' wages.

The bill introduced today proposed a two year moratorium on the teachers' mandatory salary law.

Would Reopen New York Budget.

Mr. Roosevelt recommended a law permitting New York City to reopen its budget, passed just recently, under a promise from the board of estimate that, if this permission was granted, another budget reduction, independent of salary cuts and amounting to another $20,000,000, would be made.

Then, making his proposal for creation of a commission to study reforms in the New York City governmental structure, Mr. Roosevelt gave his program for a law giving the governor drastic powers over defaulting municipalities.

"The existing depression," he said, "has emphasized what has been apparent to students of municipal government for twenty years—that local government has been financially unworkable in two respects: First, it has spent too much money, and, second, it has borrowed too much money."

Most of the cities and villages in New York state are solvent and able to secure credit, Mr. Roosevelt said, but there are some which fail to keep their heads above water, and this, he said, endangers the value of municipal investments.

Places Power with Governor.

"Specifically," he said, "I believe that the legislature should give authority to the governor, in the event of a default in any county, town, city, village or special district, to appoint a financial agent or agents, who would be charged with the full power of approval or veto of all expenditures of money by the local government in question."

"Such power would not divest the duly elected municipal officers of the responsibility or authority of administration, but such power would in effect enable the state, through its financial agents, so to curtail municipal expenditures during such periods as might be necessary to restore the credit of the municipality."

The tenure of such financial agents would be at the discretion of the governor, or until such time as the legislature might determine that their functions were no longer necessary."

After the introduction of three bills covering the immediate situation affecting New York City, on which public hearings will commence next Tuesday, the legislature adjourned until Monday.

TURN TO FASCISM IN NEW ZEALAND; RULE BY DECREES

National Life Governed by New System.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
AUCKLAND, N. Z., Dec. 9.—New Zealand today is turning openly and rapidly towards Fascism as a path out of the mess into which continued borrowing and the collapse of values has plunged this democracy. The country is being governed by a system of decrees. It is called "order in council," but the result is the same. The government prepares the set of decrees which it decides to issue, has them signed by the governor general, publishes them in the official gazette, and they become effective. Legislation, pushed through the house of representatives by the comfortable majority held by parties of the coalition right wing, has opened the way for this system of ruling by decree. Every parliamentary act provides for an extension of its scope by the issuance of decrees to deal with new or doubtful points not dealt with in the measure.

Today the entire national life is governed by this system. The decrees cover the sale of interest in land on mortgages, wage levels and conditions of labor, land tenure and censorship of movie posters, automobile traffic and electrical installations.

The field of trade and even the private lives of New Zealanders are regulated by decrees. If the government has omitted to issue any decrees it is not because it lacks the power. The board of trade act and the regulations act of 1915, which is still in existence, give it the widest authority.

These measures have long outlived their usefulness, it is claimed, but when a giant deputation representing the country's business interests protested to the administration against the continuance of this legislation the reply of Prime Minister Forbes was a direct refusal to expunge it from the statute book.

In the last year the government has acted to attempt to level prices and costs and has accomplished it in a sweeping way. In this period the power to make decrees has been of enormous use to the administration. The nooks and corners which it has explored by the use of decrees are indicated as follows:

It has forbidden the building of any more movie theaters without permission on the ground that there are already more than enough theaters for the people. It has refused to issue any more leases to coal operators seeking to mine on state lands because of the overproduction of coal and has even determined to register and control all people who own 10 chickens or more and sell eggs.

The government may go a step farther in its transportation policy if the proposal of William A. Veitch, former minister of railroads, are accepted. Veitch is seeking to have the government extend its regulation of road traffic to the seas and regulate coastwise commerce in the same method as motor lines are now superintended. The bus lines are refused licenses to compete with one another or with state railroads.

BOY'S DEATH ACCIDENTAL.
A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday at the inquest over the body of Robert Paul, 6 years old, who was drowned in a fire at his home at 4157 North Richmond street on Thursday.

MAIL EARLY FOR QUICK DELIVERY, CHICAGO WARNED

Postal authorities yesterday urged Chicagoans to mail Christmas matter early to avoid the last-minute rush that may cause delivery of presents to be delayed until after the holidays. They pointed out that the mail volume increases 200 per cent during the 10 days before Christmas and makes efficient delivery impossible.

Domestic mail must be started on its journey on or before Dec. 17 to insure delivery, and a deadline of Dec. 19 was set on local mail. Circulars have been sent to the schools and churches asking cooperation in the mail early campaign.

No promises could be made as to the time of delivery of parcel post packages sent to foreign countries because of customs formalities, postal officials said. They set the following deadlines on postcards and letters to be sent out of the country:

Belgium, Dec. 13; Bermuda, Dec. 13; Canal Zone, Dec. 14; Cuba, Dec. 13; Denmark, Dec. 13; France, Dec. 13; Italy, Dec. 13; Canada, Dec. 17; Mexico, Dec. 15; and England, Dec. 13. The last date for sending mail for Christmas delivery has passed for many countries, officials said.

STUDENTS RIOT OVER ERROR IN BILL TO CUT PAY

MANILA, Dec. 9.—Two students and students of the University of the Philippines tonight rioted and leveled explanations regarding a provision of an appropriation bill raising allowances of house members, although cutting pay of other government employees.

The students hooded Representative Leonardo Estin (who, he explained, the situation and assailed the editor of a vernacular newspaper. Later Manuel Quezon, president of the senate, addressed the crowd. The students defied police orders to move on.

Governor General Theodore Roosevelt signed the appropriation bill. The measure caused a legislative dispute because of charges it was tampered with after passage Nov. 9 and a clause inserted raising house members' allowances. The disputed clause later was removed, the legislature agreeing with Quezon that it had not been legally enacted.

READY TO SPEED MILLIONS IF U. S. LEGALIZES BEER

Brewers, Others Pledge
Jobs for Idle.

(Chicago Tribune Staff Service.)
Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—(Special.)—The beer hearings now being conducted by the house ways and means committee were thrown into an uproar today when Representative F. H. La Guardia (radical, N. Y.) introduced a resolution to amend the Volstead act.

F. H. LA GUARDIA.
(Associated Press.)

Mr. La Guardia, leader of the radical bloc in the house, lost a savage attack against the brewers who have been testifying in behalf of Volstead act modification.

Mr. La Guardia, who is a black haired New Yorker, asserted that the brewers and distillers were again up to their old pre-prohibition activities. Then, to a surprised committee, he declared that "the quicker the brewers and distillers get out of Washington the better off the anti-prohibitionist movement would be."

Rainey Protests Attacks.
Over the protests of Acting Chairman Henry T. Rainey (Dem., Ill.), who reminded La Guardia that after all the brewers had been invited by the committee to come to Washington to testify, the New York representative declared that the brewers must be divorced from the movement for beer.

He asserted that unless this was done and rigid restrictions adopted for administering the sale of beer the passage of a beer bill would kill all hope of eventual repeal.

The La Guardia outburst came at the close of a day during which representatives of many industries had told the committee that legislation legalizing a 2.75 or 3.2 per cent beer would put a real kick into industry and bring prosperity to many businesses now flat on their backs.

Spokesmen for the bottle manufacturers, barrel makers, cooper, electrical goods manufacturers, makers of wooden boxes, manufacturers of all sorts of machinery used in brewing, and the farmers who raise the grain, all testified that their business would be aided and men put to work by the legalizing of beer.

Speed Up New Construction.
Included in the list of witnesses supporting beer legislation was a spokesman for the industrial rehabilitation committee, one of the outgrowths of the Hoover banking and industrial conferences held at the call of the White House last spring.

Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills was to have appeared tomorrow to explain the administration view point on beer legislation, but late today he informed the committee he could not testify because of the outgrowth of the Hoover banking and industrial conferences held at the call of the White House last spring.

Some Interesting Points.
Some interesting points brought out during today's hearing were the following:

A statement by a bottle manufacturer that $64 million new bottles will be needed next year if beer is legalized.

Another statement that last year the home brew industry purchased 6 billion 418 million crown caps for bottles, thus indicating that at least that many bottles of home brew were brewed and consumed.

A cooper manufacturer's report that 60 million new barrels would be needed next year in event real beer were legalized.

A truck manufacturer said legalized beer would revive the truck industry and furnish a market for at least 8,000 special trucks the first year.

A congressman testified that legalized beer would cost $50,000,000 off the national crime bill.

A statement that the 6 billion dollar hotel and restaurant business of the country was solidly behind of Volstead act modification and was willing to enforce temperance on the premises.

Demand Draft Beer.
The testimony of the last few days, including that of today, disclosed an almost unanimous demand for the sale of draft as well as bottled beer. It reveals also that with few exceptions all witnesses wanted beer at least 3.2 per cent alcoholic content.

The names of other witnesses and extracts from their testimony follow: The testimony of George B. McCabe, Associated Products of Cereal Beverages, followed. He said the cereal beverage manufacturers and near beer makers were solidly behind the move to legalize beer. He declared that the sale of real beer would end hoarding and put hundreds of millions of dollars back into circulation.

D. C. Fenner, New York City, representing the Mack-International truck corporation, Fenner's testimony was that legalized beer would revive the

Discuss Regulation of Beer Sales

Ald. John Coughlin (left), who introduced amendment to city code providing for regulation of sale of beer when and if it is legalized, and Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady, chairman of council judiciary committee, at hearing yesterday. (Story on page 1.)

truck industry, furnish a market for thousands of new trucks annually and afford work to thousands of men, now idle. He said it would also return to the government large sums in excise taxes on new vehicles, tires, spare parts, and the sale of gasoline.

J. H. Curran, Toledo, O., salesman, Owens-Illinois Glass company, with factories in nine cities, several in central west. His testimony was that the legalization of beer would furnish a market for $84 million bottles annually and put 6,000 additional men to work in the bottle making industry.

He said real beer would put the beer bootlegger out of business and stimulate the bottle making industry greatly. He estimated that legalized beer would be worth millions in revenue freight to railroads handling glass products and revive the glass industry.

Paul L. Grady, Chicago, representing the Wooden Box Manufacturing association. He said that the volume of increased business which would come to the manufacturers of wooden boxes would put 10,000 men to work at once.

Speaks for Hop Growers.
John Mauff, Chicago, spokesman for hop growers of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois, and other states. He declared that beer legalization would furnish a market for 60,000,000 bushels of barley. He added that beer, through reviving the malt barley industry, would aid in solving the farm surplus problem and certainly would raise the price on grain.

George J. Meyer, Milwaukee, representing the George J. Meyer Machine company. His firm, he said, had prospective orders totaling $700,000 for bottle making machinery, which would become effective with the legalization of beer.

Maurice Saunders, New York, National Association of Lithographers. He said real beer would greatly revitalize the industry. He estimated a $10,000,000 increase the first year.

Hotel Men for Real Beer.
A. W. Berresford, New York City, spokesman for the National Electrical Manufacturers' association. He said legalization of beer would add from $35,000,000 to $50,000,000 worth of electrical construction business to the present output.

Dr. John A. Harris, New York City representative of the New York hotel and restaurant owners. He said he spoke for national organizations of hotel and restaurant men owning property worth six billion dollars. He said his clients were wholeheartedly for real beer.

Fred Nolde, New York City, spokesman for Refrigerating Machinery association. According to Nolde, the industry represents would obtain $55,000,000 in new business in 1932 if beer were legalized. His concerns manufacture equipment for cooling beer.

Louis B. Montfort, spokesman for Crown Cork and Seal corporation. According to Montfort the market for crown bottle sealers would be enormously expanded by real beer legislation. He estimated that eight billion crowns would be needed for bottles each year if beer was legalized. He said that last year his company sold more than five billion crowns to home brewers.

THE TESTIMONY OF THE LAST FEW DAYS, INCLUDING THAT OF TODAY, DISCLOSED AN ALMOST UNANIMOUS DEMAND FOR THE SALE OF DRAFT AS WELL AS BOTTLED BEER. IT REVEALS ALSO THAT WITH FEW EXCEPTIONS ALL WITNESSES WANTED BEER AT LEAST 3.2 PER CENT ALCOHOLIC CONTENT.

THE NAMES OF OTHER WITNESSES AND EXTRACTS FROM THEIR TESTIMONY FOLLOW: THE TESTIMONY OF GEORGE B. MCCABE, ASSOCIATED PRODUCTS OF CEREAL BEVERAGES, FOLLOWED. HE SAID THE CEREAL BEVERAGE MANUFACTURERS AND NEAR BEER MAKERS WERE SOLIDLY BEHIND THE MOVE TO LEGALIZE BEER. HE DECLARED THAT THE SALE OF REAL BEER WOULD END HOARDING AND PUT HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS OF DOLLARS BACK INTO CIRCULATION.

D. C. FENNER, NEW YORK CITY, REPRESENTING THE MACK-INTERNATIONAL TRUCK CORPORATION, FENNER'S TESTIMONY WAS THAT LEGALIZED BEER WOULD REVIVE THE

truck industry, furnish a market for thousands of new trucks annually and afford work to thousands of men, now idle. He said it would also return to the government large sums in excise taxes on new vehicles, tires, spare parts, and the sale of gasoline.

J. H. CURRAN, TOLEDO, O., SALESMAN, OWENS-ILLINOIS GLASS COMPANY, WITH FACTORIES IN NINE CITIES, SEVERAL IN CENTRAL WEST. HIS TESTIMONY WAS THAT THE LEGALIZATION OF BEER WOULD FURNISH A MARKET FOR $84 MILLION BOTTLES ANNUALLY AND PUT 6,000 ADDITIONAL MEN TO WORK IN THE BOTTLE MAKING INDUSTRY.

HE SAID REAL BEER WOULD PUT THE BEER BOOTLEGER OUT OF BUSINESS AND STIMULATE THE BOTTLE MAKING INDUSTRY GREATLY. HE ESTIMATED THAT LEGALIZED BEER WOULD BE WORTH MILLIONS IN REVENUE FREIGHT TO RAILROADS HANDLING GLASS PRODUCTS AND REVIVE THE GLASS INDUSTRY.

PAUL L. GRADY, CHICAGO, REPRESENTING THE WOODEN BOX MANUFACTURING ASSOCIATION. HE SAID THAT THE VOLUME OF INCREASED BUSINESS WHICH WOULD COME TO THE MANUFACTURERS OF WOODEN BOXES WOULD PUT 10,000 MEN TO WORK AT ONCE.

JOHN MAUFF, CHICAGO, SPOKESMAN FOR HOP GROWERS OF WISCONSIN, MINNESOTA, ILLINOIS, AND OTHER STATES. HE DECLARED THAT BEER LEGALIZATION WOULD FURNISH A MARKET FOR 60,000,000 BUSHELS OF BARLEY. HE ADDED THAT BEER, THROUGH REVIVING THE MALT BARLEY INDUSTRY, WOULD AID IN SOLVING THE FARM SURPLUS PROBLEM AND CERTAINLY WOULD RAISE THE PRICE ON GRAIN.

GEORGE J. MEYER, MILWAUKEE, REPRESENTING THE GEORGE J. MEYER MACHINE COMPANY. HIS FIRM, HE SAID, HAD PROSPECTIVE ORDERS TOTALING $700,000 FOR BOTTLE MAKING MACHINERY, WHICH WOULD BECOME EFFECTIVE WITH THE LEGALIZATION OF BEER.

MAURICE SAUNDERS, NEW YORK, NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF LITHOGRAPHERS. HE SAID REAL BEER WOULD GREATLY REVITALIZE THE INDUSTRY. HE ESTIMATED A $10,000,000 INCREASE THE FIRST YEAR.

MARQUETTE VISIT TO BE COMMEMORATED BY SCHOOL CHILDREN

The visit of Father Jacques Marquette to Chicago in the winter of 1674-75 will be commemorated today in a program to be attended by school children at the Chicago Historical Society building in Lincoln park. The La Salle Institute band of 75 pieces will assemble at noon in front of the Tribune Tower and greet Rene Weller, French consul general, with military airs. The band will accompany the French consul and Mayor Cermak to the Chicago Historical Society building.

A cake, approximately six feet in diameter and four feet in height, will be presented to Mayor Cermak in commemoration of the visit of Father Marquette. The schoolboy who has made the best estimate of the number of cubic inches in the cake will make the presentation in the name of France. At the close of the program the official party will inspect the French alcove in the historical society building under the guidance of Charles S. Dewey, trustee of the society.

Dismiss Woman's Charges Against Arthur Chetlain
A charge of operating a confidence game against Arthur H. Chetlain, 32 years old, a former judge of the Superior court, was dismissed by Judge Frank M. Padden yesterday for want of prosecution. The complainant, Mrs. Mary Brunson Smith of Lake Forest, failed to appear in court.

At the time she obtained the warrant for Chetlain, Mrs. Smith charged that the former judge, who has law offices at 130 North Wells street, introduced her to Dr. Harry Preston Pratt, 73 years old. The latter induced her to buy $6,000 worth of stock in the Pratt Radio trust. Mrs. Smith said she charged that the stock was worthless. A charge of operating a confidence game against Dr. Pratt is scheduled for hearing in the Felony court Dec. 30.

Police Capt. Jos. Goldberg Improves After Operation
Capt. Joseph Goldberg of the Albany Park police station, who underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis in the Frances E. Willard hospital on Thursday, was reported convalescing yesterday. It was said that he would be able to leave the hospital within three weeks. Dr. Cassius C. Rogers, 3740 Lake Shore drive, performed the operation.

CORONER'S JURY FAILS TO SOLVE YACHT MURDER

Alibi of Sailor Held as Suspect Attacked.

BULLETIN.
Long Beach, Cal., Dec. 9.—(Special.)—A coroner's jury today returned a verdict stating that Capt. Walter Wanderwell, world traveler and international spy, was shot to death on the yacht Carmra by an unidentified person. Further investigation was recommended.

The verdict and the testimony given by the strangely assorted crew of the Carmra, whom Wanderwell planned to lead on a cruise of the South sea islands, left unsolved nearly every angle of the mystery of the captain's death.

Still held a prisoner is William James Guy, young Australian sailor, arrested as a suspect on information furnished by Aloha Wanderwell, widow of the slain man. Guy, while admitting enmity to Wanderwell, has maintained that he was thirty miles away when a "man in gray" visited the Carmra, shot and killed Wanderwell, and disappeared into the mist.

Indian Supports Alibi.
Assisting him in the alibi is Edward Delarm, said to be the only Yaqui Indian airplane pilot. Mrs. Delarm corroborated the story of the sailor that he was at their home at the time of the killing. Delarm, while apparently friendly to Guy, was non-committal in statements, asserting he was not at home.

The alibi was weakened, however, when Ralph Dunlap, a mechanic employed by Delarm, declared that Guy left the Delarm home shortly before the time of the killing and announced that he was going to the Long Beach waterfront.

Police officials expressed themselves as disatisfied with the attitude toward the investigation by some of those who had been close to Wanderwell.

Wants Grand Jury Quiz.
"Certain persons, for reasons best known to themselves," said Lieut. Owen Murphy, "have been withholding information from us. We shall demand a grand jury investigation."

Following this statement an order was issued to the "crew" of the Carmra, composed of seven men and eight women, furnishing any one of

REG YOUR PARDON

Municipal Judge Frederick W. Elz declared today that there was an error in a story printed on Dec. 4 which said he signed an eviction order against Miss Mary L. Leitch, a school teacher, despite a petition signed by 1,900 students protesting against the order.

"At no time was any petition with 1,900 signatures presented to me, nor had it been offered, could I properly admit it in the case," Judge Elliott wrote. "Miss Leitch was five months in arrears in her rent and admittedly a hardship was inflicted upon her because she had not received any pay for some time past, but the owner had to get his rent to meet his delinquent 1932 taxes."

"I did, however, step out of the strict rule of law, and instead of giving Miss Leitch five days I gave her thirty days before the order was effective, and at the same time called the attention of the city to the predicament and embarrassment the court and these unpaid employees were in."

The story was sent to The Tribune by the City News Bureau.

them to talk to any one except police officials about the murder.

Joining Guy in a cell at the local jail tonight was Lord Edward Eugene Fernando Montagu, second son of the duke of Manchester. He was locked up at the request of immigration authorities, who said that he had overstayed his alien's permit to visit the United States. Guy is to be deported, the federal agencies here reported, regardless of the outcome of the murder investigation.

Cuthbert Wills, the engineer who led the man to Wanderwell, said he could not positively identify Guy and the coroner's jury was told by a prosecutor there was not evidence enough to warrant a charge of murder against the sailor.

Marian Smith of Rockmart, Ga., and Mary Parks of East Saugus, Mass., members of the crew, said that they had agreed to cook and do other work on the cruise and were to receive no salary.

COURT DECIDES EX-WIFE SHOULD PAY FOR CLOTHES

An explanation of the rather tangled marital history of his former wife, Mrs. Alexandria McNeil Smith Sturgeon, yesterday was given by an advertising salesman living at the Medina Athletic club, a dismissal in the suit for $5,772 brought by Leschin, Inc., 218 South Michigan avenue, for wearing apparel bought by Mrs. Sturgeon from July to December, 1929.

Municipal Judge Edgar A. Jones entered judgment against Mrs. Sturgeon for the bill, however.

Smith explained that he married Alexandria McNeil in 1917 and that they were divorced in 1928. She then married Robert E. Sturgeon, at that time a wealthy contractor, but who died penniless in 1929.

Following the death of Sturgeon, Smith said, Mrs. Sturgeon moved into the apartment building at 40 East Oak street, where he was then living. Although Harry T. Dunbar, manager of the building, testified that the couple were known as Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Smith denied he ever remarried his former wife, or that they lived together.

Mrs. Sturgeon was not in court yesterday. She is reported to be in Miami Beach, Fla.

Yellow Cab

Wants You To Know the Facts

You can legislate till the cows come home for lower taxi-cab rates in Chicago. But there's one thing you can't do. You can't compel anyone to furnish a high-class service at a loss.

Of course, you can compel lower rates, but if you do, you will either destroy the finest taxi-cab system in the world, or, at least, impair its service to a point where you won't want it and neither will we. And what will the citizens of Chicago think about it?

If YELLOW CAB
could operate at a profit on lower rates and preserve the sterling features that it has today, it would have done so long ago. Its entire history is punctuated with rate reductions, and they were made without suggestions from anybody at a time when rate reductions were possible.

It wasn't rates the public asked for originally.
It was SERVICE—CLEAN,
MODERN, ROOMY CABS—RELIABLE DRIVERS—RELIABLE
METERS—SYSTEM—ORGANIZATION AND FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY.
You asked to be rescued from disreputable cabs, crooked practices and racketeers, and you were more than willing to pay for the kind of cab-quality that would guarantee you ease and comfort and protection for you, your wives and your children.

NO LIVING MAN OR GROUP OF MEN, EVEN IF THEY HAVE THE WISDOM OF SOLOMON, CAN FURNISH ALL THESE FEATURES AND LIVE ON "CHEAPER" RATES OF FARE.

You have had all of these features for twenty years. During all that time, Yellow Cab's service has steadily improved. There has been no backward step though our expenses have steadily increased. When you talk of the lower rates that exist in other cities, just remember that in those cities the cab business has developed into a RACKET. No high-class service exists.

What's the idea of trying to destroy a great system like Yellow Cab and crowd the streets with irresponsibles?

BOOKS

Year Provides Good Books for Young ReadersMiss Shea Praises Worth of History Tales.BY AGATHA L. SHEA.
(Director of Children's Work for Branches of the Chicago Public Library.)

SURVEYING the 1932 output of young people's books, one is happy to note that many outstanding contributions worthy of permanent places in the child's library are found on his list.

The teen age group may make its selection from a wide choice of biography, history, travel, historical fiction and adventure, each of which is represented by several examples of exceptional merit. Hildegard Hawthorne's "Rebelle, Rebel" (Century), the story of Nathaniel Hawthorne, Jeanette Eaton's "Young Lafayette" (Houghton Mifflin), Helen Ferris's "Here Comes Barnum" (Harcourt-Brace), and Albert Proulx's "Ugly Duckling" (McBride), the story of Hans Christian Andersen—all are fascinatingly told stories of people whose stories are decidedly worth the telling.

For the history lover H. C. Knapp's "Outline of World History" (Dutton) and Gertrude Hartman's "These United States" (Macmillan) are among the offerings. The first is the world's story with emphasis placed on the civilizations of the age and the factors which went into their making. "These United States" is an account of the development of our country emphasizing discoveries, inventions, etc. It is a modern presentation of history which is especially valuable.

Another very suitable book for the history reader is Charles Muller's "How They Carried the Goods" (Boars), a fascinating account of the development of transportation methods from Pharaoh's time to our own. In the field there are Florence Ayres' "The Wonderful Life of a Chinese" (Harcourt-Brace), "The Magic Portholes" (Macmillan), the story of a south sea voyage, Anne Carroll Moore's "Nicholas and the Golden Goose" (Putnam), and Helmut Washburn's "Letters to Channy" (Harcourt-Brace). The last two are for the younger children, Miss Moore's book continuing the story of the famous little Dutch boy whom we met in her "Nicholas" some years ago.

Among the fiction for the upper grade readers are such unquestionably fine titles as Hildegard Swift's "Road to Freedom" (Harcourt-Brace), Cornelia Meigs' "The Little Girl" (Little Brown), Elizabeth Lewis' "Young Ty" (Winston), Frances Phelps' "The Little Girl" (Harcourt-Brace), and Richard Field's "Hepatica Hawks" (Macmillan), of which the first four titles have been previously reviewed at some length in these columns.

"Hepatica Hawks" is a story for the girl who loves the unusual, a story of a young girl, a giant in stature, who has her place in a travel freak show, of her longings and aspirations to be as other girls, of her acceptance of life as she finds it, and of the great joy which finally comes to her. It is one of those rare books through which author and young reader speak heart to heart and understand each other perfectly.

For the younger children who like fairy tales there are Ella Young's "Unicorn with the Silver Shoes" (Longmans-Green), fanciful Irish tales, Elizabeth Costantini's "Crickets and the Emperor's Son" (Macmillan), a tale of a little Japanese boy who through his love of the written word, saves his prince, and Louis Untermeyer's "Donkey of God" (Harcourt-Brace), a book of fantasies and legends associated with various places in Italy.

For the little ones who like stories of other children Clara Hunt's "Little House in Green Valley" (Houghton Mifflin), the story of a city child's vacation in a New England village, and Helen Orton's "Treasure in the Little Trunk" (Stokes), a story of a little pioneer girl who lost her precious gold beads on her journey west, are charming and realistic.

Marie Peray's "Red Caboose" (Morrow), a fact story by the way, will meet the demands of the boy who likes engines and trains, and the little nature lover will enjoy "Waspell" by Alice C. Gall and Fleming Crow (Oxford), the story of the young crew who lives in the blue pool and learns all about life from the old patriarch from whom he takes all his questions. A delightful little fact book for young readers.

FROM TWO BOYS

Marjorie Barrow's "Picture Book of Poetry" (Rand-McNally), and Laura E. Richards' "Tirra Litra" (Little Brown), are poetry collections which should not be overlooked, the first a very attractively illustrated picture book containing selections from many well known poets, and the second a new edition of a well loved children's poet of half a century ago, containing as well as the old favorites a number of new verses which the author, now in her eighty-first year, wrote especially for it.

Jan Struther's "Sycamore Square" (Oxford) tells the happenings in a London square and will appeal to children who like humorous verse. "Ever Dream Keeper" (Knopf), by the well known Negro poet, Langston Hughes, contains poems light in tone as well as the more wistful ones which give the collection its title, and is a selection for the younger child.

For the littlest ones there is that lovely little "Old Mother Goose in a New Dress" (Ladislav) by Adam Wilhelm, with its delightful modern illustrations by Douglas Hall, and a score of appealing picture books. Among the latter are Marjorie Flack's "Angus Lost" (Doubleday-Doran), relating the tale of a dog who was lost, and that of a dog who was found, and earlier books of this author; Maj. Lindman's "Snipp, Snapp, Snurr, and the Red Shoes" (Whitman), a colorful foreign picture book now having English text; and "The Little Girl" (Harcourt-Brace), by F. R. C. Rinehart, the latter title for the thirteenth little book of the series.

Walter Cole's "A B C Book of People" (Dutton-Bach), Lena Towles' "Galley and Her Friends" (Farrar & Rinehart), and Ingrid and Edgar d'Aulaire's "Ola" (Doubleday-Doran) are books which should be especially noted for their very distinctive art work, the first presenting an excellent example of brightly colored woodcuts, the second fine photography, and the third gorgeous and decidedly unusual lithographic illustrations.

English Book Success Is

Published in America

Garlanded with extravagant laurels from England, the high praise of Hugh Walpole, J. B. Priestley, Gerald Gould, and Sylvia Lynd, the September choice of the English Book Society, "Greenbanks," by Dorothy Dunbar (Farrar & Rinehart) comes to America. It is a genial solid story of a large family. Brothers and sisters, with their husbands and wives, and children, make up a story with varied and rich plots and themes. The book is merry and humorous, entertaining and extraordinarily handled, both as to technique and psychological understanding.

More Crimes
Chief Trend in Mystery TalesMurderers Busier than They Used to Be.

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

MULTIPLICATION of crime is the noticeable development in detective fiction during the year. Murderers are busier than they used to be and homicides spring from their burrowing brains not singly but in litters, covets and squads. There has been a curious tendency, too, to waves of the same sort of criminals. A group of nice old ladies took to murder in one set of stories; states attorneys, chiefs of detective bureaus and other officials went bad in a lot of others; warped families indulged in inter-dine strife in a third. This unusual must have discouraged each quailing author who thought he had evolved a new type of malefactor.

In my poor judgment the best of this year's stories dealing with crime and detection have been Ben Ames Williams' "Money Music," Robert Casey's "News Reel," Kay Clevner Strahan's "October House," Dorothy Hayward's "Pulitzer Prize Murders," J. J. Conington's "Sweepstakes Murders," "The Man from Scotland Yard," by David Frome, and "Five Fatal Wounds," by Edwin Balmer and Philip Wylie.

Of a little different sort where crime is discussed but the reader is not kept guessing are "Murder Intended," by Francis Beeding; "Jennie Newstead," by Mrs. Belloc Lowndes, and "Before the Facts," by Francis Iles. Not to be missed is "Unsolved Murders," by Russell Crouse, which discusses amusingly and accurately a dozen sleuth-proof murders of the last hundred years. Perhaps some of them will become the basis for the crimes of the coming year. Certainly nothing could more engage the imagination than such tragic deaths as that of Star Faithful and other of her frail sisters described in this intelligent book.

And now to the mysteries of the last few weeks. There is no mystery except that of enduring love in "Before the Facts" (Doubleday-Doran), by Francis Iles. In the very first sentence the author announces that it took his heroine, if such she be, eight years to find out that her husband was a murderer and from that he goes on to explain just how she did it and all the other things made terribly clear to her during that time, on the whole, an essentially happy marriage.

If you read Mr. Iles' first book "Malice Aforethought," you will know just how adroit and plausible he is at handling grisly situations and what distinction he lends to utter rotters who manage by some inner alchemy to come out of their self-protection and in the end believe themselves rather sane and daring fellows.

It swashbuckling crime and moody murder is what you insist upon in your mystery stories, this book may disappoint you but, say, read it for its thickening atmosphere of dreadful horror set in pleasant country places and contrasted with quite ordinary doing of ordinary, well bred people. It is a tour de force and a superbly interesting. You find your self believing in the unbelievable Johnnie, and not so very sorry for his wife and victim, Lina, who loved so unwisely, weakly and well.

In "Valour Meets Murder" (Crime Club) young Rufus King has gone hard-boiled on us. It has the full complement of killings and a lot of perfectly horrible people who rouse a vague curiosity but no particular interest or sympathy. You are thoroughly mystified by the very end, but dead hearings and dumb officials are responsible for much of the confusion, and as detective stories go it's not so bad—only too nearly so good as Mr. King has been and can be.

"Murder on the Blackboard" (Brentano), by Stuart Palmer, has a original setting and an ingenious plot. The detective is one of those maiden

GETS ATTENTION IN YULETIDE BOOK LIST

Bridge fans needn't feel neglected this year. There are hundreds of reading and thinking (and playing) matter for them. There is, for instance, "Money Contract," by Hal Sims (Simon & Schuster), which is well named because its author is known as the greatest money player in the history of the game. He wins between a million and a million and a half points a year at contract and in this book he explains the methods he uses.

Famous Hands of the Culbertson-Lenz Match (Bridge World), are analyzed by Ely Culbertson and his three partners, by Oswald Jacoby, partner of Mr. Lenz, and by Lieut. Alfred Gruenther, chief referee. The volume is an outside classic of set usual hands that have made bridge history and how they were played or should have been.

The New Standardized Official System of Contract Bridge (Winston), is the collaboration of Milton C. Work and Ely Culbertson. In it the theories of sixteen leading authorities are coordinated in a complete presentation of standardized bidding. The system includes the one over one, the two over two, the three over three, and the four over four, which is adopted by the official system as an advanced test.

The Culbertson Webster Contract System (Stokes), by Ely Culbertson (he seems to be a busy little fellow this year) and H. T. Webster is a book of instruction adopted by the American Bridge Association. It will make you laugh while you learn.

For the hostess who has a hard time keeping her mind on her play because she doesn't know how the refreshments will come out, there is "Bridges Food for Bridge Fools" (Borrow), which appeals to the less intellectual, but no less vital, instincts of ladies who go nosing around into other people's business and the first seems to be a pretty young school teacher trapped in the line of duty. The story is short and briskly told and, since we mystery story fans are inured to lesser horrors, will pass an evening pleasantly.

But if you want to spend night after night on the unfolding of complicated details read "The Box from Japan" (Dutton), by Harry Stephen Keeler. For 765 closely printed pages he describes an involved crime or crime to be committed in the city of Chicago in 1942. Science in the next ten years is to advance somewhat, the human race not at all, and now prepare yourself for the worst, rum is still being brewed. His shots are shattering and being shot just like war back in good old 1929.

But to comfort you, let me say quickly that we have then entered into an era when a million dollars seems to be very valuable and the things that some people will do to get hold of it take hundreds of thousands of words to tell. The story in its wealth of incident, innumerable characters, and general solidity has some of the quality of the "Mysteries of Paris," or Gaboriau's masterly tales, and I am sure if you like it at all you will like it very much.

"The Murder of Caroline Bundy" (Farrar & Rinehart), by Alice Campbell, has been running in The Chicago Tribune and has now appeared in book form. It is a really interesting story. At its heart is a thing more sensational and furiously. In it are lots of likable people, and even these tireless readers who consider detective stories beneath contempt should find it mildly agreeable.

Phelps and Owen D. Young

Tell Approaches to Life

"Appreciation," by William Lyon Phelps (Dutton) and "High Courage" by Owen D. Young (Dutton) both contain the authors' personal attitudes toward life. Mr. Phelps believes that the finest approach to life lies in an appreciative attitude and Owen D. Young holds by his personal belief that high courage, consistently maintained, is the key to happiness.

SOLVE CHRISTMAS BOOK PROBLEMS

We all agree that books are ideal Christmas gifts, but sometimes ideals are not always attainable on one's own steam. Good booksellers are like good doctors. They can prescribe successful cures for all the aches. They can positively cure those Christmas present blues.

With a list of typical tones, we consulted seven of the leading bookshops in Chicago and asked for prescriptions. Here they are:

Dr. Fishbein Exposes
Book on Quackery

Dr. Morris Fishbein exposes in "Fads and Quackery in Healing" (Covici Friede) many of the fraudulent patent medicines and patent ideas which have taken in the American people along with others. Among the fads and quackery in healing he names and describes "Medicine Men," the snake oil venders, beauty fads, various and widely differing schools of thought on food and diet, physical culture, the cult, once more popular than it is now, of rejuvenation, the Abrams box, the misapprehensions in birth control, the wildly extravagant claims for psychoanalysis, and many other devices of fact or fancy in healing.

The book is clearly and simply written and contains in several instances rather astonishing revelations.

The Cherry Tree' Story of Joy Found in Farming

"The Cherry Tree," by Adrian Bell (Dodd Mead) is an idyllic story of nature. The joy expressed by an author in farming and other aspects of man's contact with nature give charm, vitality and lyricism to the tale.

To the Man Who Knows Its Origin
Every Word Presents a PictureHow Did Christmas Come to Be Called YULETIDE?

Yuletide, and the great yule log that formerly was an important part of its ceremony, are among our oldest traditions.

The history of the word yule is dimmed a little by the mists of time. But we know that its Medieval English form was yol, from still older Anglo-Saxon gyl, and that it is akin to Icelandic jol, the midwinter feast (going back to heathen times). This word jol may also be the ancestor of jolly. So "Yuletide" from the beginning, perhaps, meant "a jolly time," as it still does, although now in its special Christmas significance. There are thousands of such stories about the origins of English words in ## South Contributes Third of 15 Novels.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

W HAT has the last six months offered us in books as pulchritude or incentives in the business of living? Has there been any special 1932 model of novel? Have biographies taken any new turn? Is there a preponderance of books about the world's state of mind? Will 1932 be remembered as a year of great creative literature?

The answer to those and any other general questions about the books of the year is NO. There are no generalizations to be made. So we shall have to content ourselves with a brief survey.

AMERICAN FICTION.

Of the fifteen (according to my reckoning) outstanding novels written by Americans, five were written by southerners about the south. Although the growing power of the literary south is a phenomenon not wholly of 1932, it is remarkable and the only apparent tendency of the year in fiction. "The Store," by T. S. Stripling, is as fine a sectional picture as has been done, and has, in its own right, a richness of conventional texture apart from its material.

"Light in August," by William Faulkner, is the deep south of Mississippi in its poignant tragedy, chronicled by our most spectacular young experimentalist in fiction. "The Shattered Life," by William Faulkner, states it. "The Shattered Life" implies its irony rather than states it. "Peter Ashby" is a gorgeous historical romance of the days of the firing on Fort Sumter and is also interpretive of sectional character rather by implication than by statement.

"Laughing Pioneer," by Paul Green, contrasts symbolically the old and the new south.

Novel Pictures Early Days. How much the America of the 1930s and 1940s was like today, psychologically, is shown in Floyd Dell's lengthy novel, "Diana Stair."

The story of the beginnings of Michigan is set down in an epic by Janet Lewis, "The Invasion." The early days of Galena, Ill., form the background for Janet Ayer Fairbank's "The Bright Land." John Brown's fantastic career is the subject of Leonard Ehrlich's "God's Angry Man."

"Nobility Strives," by Catherine Brody, is a touching tale of the economically uprooted. "Human Being," by Christopher Morley, is a philosophical fantasy. "Wanton Mally," by Booth Tarkington, is a bouquet after the fashion of his "Monsieur Beaucaire."

"The Gods Arrive," by Edith Wharton, is a rich, full tale of genius and its emotional handicaps.

I list "Promenade Deck," by Isabel Ross, among the outstanding American novels of the year because it makes of a cruise around the world a literary joy.

ENGLISH NOVELS.

The outstanding fact about the ten best English novels of the year, which have achieved American publication, is that eight out of the ten are by the best known names in English literature and that of the other two only one is by a "new" writer. John Galsworthy has given us "The Flowering Wilderness," a novel, like "The Silver Spoon," which concerns a typically British point of view in social matters. V. Sackville-West's "Family History" is more emotional than her usual genre picture of English society, but it also chronicles the modern English scene and psychology.

An Old Fashioned Tale. Frank Swinnerton has written a delightful old-fashioned tale in "The Georgian House." Somerset Maugham has done an essentially male, robust, but mysteriously tense novel in "The Narrow Corner." Rose Macaulay's "The Shadow Pines" is a rousing tale of the days of the great Robert Her-

For Collectors

This appropriate decoration ends a delightful and amusing explanation by Edith Wharton of the origin of her masterpiece, "Ethan Frome," in the latest issue of "The Colophon," that de luxe book collectors' quarterly which is a triumph of the joint arts of writing and printing.

rick, "The Fortress," by Hugh Walpole, continues the chronicles of Rogue Herries and his family. "The House Under the Water," by Francis West-Young, is a typical English family chronicle.

Rosamond Lehmann's "Invitation to the Waltz" is a record of adolescence with a cobweb like beauty but tensile strength. Phyllis Bentley's "Inheritance," a three generation record of a cloth mill family in middle England, made a slightly known name popular wherever English is read. With "Peking Picnic," a picture of modern China, Ann Bridge, an unknown writer, won a prize and national popularity. "The Fountain," by Charles Morgan, the year's most popular serious novel, was published June 1 and therefore is not strictly a fall book.

NOVELS IN TRANSLATION.

There were six translated novels of outstanding importance of the fall. Two came from France, "Night Flight," by Antoine de St. Exupery, the first great literary record of an airplane flight, and "Saint Saturnin," by Jean Schlumberger, a memorable picture of French village and family life. From the German we have had "Young Woman of 1914," the second volume of Arnold Zweig's great tetralogy which began with "The Case of Sergeant Grischka," by Josephus, by Lion Feuchtwanger, a vivid novel of the days of the great Jewish historian, and "Luxury Liner," by Gina Kaus, which does for an ocean liner what "Grand Hotel" did for a hotel, and does it with superb melodrama. From the Norwegian there is "The Burning Bush," by Sigrid Undset, Nobel prize winner, a sequel to "The Wild Orchid."

SHORT STORIES. Volumes of short stories which would make any year memorable are "Obscure Destinies," by Willa Cather, and "The Haunted Mirror," by Elizabeth Maddox Roberts. At least two of the "Obscure Destinies" chronicled as we are anything our leading American woman novelist has written.

AUTOBIOGRAPHIES, MEMOIRS. The fall has offered readers one of the most important volumes of memoirs of years, Marshall Joffe's. With it stands Prince von Bulow's memoirs, volume IV, Winston Churchill's "Amid These Storms," records something of the same period.

Three volumes of records from literary figures graced the fall. Mary Austin's autobiography "Earth Horizon," "Letters of D. H. Lawrence," edited by Aldous Huxley, a vast volume containing the correspondence of a lifetime, and "The Journal of Arnold Bennett, 1911-1920," Ellen Terry's "Memoirs" were charming, as was "A Victorian Sunset" by E. E. Schattschneider.

POETRY. Among the outstanding volumes of poetry of the year is "Rip Tide," by William Rose Benet, a novel in verse. "The Purloined," by Leonard Bacon, the story of that romantic figure Gertrude d'Annunzio, and "A Tale of Troy," by John Massfield.

Two important anthologies are among the fall's offerings—a new edition of "The New Poetry," edited by Harriet Monroe and Alice Corbin Hild, containing the best of contemporary verse, and "American Poets," edited by Mark Van Doren, offering their work from 1650 to 1930.

"The Odyssey," translated by E. V. Rieu (Lawrence Sanders), is a beautiful modern English prose rendition of one of the epics of all time.

BIography. The outstanding American biography of the fall is to me, Lloyd Lewis' just published, "Shamash, Fighting Prophet." Other American heroes were the subjects of impressive biographies, "Grover Cleveland," by Allan Nevins, "John Quincy Adams," by Bennett Champ Clark, and "Beveridge and the Progressive Era," by Claude Bowers, which is like "Sheridan" a panorama of a period as well as a biography.

The little understood wife of Abraham Lincoln was the subject of a short biography, "Mary Lincoln," by Carl Sandburg to accompany her letters edited by Paul Angle. A giant in the industrial world is the subject of Burton J. Hendrick's 2 volume "The Life of Andrew Carnegie."

"Bernard Shaw," by Archibald Henderson is the lengthy definitive life of a much discussed gentleman. The unfortunate Mary Queen of Scots gave Herbert Gorman the material for "The Scottish Queen." Two more successful, but likewise tragic, rulers are the subject of Hilaire Belloc's "Napoleon" and Carleton Beals' "Porfirio Diaz."

There was no conquest by the sword about "Blessed Spinoza" whose life is chronicled by Lewis Browne. "Wagner" was a fighting musician and his story is retold by Guy de Pourtales, with the aid of the recently unearthed documents. The only adequate life of "Sappho of Lesbos" is that published this year from the pen of Arthur Weirall.

HISTORY, CURRENT EVENTS. "The War Begins," Vol. IV, of Mark Sullivan's stupendous and thrilling history of our times, covers the period from 1909-14. James Truslow Adams' "The March of Democracy" is an excellent straightway, unimpaired history of our country. Just the "Other Day," by John Collier and John Lang, does for England since the war what "Only Yesterday" did for America of the same period.

Edith Sitwell's "What I Saw" is more a tapestry history of the great days of the Great English resort than it is a book about a place.

The most discussed books of the state of America are "New Deal," by Stuart Chase, who thinks we need one, and "Can America Stay at Home?" by Frank Simonds, who feels sure that if we want peace we can't.

NONFICTION. "Death in the Afternoon," by Ernest Hemingway, is a novel of the fall, not for the lengthy pages of minute information about bull fighting, but for the rare and fascinating paragraphs about life and literature which contain some of the best writing of an authentic genius.

"Van Loon's Geography" is as fascinating in quite a different fashion, with a far wider audience. There is unquestioned brilliance in setting forth facts and philosophical premises. "Man's Rough Road," by A. J. Keller, is a brilliant outline of man's struggle to adapt himself to life, and "A Guide Through World Chaos," by G. H. D. Cole, tells the long story of what has got himself into his present plight.

An outline of literature and the lives of the greatest writers from Homer to the present is Burton Rascoe's "Titans of Literature." Virginia Woolf's "Second Common Reader," and the "Selected Essays" of T. S. Eliot are two volumes of the most exacting and precise literary criticism and evaluation.

"The Great Victorians," edited by H. J. and Hugh Munro, is a collection of brilliant critical essays on 23 famous Victorians by some of the most brilliant writers of today. "The Intimate Notebooks of George Jean Nathan" is a volume of criticism, confidences, and philosophical premises which is extremely amusing. D. H. Lawrence's posthumous "Strousan Places" is an interpretation of life in ancient Etruria and a statement of the philosophy of a great English writer.

London Plays Host to Two Literary Stars

French Communist Gets Permit to Enter.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—London has received visits from two distinguished foreign authors of very different kinds, Henri Barbusse and Dr. Lion Feuchtwanger. Mr. Barbusse attended a meeting of the P.E.N. club, but at the same time his book on Zola, in a very good translation made by the wife of a Canadian professor, was published here.

It is a remarkable book, a biography written as a novel, even more vivid than the best of the kind.

In French than in English [through no fault of the translator], but in English admirable and illuminating. M. Barbusse wished to enter England some months ago, but permission was refused because he is, politically, a communist, and his object was to attend political meetings in the country and recommend bolshevism.

Whether he had still been excluded if it had been known that he speaks only French is doubtful. But the authorities probably knew, which most English people do not know, that M. Barbusse's mother was an English woman and they probably believed that the son of an English woman would speak too eloquently in his mother's tongue to be a comfortable visitor.

However, when he applied for leave to attend a literary dinner no objection was made, and as many English highbrows are by way of being, in theory, communists, all that was necessary to secure M. Barbusse's presence in the country was an assurance that he came not as an agitator but as a celebrated and very distinguished man of letters.

The other visitor, Dr. Feuchtwanger, whose "Josephus" has in general received enthusiastic praise from English reviewers, has been a bird of passage only, for he stayed (accompanied by his wife), no longer than a week in London.

Some weeks ago I mentioned that Mrs. Catherine Carswell's biography of D. H. Lawrence, which she called "Savage Pilgrimage," had been withdrawn from circulation because the publishers had been advised that it contained libelous passages. The English laws of libel are very strict, and English authors have much less freedom to comment upon the foibles of living personages than is enjoyed by Americans.

In Mrs. Carswell's case outspokenness regarding Middleton Murry, another friend and biographer of Lawrence, led to protest from the victim and a summary withdrawal of the book. But Mrs. Carswell has made a few necessary changes in her comments, and "Savage Pilgrimage" is shortly to reappear in the list of another firm of publishers.

Meanwhile Mr. Murry, in face of the criticism which he has received from Mrs. Carswell and others, is preparing a short work, supplementary to his earlier "Son of Woman," and it seems probable that Lawrence's pilgrimage has not ended with his earthly life, for opinions as to his character and his work are still sharply divided, and some of the savagery of the master has passed onto his controversial disciples, critics, and other commentators.

"Savage Pilgrimage" has been published in the United States in the original form.—Ed.

DR. EDGAR GOODSPEED PRESENTS ESSAYS ON EVERYDAY PROBLEMS

Dr. Edgar J. Goodspeed, the famous American translator of the New Testament, has turned his thoughtful eye upon problems and experiences of everyday life. The results appear as essays in "Buying Happiness" (University of Chicago Press). He looks at commonplaces of life, at human weaknesses and strengths, with a humor and whimsicality that reveals a tolerant and wise personality.

In the informal essay called "Buying Happiness" the author defends the man or woman who buys rare editions, snuff boxes, bindings of books no matter what they contain and manuscripts, because even if these purchases seem a bit silly to the average man, they give the buyer happiness. Other titles are "The Age of Salesmanship," "Keys to Lost Looks," "The Uses of Adversity," which should be shining to most people these days, "My Lady Poverty," "Foreign Lectures" and "Lake Dwellers."

The essays are for the most part light and charming, emphasizing the amusing aspects of life in which the ironic temperament always delights.

Mrs. Catherine Carswell's biography of D. H. Lawrence, which she called "Savage Pilgrimage," had been withdrawn from circulation because the publishers had been advised that it contained libelous passages. ## Ditmars Pens Another Good Animal Book Author Places Emphasis Upon Snakes.

"Thrills of a Naturalist's Quest" (Macmillan) Raymond L. Ditmars has written an absorbing, amusing, and stirring autobiography of his development from a youngster inordinately fond of snakes into a world famous curator of mammals and reptiles at the New York Zoological park. His ability to write entertainingly, coupled with his quiet humor and knowledge of how to emphasize the human interest angle in every-day incidents (which he undoubtedly acquired as a reporter on a New York paper), combine to make his newest book one of the most informative works of its kind in many seasons. It is a delightful companion volume to his last year's "Strange Animals I Have Known." If you enjoyed that you'll want to read "Thrills of a Naturalist's Quest," for it takes the reader on a fascinating trip behind the scenes of one of the world's great zoos, a peak back stage at as bizarre a company of four footed, two footed, and no footed mammals as ever entertained its public.

It covers different ground than his former book, but uses material just as entertaining and told with the same modest drollery that marked the other.

His raising incidents that some of our flamboyant explorers would use to revel in as fearless figures are told by Mr. Ditmars with a quiet chuckle and a casual disregard of a wonderful opportunity for heroics.

Naturally, the author emphasizes serpents—more than half the book is devoted to them—but oddly enough he makes these sinister animals more interesting than repellent. It's with reptiles that he gets most of his "Thrills of a Naturalist's Quest," beginning when a boy he kept a collection of snakes in his room, to the horror and continual worry of the rest of the family, up to the last chapter when he tells of holding cobras, water moccasins, rattlesnakes, and African vipers with his fingers while they sink their fangs into parchment covered tumblers. The venom thus collected is used for making a serum for snake bites.

He dispels many an illusion about snakes. For example, the pretty little coral snake of southeastern Arizona is more deadly than the notorious cobra of India. The most poisonous snake of the world is a small tree viper found only on a small island off the southern coast of Brazil. The pygmy rattlesnake of the United States is more dangerous than the big diamond backs of Florida and Texas. The most deadly serpent in the whole world is the Australian tiger snake.

Mr. Ditmars' vast knowledge of animals was not acquired merely from his own zoo. He spent weeks with a circus to learn all he could about the care of animals; he has traveled back and forth about the world, visiting the greatest zoological collections and he's spent months in the jungle capturing specimens alive and learning about their "home life."

Jerome K. Jerome's hilarious story of the man taking a huge ripe cheese home by train is no funnier than Mr. Ditmars' fragrant adventure on a subway train with the body of an African pangolin, well wrapped but still able to clear out the car faster than a guard's "step lively."

Another chapter of chuckles is "A Night Job in Rio." The author raised a fish pool in a public park at midnight to get food for a crimson and yellow snake, given him by a Brazilian naturalist, which he was keeping in a sack in his hotel room until his steamer sailed.

Mr. Ditmars' collection of thrills, facts, and smiles should appeal to youngsters and grownups of both sexes. It's a delightful volume of information, charmingly told and well illustrated.

'Flying Carpet' Vivid Story of World Jaunt

New Halliburton Volume Grips Reader.

"The Flying Carpet," by Richard Halliburton. (Bobbs-Merrill.)

RICHARD HALLIBURTON'S fourth and latest volume—"The Flying Carpet"—is a swift moving Odyssey of the sky, a round the world air flight with the aid of liners to cross the Atlantic and Pacific.

Accompanied by a professional pilot, Moya W. Stephens Jr., to whom he dedicates the book, Halliburton whizzes from one outlandish place to another; passing over the tourist haunts without a pause, or, if he does stop for gas or food, without bothering the reader with the details. The author has one novel method of telling of the engine troubles and other airplane woes. He saves up every bit of misfortune (relating nothing but the pleasant side of his flying) until the end of the book he piles on the agony in one great gush of grief—a whole chapter called "Concentrated Trouble," devoted to their catastrophes, narrow escapes, and various mechanical difficulties. It's a grand idea in some ways, but it leaves the balance of the book too far from trouble to be real. Such smooth flying is uncannily unusual.

"The Flying Carpet," a crimson and gold airplane purchased in California, hops from Paris to Timbuctoo, Sahara city of mystery, bats, storms, and desert heat. On the way back to the French capital the two airmen stop at various desert ports of the French Foreign Legion and Halliburton paints a vivid and intimate picture of that famous fighting force.

The hop from France to the Holy Land was broken by a whirl round the Mediterranean (ending with getting pinched and fined fifty cents) and a surreptitious night in Constantinople's famous Santa Sophia.

After the Holy Land came Petra, mysterious Arabian city of temples carved out of the sides of cliffs; Bagdad, Babylon, Samarra, and then Teheran, where Halliburton was told that the new and luxurious hoochow surpassed the leading hotel in both comfort and cuisine. Our hero promptly had himself jailed and thereby got a good story and excellent accommodations.

The two Americans met a pretty German aviator in Persia who was flying alone from Berlin to Australia. They flew side by side the rest of the way to India, including a side trip to the Himalayas, a visit to the Taj Mahal [where the author again swam in the lily pond in order to confound a critic who said there was only three inches of water and even

Hold Funeral Rites Today for H. K. Webster

Used Chicago Scene in Many of His Books.

Funeral services for Henry Kitchell Webster, fiction writer who died of cancer late Thursday night, will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at his late residence, 1411 Maple avenue, in Evanston. Dr. Paul A. Wolfe, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of the suburb, will read the service. A brief eulogy, artistically phrased, will be held at the chapel in Graceland cemetery, and the remains will be cremated.

Active pallbearers will include Mr. Webster's three brothers, Towner K. Webster Jr., Maurice and Ronald Webster; his nephew, Towner K. Webster III; his own cousin, Howell W. Kitchell, and a cousin by marriage, Cedric V. Merrill. There will also be two other honorary pallbearers selected from among his literary companions.

One of the most popular contemporary authors, Mr. Webster was a second generation Evanstonian, being the son of the elder Towner K. Webster, later founder of the sheet metal firm, the Webster Manufacturing company. He was born in the northern suburb on Sept. 7, 1875, and always after frequent adventuring in far corners of the globe, returned there to make his home. His mother was Miss Emma J. Kitchell before her marriage.

After graduation from the Evanston High school the author spent a year at Northwestern, where he met Miss Mary Ward Orth, who was later to become his wife. The following year he entered Hamilton college, where he was graduated in 1897. He spent the next year, at the age of 23, as a faculty member of Union college, Schenectady, N. Y., where he taught English and rhetoric, then returned to Evanston to begin seriously on a literary career.

His school friend and fellow townsman, Samuel Merwin, was his collaborator on the first work to bring him fame before the public—"The Short Line War," written in 1899. He and other successes that enhanced his fame, notably "Calumet K." in 1901, and "Comrade John," in 1907. Many of his books utilized the Chicago scene as a locale, and numerous characters in his tales were easily recognizable in his list of acquaintances.

One such character was "Jimmy Wallace," of "The Real Adventure," a novel which was the original of whom was Charles Collins, present drama critic of THE TRIBUNE. Many of Webster's characters were carried through several of his stories and frequently were only thinly veiled, as in the case of "Joseph Greer and His Daughter," which created a local sensation in 1922, depicting the frivolities of Chicago debutantes, and the realist fathers of La Salle street at work and at play.

In 1901, when he was already well launched in literary circles, he married his college sweetheart, and shortly thereafter departed with her for a trip around the world. They spent a year in the Bahamas, where he amassed the material for the serial "A King in Khaki," before returning to Evanston. In 1903 he wrote "Roger Drake, Captain of Industry," appearing first as a serial in the Saturday Evening Post, and later in book form under the title "The Copper King."

He was a member of a large family and was devoted to his mother, who since the death of her husband in 1922, had lived close to his home at 1411 Maple avenue. He is survived by his widow, three sons, Henry Kitchell Jr., Stokely and Godrick; his three brothers and by two sisters, Mrs. Henrietta Bass of Swissvale, Pa., and Mrs. Walter Strong of Winnetka.

He was a former president and charter member of the Cliff Dwellers and belonged to the Tavern club in Chicago and held memberships also in the Players and Coffee House clubs in New York.

Literary Circle Mourns Webster

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

Henry Kitchell Webster will be missed grievously by our little world of Chicago writers, of which he has been for so long a vital member. We will miss him for the genial, kindly, but trenchant eye with which he saw life and the foibles of mankind. We will miss him for the Olympian calm and amused detachment with which he watched our little local strifes. We will miss his sense of humor, and the twinkle in his eye and in his voice as he would sing the incomparable absurdities of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas when he was feeling especially at home. We will miss a poised, friendly human being, and there are so few in the world!

But the great world outside our small circle will miss one of the most interesting writers of the day. There has been, in his own home town, too facile a judgment of the skill of Henry Kitchell Webster. His vast popularity has overshadowed his rightful place as a literary artist.

A few years ago he was the most popular author of serials in America. He was largely instrumental in the great literary revolution of the generation—making best books best sellers, and he has not had the credit due him for that missionary work.

For throughout his literary career he never compromised with popularity. He wrote the best book which it was in him to write, whether it was a light or a serious novel, and popularly was a well won laurel wreath, no thorny crown to remind him of his literary transgressions. As good pictures of contemporary life in the middle west as have been done are to be found in some of Henry Kitchell Webster's books. "An American Family" was an epic of the region which produced him. The social scene both in fact and in critical interpretation lives in his novels. He was twenty-four years old when

Robert Hillyer, Poet, Turns to Novel and Presents 'Riverhead'

Robert Hillyer, New England poet, has turned his literary talents to the novel, "Riverhead" (Harpers) is the result. It tells the story of a young man in his late twenties who takes a canoe up the river to visit his godfather.

At every turn practically in the trip up the river the young man comes up against a particularly knotty and, it seems, insoluble problem connected with his own life and philosophy. When he finally arrives at his godfather's he relates all of his experiences and the problems that have been besieging him. The godfather makes the young man see that his problems are difficult and tortuous because of indecision, because of an unorthodox way of life. So when the hero goes back down the river he faces his problems and through his new outlook manages to find their solutions.

This story is a fantasy, thoughtful, idealistic, and tender, with a poetic insight.

Miss Kennedy Charms with a Light Story

Old Irish Castle on Island Setting of Tale.

IN "A Long Time Ago" (Doubleday-Doran) Margaret Kennedy returns to the charming lightness and gaiety of her earlier work, "The Constant Nymph," although this novel is not superlatively gay. Louise Lindsay, the wife of an Oxford don, collects her entire family, including her brother and his obnoxious wife, her young sister, Ellen; her famous and popular doctor husband, her single brother, who has just been crossed in love, and a young man whom she knew in Oxford, and settles them in a old Irish castle, an island in the beautiful lake district for the summer.

Louise has always craved to rule ever since she was a child. She delights in celebrities and when she discovers that a famous and notorious prima donna has rented a cottage just across from the island on the mainland she immediately determines to establish a friendship there. The inevitable happens and the prima donna sweeps them all, including Dick, the young doctor, off their feet with her charm. When things really start popping Louise decides that after all the famous woman was not all that she hoped for and she tries to sever her new connection with the mainland.

The author, as in "The Constant Nymph," is intrigued with music. Every evening the prima donna sings and Guy plays his violin with Barney accompanying them. There is also in "A Long Time Ago" Miss Kennedy's usual collection of appealing children and their typical English nurse.

The book itself is unusual in its technique, starting with Ellen's grown and married daughter, Hope, reading the memoirs of the prima donna and being very excited about the chapter dealing with a summer in Ireland. Hope, thrilled and charmed as a child by the fascinating singer, cannot believe that her family really had had such an experience many years before. Miss Kennedy then goes back to those thrilling days and with the aid of the single brother and many letters sent the summer to the grand mother tells the story of a long time ago.

GANDHI FUMBLES, SAYS LEADER OF INDIAN MOSLEMS

Tells Executives' Club of Split with Mahatma.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Huge and picturesque and humorous, Maulana Shaukat Ali, leader of 30,000,000 Moslems in his native India, spent more than an hour yesterday explaining to hundreds of members of the Executives' club crowding the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman why he felt with Mahatma Gandhi after eight years of the closest friendship. Beside him his little English wife, the former Miss Minnie Bana of Yorkshire, sat shyly with her head, her dark hair just visible beneath the concealing crimson scarf of her native costume.

"I believe if you could pierce the wall of his jail right now and ask him who gave him the best support in India," the gray bearded 75 pound Mohammedan said earnestly of Gandhi, "he would say, Shaukat Ali and his brother, Mohammed Ali. When Gandhi said, 'I am going to start disobedience. Will you come with us?' I said, 'No.' Gandhi is a great, a very great man, with a tremendous mind. You Americans would have to get up early in the morning to beat him on a business deal. But he has two serious faults.

Says Gandhi Becomes Panicky. "He tries to make easy things hard, and he loses his head and comes panicky at the crucial moment, thereby becoming ineffectual. Five years ago, I believe there would have been peace in India if he had stood by the pact the Hindus and the Moslems made. Two years ago, an honorable peace between the two countries, England and India, could have been effected at the round table conference in London. If not, India could have taken action to bring the British people to accept their just demands. But Mr. Gandhi, who had the backing among the Hindus, decided otherwise, and banged the door on peace negotiations.

"It was a great mistake, and when last year he went to London the whole atmosphere was full of suspicion and ill feeling, and the result was nothing was done and Gandhi and his co-workers were sent to prison. It had been promised us by Lord Irwin, the viceroy, that we would get the same kind of self government as Canada and other members of the British commonwealth, but something happened and it fell through. I was away, and when I returned I found Mr. Gandhi and his party had changed their minds.

Would Keep Tie to Britain. "A good deal has been made of the petty squabbles between the Hindus and the Moslems, and these have been put forward as an excuse for robbing India of the right of self government. The vast majority would like to keep the British connection—I would like to keep it. We want Gandhi out of prison so that a real peace may be signed. But if any one tells you that India is not able to govern herself, because of castes and laws, they tell what is not true.

Shaukat Ali, who revealed that he weighed 320 pounds when he was incarcerated during the world war in a prison camp because he and his brother refused to take up arms, wore a black fur fez, a long cotton robe and a black and white striped shirt.

THE LOSS OF MY BET HAS GOT ME INTO A TIGHT PLACE. I GOTTA GET BUSY—THAT'S THE ONLY WAY TO GET OUT OF IT.

I BEEN LOOKING FOR YOU. SHADDOO! I WANT YOU TO HELP ME GET THE NAMES OF ABEEDY PEOPLE. I SAID ABEEDY PEOPLE! O'BOY! AM I EVER NEEDEE! I AIN'T HAD $500 FOR TWO WEEKS! YOU CAN PUT MY NAME DOWN!

The fortune of the late Clement Studebaker Jr., capitalist and public utilities head, was left in trust to his widow, Mrs. Alice Studebaker, 1500 Lake Shore drive, and to his two children. This was disclosed yesterday when his will, disposing of his $2,000,000 holdings, was admitted to probate by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the probate judge.

Mrs. Studebaker is given all her husband's personal belongings and his New Hampshire estate. Her son, Clement III, is given a farm in St. Joseph county, Ind. The remainder of the estate is then placed in trust, one half of the income being willed to Mrs. Studebaker and the other half divided between Clement and his sister, Mrs. Esther S. Petricola, 1209 Astor street. Frances Thurman, Studebaker's secretary, is given a $2,400 annuity and his chauffeur, Peter Peterson, a $5,000 bequest.

The trust terminates within 20 years after the death of the last survivor of the immediate heirs. The principal is bequeathed in equal shares to Mr. Studebaker's grandchildren. If none of the heirs is surviving 25 per cent of the principal each will be given to Northwestern university and De Paul university at Greencastle, Ind. Illinois Wesleyan university at Bloomington is given 20 percent, and Blackburn university at Carleville, Ill., is given 10 per cent. Mr. Studebaker was 61 years old when he died Dec. 3. He was president of the North American Light and Power company.

STEEL CO. CHIEF KILLED BY AUTO; DRIVER FLEES

Jacob A. Kapps, 68 years old, 234 South Marion street, Oak Park, was struck and fatally injured by an automobile last night. The accident occurred at Pleasant place and Marion street, Oak Park.

The identity of the driver who struck Kapps, who was superintendent of a steel and iron company, was not learned. J. J. Stafford, 1123 Pleasant place, said he was driving past the corner in his car when two men stopped him and told him the injured man in the Stafford car went with the driver to the Oak Park hospital, where Kapps was pronounced dead. The men who had helped Stafford left the hospital and the Oak Park police were unable to find them.

Louis Levine, 12 years old, of 653 Gordon terrace, son of Albert Levine of the firm of P. D. Kahan & Co., who sold better dealers, died early this morning in the Lake View hospital after being run down by an automobile at Clarendon and Galt avenues. The boy was taken to the hospital by Emmett Gilmer, 30 years old, a Negro, 4710 Indiana avenue. Witnesses said that Gilmer drove the car that hit the boy, but he denied this. He was held.

The deaths of Kapps and the Levine boy increased the Cook county automobile toll for 1932 to 1,048.

Daniel Clark, 35 years old, of Elgin, was fatally injured last night when an automobile in which he was riding collided with another driven by Irvin Peace, also of Elgin, in the business section of Woodstock. He died shortly afterward. Police said an unidentified companion who was riding with Fisk jumped into the car of Peace immediately after the accident and fled with him. He was fired on by Policeman Fothergill of Woodstock, but escaped.

HINES ESTATE ONLY $300,000, ACCOUNT SHOWS

An inventory of the estate of Edward Hines, lumber magnate, who died Dec. 1, 1931, was filed yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court, showing the value of his estate at $300,000.

Mr. Hines was reputedly a multimillionaire, but it was disclosed when his will was filed that years before his death he had transferred the bulk of his estate to his family, while retaining executive control of his lumber companies. He distributed assets estimated at $100,000 to his wife and children in 1914, and in 1924 gave them 2,000 shares in the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company. Mrs. Loretta Hines, 1456 Ridge avenue, Evanston, the widow, is sole heir to the estate now in the Probate court.

The largest single item in the estate is 2,175 shares of stock of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, now quoted at a little more than $100 a share. Other assets of the Edward home, 115,107 cash, and insurance policies worth $25,537.

Listed as doubtful are 26,001 shares in the Edward Hines Lumber company and shares in several other lumber companies. The inventory catalogues as "desperate" notes totaling $200,000 which Mr. Hines held, from various individuals.

OVER 15 BILLION SPENT BY NATION ON VETERANS' AID

Hines Voices Demand for Sound Policy.

(Chicago Tribune Staff Service.)

Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—(Special.)—A demand for a sound national policy for veterans' relief was made today by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, before the joint congressional committee on veterans' legislation.

Reviewing the history of federal relief activities and showing that the government has spent $15,738,853 for world war veterans alone out of a total expenditure of $15,738,853 for the veterans of all wars during the 143 years of the country's existence, Gen. Hines declared:

Points to Generosity. "There are those who wonder whether the exceptional prosperity following the world war did not lead us to a generosity which in the long run will prove burdensome or even impossible of continuance."

The veterans' administrator showed that on last Sept. 30 there were 1,307,322 living and dead veterans of all wars and the regular army on account of whom benefits were being paid at the rate of $45,774,163 a month, which $26,736,203 went to world war veterans.

Program Is Proposed. Gen. Hines asked that veterans' legislation be revised to secure equality and the elimination of abuses on these principles:

1. As a matter of justice, but not as a reward for service, to all veterans of either sex who have served in the commissioned or enlisted forces of the United States in time of war and who have been exposed to the dangers of war and who as a direct consequence of that service have been disabled from injury or disease or who have suffered any aggravation of a pre-existing injury or disease.

2. Relief to the surviving widows and children of veterans if the latter have died while in service or subsequently from injury or disease directly incurred in or aggravated by service, but only on dependent status and mother and other surviving relatives should be considered for such benefits.

Aid for Needy Veterans. "3. Pensions for those veterans in need who have honorably served their country and who, through the passing of years, have become disabled or incapacitated by age so that they cannot successfully carry on."

"4. When these veterans referred to under item 3 have been provided for their widows and children should be granted relief in a less amount than provided for the group referred to under paragraph 2."

ALDERMEN STUDY PLAN TO CHANGE STREET NAMES

The city council committee on local industries, streets, and alleys yesterday appointed a subcommittee representing all quarters of the city to consider two ordinances reforming the street name system of Chicago.

The ordinance would change all north and south thoroughfares to avenues, and all east and west thoroughfares to streets, and would retitle "North" and "South" streets to "North" and "South" streets.

The plan, if carried out, would change the names of some of the most famous thoroughfares in Chicago. State, Dearborn, Chicago, La Salle, Wabash, and Madison would become avenues, Roosevelt road, Archer avenue, and Wilson avenue would become streets. This led to strenuous objections from Ald. John Coughlin (1st).

MILD EPIDEMIC OF FLU IN CITY, SAYS BUNDESEN

Chicago is suffering from a moderate epidemic of influenza, President H. B. Bunsen of the board of health announced yesterday after he had received statistics on influenza cases and deaths for November and for the first week in December. The death rate from pneumonia, frequent aftermath of influenza, has increased 125 per cent in the first week of December over the same period last year.

The present situation gives no occasion for alarm, he said, adding that the vast majority of the prevailing cases of respiratory illnesses are probably not influenza, but common colds.

"If the person who gets a cold will only go to bed," said Dr. Bunsen, "and for a doctor and remain indoors until he is well, these colds will not lead to influenza or pneumonia. It is the neglected cold that results in the latter diseases. The common cold is in itself seldom or never fatal. However, if influenza or pneumonia develops, the affair becomes serious and requires good nursing and medical care."

Arrange Silver Screen Dance

Here's Latest Information on Gifts for Men

Stress Masculine Touch in Articles.

BY RHEA SEBGER.

Informal information on interesting trifles and things that are not trifles—families of clerical looking penguins, father, very aloof and dignified, mother a bit snooty but approachable, youngsters going the way of the best brought up young penguins are now available for some special person's doodad collection or desk or mantel. They are engaging trifles for the "something different" gift class. They are carved and colored in the exact manner of the original fascinating penguin plotters that Commander Byrd and his companions enjoyed as a comic strip when they wintered in Little America.

Another masculine gift that deserves much more than the honorable mention is the hickory, or maybe it is walnut, steak server... buy it for a modest sum and present it to any male with a cooking complex. The platter is oblong, built for a steak of heroic circumference, and is rimmed with pewter and boasts of two easy to manage handles, also of pewter. A long pronged fork that can easily plunge through two or three inches of juicy rare meat is matched with a carving knife that has an edge that even a chef would O. K.

This sturdy, solid ensemble is a perfect find for the modern, female-less bachelor establishment, there's nothing frilly or feminine about it, so it ought to be a huge success.

People who can't remember any sort of a recipe or formula, liquid or solid, will cheer lustily when presented with the newest cocktail shaker, brilliantly engraved with all the good get-togethers decorating the tall sides of the container... to the casual eye they appear somewhat like Egyptian hieroglyphs, but to the guest the codes are as simple as A B C.

Another eat and be merry power affair consists of six man-size beer mugs with a cheese platter rimmed with pewter and a cheese knife with a pewter handle, the idea being that each cheese and cracker or rye bread sandwich maker gets his own hunk of cheese.

Some knockout looking book ends that will certainly please a man are the pair of pushing black wood elephants that have white tusks, red eyes and are gaily in the position to hold in a collection of old books.

And even the brushes and whisk brooms for masculine use have gone to the dogs for inspiration... now you can buy a set of brushes with Boston bull pups toting the things, a flaming red clothes brush or green or yellow brush is held in place with a head of a hunting hound or the head of a grinning English bulldog.

You can get the best looking toilet leather dressing table gadget... the container is covered with leather, the ash trays, the cuff and collar button box, the tray for the pipe and a dish for "anything or everything" is of gleaming copper. Good looking binocular lamps, also of copper, can be wrapped for some land locked mariner to use on dressing or bedside table.

The newest find for glass identification is a collection of six shining clips... guests who need refilling are tagged, so to speak, their glasses have one of these chromium clips fitted over the rim and that clip serves as a visible calling back to the right consumer. You can buy them in sixes, an elephant, a monkey, a pair of dice, Mickey Mouse, a cat and, of course, a water spaniel. They are boxed and ready for wrapping and Christmas delivery.

Dancing costumes of 167 B. C. Will Be Worn at Festival. Dancing costumes of the design of 167 B. C. will be worn by the dancing chorus which is to appear in a scene of the Chanukah festival at the Chicago Stadium on Dec. 25. Isaac Van Coot calls for a shallow bowl, terraced rows of seats, and a roof overhead to shelter the artists and spectators in inclement weather.

Memberships of $1 each will be solicited to defray the cost. More than $5,000 was pledged by the group. The committee includes: Mr. Stock, honorary chairman; Chalmers McCormick, Mrs. Borden, Mrs. Fairbank and Charles B. Goodspeed, co-chairmen; Mrs. Arthur Meeker, George Lytton, Mrs. Frederic Upham, Mrs. Frances Johnson, and Mrs. Charles Swift, vice chairmen; and Charles Swift, Oswald J. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hamill, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Russell Tyson, Arthur Bissell, Augustus Russell, Dr. F. Kelly, John Alden Carpenter, Rudolph Ganz, Harold McCormick, and Mrs. Alfred Wolff.

Representatives of many faiths will take part tomorrow afternoon in the ground breaking ceremony for the Hall of Religions at the World's Fair. The participants will assemble at the exposition's Hall of Science and with 1,000 choristers leading the procession will march to the site of the building at 23d street and the lake front.

Nearly all the Christian sects, Jews, Brahmins, Shintoists, and Buddhists will be represented, many in robes or other ceremonial garb. The ground-breaking ceremony proper will include the singing of hymns, spirituals, an anthem, and psalm, an invocation by Rabbi Gerson B. Levi, an address by Bishop George Craig Stewart and benediction by Dr. Robert Clemens.

Aids Benefit Ball

Miss Peggy Glidden is one of the girls who has been working on arrangements for the "Shadows of Paris" ball to be given tonight at the Stevens hotel for the benefit of Arden Shore. Miss Glidden is to be one of the cigarette girls at the ball, which is expected to be one of the gayest charity balls of the winter. Her engagement to John R. Rogers of Austable Falls, N. Y., was announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Glidden of Highland Park, early in the autumn, but the wedding is not planned to take place until late next spring.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police in many cases when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case-book covering hundreds of actual investigations.

Dear Prof. Fordney: I have just read in today's paper that the police are convinced that Mason, who was found shot to death on the highway between the 17th and 18th holes of the Bonard Country Club, three days ago, was a suicide. The report states that while he was a notorious blackmailer and many had reason for wishing him dead, they believe he killed himself over a threatened exposure.

Although I knew absolutely nothing of this affair until I read about it, and have never been within five hundred yards of the spot where Mason was found, I have proof that he was murdered. I haven't come forward with this evidence because, strange as it may seem, I didn't know I possessed it until this morning. I've been ill for the past two days.

The police may think my story a strange one, as indeed it is. Therefore, knowing something of your reputation, I would like to place the evidence I speak of, in your hands.

Cordially yours, JONATHAN P. TATE, PH.D.

"There you are, fellows," smiled Fordney, noting the puzzled expressions of his students. Littlefield's eyes gleamed. "Mason was murdered."

HOW HAD HE COME INTO POSSESSION OF IT? Notation—The above was submitted by G. E. Barber, St. Louis, Mo. Perhaps you have a student you would like Prof. Fordney to submit to his class. If so send it to him in care of this paper. He will be delighted to see what his students make of it. (See solution on page 21.)

Virginia Chapman Will Make Debut at Dinner Dance Dec. 29

Betty Rowe to Have Party Jan. 2; Former Edith Fairbanks Arrives Today.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MORE debut plans! Miss Virginia Chapman, the third of the John A. Chapman's four attractive daughters, is to make her debut at a dinner dance on Thursday, Dec. 29, at the Casino. Her sister, Margaret, made her debut last year on the same date at a dinner dance at the same club. And Eleanor, the eldest daughter, was presented formally at a similar party the year before that on Dec. 27.

Caroline, the baby of the family, will not be a debutante for several years for she still is a schoolgirl. That sentence is a bit ambiguous for being a schoolgirl doesn't necessarily mean that one is too young to have "come out," but in this case it does, for Caroline will not be old enough to make her debut for several years. Two of her older sisters, however, are schoolgirls, too, or rather college girls, for Eleanor goes to Bryn Mawr and Virginia to the University of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Davis Rowe will give a dinner party on Monday, Jan. 2, at the Tavern, for Mr. Rowe's debutante daughter, Betty, who is arriving next Wednesday from New York to spend the holidays with the Rowes in Barrington. Miss Rowe will be with her aunt, Mrs. Alvin C. McCord, of 191 East Walton place, on nights when she is in town for late parties, for trying to get away out to Barrington would be too difficult after a ball, considering that most of them don't start until midnight and so of course aren't over until 5 or 6 o'clock in the morning. The dinner that Mr. and Mrs. Rowe will give will be a small one.

Gay Party at Saddle and Cycle.

The regular Saturday dinner dance at the Saddle and Cycle club tonight will be unusually gay and probably larger than usual for Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Cowham are entertaining about a hundred of the younger set at a party for their debutante niece, Miss Mary Senior, and Miss Cornelia Fairbanks will have about thirty guests for her brother-in-law and sister, Count and Countess Ruggero Visconti who will arrive this morning for a two months' visit to this country. They are accompanied by Count Vittorio Emanuele Borromeo, a young bachelor who advances accounts all agree to be an unusually attractive young man. The trio will be guests of the young couple's parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Fairbanks, and Miss Fairbanks at 1500 Lake Shore drive, during the holidays.

This is the former Edith Fairbanks' first visit home since she became the bride of young Visconti in June, 1931, at the Chicago apartment of her parents.

The trio of Italian visitors will have luncheon at the Saddle and Cycle tomorrow, also, for Mrs. and Miss Fairbanks are giving a luncheon for three of the season's debutantes, Miss Laura Thorne, Miss Lydia Swift, and Miss Mary Reed, at the club. There will be about forty in the party which will be entertained by some music after luncheon.

Forty of this and last year's debutantes and their escorts are to admit to each other what their suppressed desires are tomorrow night for they have been requested to wear costumes that will express these hitherto suppressed desires to a buffet supper party that Miss Peggy Glidden is giving for Miss Eleanor Page and Miss Helen Marie Castle at the residence [Continued on page 21, column 1.]

Good Morning!

He's never been elected King of Moviedom. But for a tint and a that, as Mr. Burns would say, he's the favorite actor of countless more folks than you could shake a stick at. Who? Who else but Wallace Beery?

Did he play "em in "Min and Bill"? He did. Did he go over like a prairie fire in "Give Champagne"? All eyes! In "Flesh"—what does he do? Why he plays the bell fender and clear. [Says, burns, rings... Atta boy scout!]

True, in this movie, the star looks those grand companion pieces, Marie Dressler and Jackie Cooper, who appeared with him in "Min and Bill" and "The Champ," respectively. But Mr. Beery's own subtle something, while of a widely different variety from the common "it" species, carries him triumphantly over all the story's hurdles. He's the only principal you're able to like at all. You feel a bit sorry for Karen Morley, but you're mad at her most of the time, and while admitting that Ricardo Cortez gives a good performance, you're glad when the rascal's dead, which fatality doesn't occur soon enough to suit you.

See you tomorrow.

Reveal Plans for Lake Front Music Temple

Hope to Start Work Early in New Year.

Chicago will have a permanent temple of music located on the lake front within the World's Fair grounds. Plans were announced yesterday when fifty men and women met at the home of Mrs. Walter Borden at 1020 Lake Shore drive and organized the Chicago Friends of Music, Inc.

Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank and Fredrick Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, explained that a pavilion similar to the Ravinia open air opera house will be erected at a cost of $100,000. It is hoped that work will start by Feb. 1.

The stage will be large enough to hold choruses of 600 persons. The designs being prepared by Holmberg Root call for a shallow bowl, terraced rows of seats, and a roof overhead to shelter the artists and spectators in inclement weather.

Memberships of $1 each will be solicited to defray the cost. More than $5,000 was pledged by the group.

The committee includes: Mr. Stock, honorary chairman; Chalmers McCormick, Mrs. Borden, Mrs. Fairbank and Charles B. Goodspeed, co-chairmen; Mrs. Arthur Meeker, George Lytton, Mrs. Frederic Upham, Mrs. Frances Johnson, and Mrs. Charles Swift, vice chairmen; and Charles Swift, Oswald J. # BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Henry White sails his four-masted schooner, the Admiral White, in search of a shipwrecked vessel, the Arctique, which was wrecked in a South Sea island. Arctique, the French captain's granddaughter, has brought his complete instructions for finding the ship. Arctique is accompanied by an English woman of title known as Ladybird. In his crew are Adam Brown, an unemployed outcast, Robert Miller, a sailor, and Henry Shepley, a doctor. The ship's radio house has a crew of his own choosing, including a lot of used cars and launches, and plans to stop at certain ports to trade cargoes. One owner of an unused car sends his French chauffeur, Raoul, along. Ladybird, who is a naval officer's daughter, is made mate. Henry, a cook, hires up for his keep. Four seafaring men Henry hired to load the cargo didn't appear to collect their wages before the boat sailed. They turn out to be capitalists, who had the ship a life and she is caught in a whirlpool. Ladybird is hurt trying to union the leader's arms while the boat jibes, but the jibe has given the men a chance to get at their captors. They get them all tied up.

INSTALLMENT XVII.

A DISMAL QUARTER.

A daylight inspection showed the damage from the heavy jibe to have been comparatively slight. There was no great amount of injury to the launches lashed along the deck. They had been snugly wedged and choiced and fastened with heavy trapezoidal lashed over them. Except for the big one of which the square stern had crashed through the forward deck house no havoc had been made to or by the boats.

Capt. Hiram said to Ladybird, "That was one time when the honest old timers put this one through stood by."

"Don't forget the sailmakers," she said.

No danger. Everybody pulled together. She hasn't sopped up a bucketful through her seams nor started anything nor begun to squeal like some ships do after such a wrench. The stuff in her is staunch and solid as the souls of her shipwrights."

Ladybird rubbed a big bruise above the tip of her ear. "Her decks are, too," Capt. Hiram said at her and nodded.

"You're the same stuff, but higher grade, Mister Mate. No use my trying to say what I think about that."

"None whatever," she agreed. "I couldn't stand the suspense a minute longer."

"Even now," Ladybird went on, "it makes me a bit sick to know they still allowed, even if they are locked up and under guard."

Capt. Hiram did not rise to the bait of this partial query. He had not said a word to anybody about his disposition of the bandits. Nobody had asked point blank about it. There are officers of the Capt. Hiram sort, whether nautical or military or industrial, who are quiet to the point of gentleness, almost self-effacing in their commands, and yet contain some quality that is the spirit of discipline; not its exhibition but its deeper active principle.

He had finished his inspection, issued a few quiet orders more in the nature of directions, to Henry about repair work, and now went aft with Ladybird. Peter was at the wheel. Adam's fractured clavicle had been strapped up by Ladybird and he was handing for Henry. Raoul and old Benny were stowing things in a big storeroom that was a cross between a hold and a dry. It was provided with an early type of heavy duty engine and a sail rig.

By noon the wind had lightened to about a ten knot breeze and the surface of the sea was comparatively still over the big swells. "Like a hilly golf course," Roberta observed.

She was making an effort at gaiety. But it did not ring true. The sudden removal of the sense of doom that had hung over them brought its relief but not the cheer one would expect. A feeling of tension still prevailed. It was like living in a house that is quarantined with a case of plague in one of its closed rooms. The other inmates were not afraid of infection because all due precautions were being taken. But they could not feel at ease until the quarantine was raised.

If Capt. Hiram noticed this uneasy tension, as of course he did, he totally ignored it. The situation was as new to him as it was to any of the others. His nautical experience had been strangely free from violence. He had always sailed about contented ships. The term "happy ship" is an exaggeration, almost a misnomer because no ship is happy. Shipboard life must always be an abnormal life. Men are fashioned to live on the land and not upon the sea. Despite the claims of romancers, idealists, ships are made not to live upon but merely to go from place to place upon the high seas.

The sudden change in the condition prevailing aboard came as a shock, notably to the land folk. With no change of manner Capt. Hiram said quietly: "Take the wheel, Mister Mate."

Ladybird did so. The breeze had lightened and the Abigail was moving slowly under her shortened canvas. The sails lowered had not been hoisted again. Capt. Hiram ordered the hand sails dropped.

"Luff," said the captain quietly to Ladybird. "Heave her to."

Slowly the Abigail swung round into the wind with a flapping and a jarring as the big swell took her abeam, then came in on the weather bow. When her headway was nearly lost Capt. Hiram ordered the seasick to be lowered. It was on the lee side against the rail, a provisional lifeboat.

Capt. Hiram stepped into his cabin and came out with the only weapon he ever carried aboard. This was an old fashioned repeating shot gun. He handed it to Raoul.

"You say you've been a soldier, so hang on to this one. Henry, you and Raoul and Benny and Peter go forward and bring these four stowaways aft."

"All right, sir."

The four men went forward silently. Adam without waiting for an order walked to the fore and drew out a belaying pin.

"Keep her as she is, Mister Mate," Capt. Hiram called. He looked over the rail at the sea which felt fendered was jarring against the schooner's side. It was held by a long sea painter and a stern line. The abeam boat had been built for such contact in the condition threatened for them.

The group of men came down the deck. They were a dismal looking quartet. Capt. Smith and the man who had guarded Henry and Benny were bandaged about the head. All were pale but ailing and defiant. They did not think they had much to fear from the mild mannered Capt. Hiram.

As they came to where Capt. Hiram stood, Smith asked savagely: "What's the big idea?"

"You're going for a sail," Capt. Hiram answered.

"In what?"

"In a good staunch boat. You'll find all you need aboard her. With a dory compass. You know your course for the Cape Verde. Over with you."

Capt. Smith stepped to the rail and looked over. He spat, then turned and said: "In that thing? What if it blows up again?"

"Overboard."

One of the men snarled. "Say, why don't you plug us first and throw us over?"

"All right, if you like that better," Capt. Hiram stepped to Raoul and took the shotgun from him.

"Suits me better, too," he said grimly, and aimed the piece at the man's head.

Arlette leaning on the rail above them with Roberta shrieked. For a moment all were certain that the bandit was as good as dead. There is no gauge by which to measure the intention of a man who never blusters, never threatens, but seems motivated by that most inexpressible code that is official duty.

Young Chaney Asks Villain Roles in Films

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 9.—Creighton Chaney, son of the late Lon Chaney, who has pushed his way up the film ladder in the last year by good action, plus a lot of hard work and mental effort, has filed an odd request with his employers at RKO studio.

"I want to play villain parts," young Chaney told them. They had intended building him up to become a leading man, so they asked why he wanted to turn "heavy."

Chaney said, blushing, "I'm a better actor at it; I can't help feeling embarrassed and forgetful when I play a hero and have to kiss a girl."

As a reward for her series of successful film portrayals, Wynne Gibson has received a new contract at Paramount.

They are using rubber for making the poses that form dorsal decorations for the sets at M-G-M. Real roses would wither under the intense heat at once; and the prop department found that all cloth and composition fabrics also deteriorated.

Sari Maritza stayed so long in New York to do her Christmas shopping that she had to catch a plane to get back here in time for dress fittings. She arrived yesterday, doing the 3,600 mile flight in 24 hours.

Three planes set off from Croydon, airport in London tomorrow morning, according to cables received at Radio studio, to take Ernest Schoedsack's movie making expedition to the near east. The party, headed by Ernest and Felix Schoedsack, brothers, are using one plane for passenger purposes and the other to carry cameras, films, clothing and camping material into the mountains of Mesopotamia.

Yakima Canutt, who used to be a cowboy film headliner in the silent days, is now playing a subordinate role in "Scarlet River," a wild west film which is a starring vehicle at RKO for Tom Keene, young actor who is a fine young fellow but a totally synthetic cowboy.

Low Stone has been cast with Helen Hayes again, this time as Prince Charming in the remake of "White Sister." They both appeared in "Son of the Storm" at the same studio—M-G-M—where remakes are still uncompleted.

Fellow Hates Being 'Told' by Girl Friend

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Does it pay to deliver ultimatum to the young man?

Does it pay to say: "You'll take me where I want to go, or you'll get a new girl?"

Does it pay to put on a grousing scene if the evening's program undergoes an alteration of any kind?

You know very well it does not. The wonder is that you young women go on gambling with this kind of bomb!

S. H. has been going around with a young man fairly steadily for two years. Last week she insisted upon him taking her to a certain dance.

Perhaps the girl had reason to expect her steady suitor to escort her to the dance. And perhaps there was great disappointment at his refusal that doesn't alter the fact that girls who succeed best with men are those who handle their disappointments cleverly. The thing for S. H. to do was to go to the dance and have a good time. If she reported a good time to her regular young man—well, next time he wouldn't be so anxious to let her go without him. Or, she could have coaxed him into taking her. If his company meant everything to her, certainly not to rear up and bark at his suggestion of withdrawal. One fault of our young American woman is the boss-ownership she adopts toward the suitor. Some men may like it; anyway, not openly resent it. With others, it is a red rag. Where you have the latter kind of young man to handle the best thing to do is to use tact and not command in getting around him. It's a game that successful wives become quite adept at.

They don't tell their husbands: "You've got to play bridge tonight! They wangle the gentlemen into willingness to escort his wife to the neighbor's bridge table by much more adroit methods. We'd recommend a little more of this sort of thing for the properly-minded young woman toward the boy-friend!

CARNERA JABS OUT 10 ROUND DECISION OVER LEVINSKY

RECORD CROWD OF 105,000 WILL SEE GRID FINAL

MAN MOUNTAIN'S IMPROVEMENT SURPRISES FANS

14,333 See King Take Licking.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Primo Carnera, one time prize exhibit in his traveling ring carnival, turned fighter last night. In ten rounds Carnera decisively whipped King Levinsky, who in his better days has held the American rights to eccentricity and boyhood goodness. Man Mountain and fish peddler proved a bonanza for the Stadium, whose officials announced with pleasure that 14,333 saw the engagement and that gross receipts were $22,632.50.

Victory for Carnera was a second chapter of this story, for a year ago the King lost to Primo in the Stadium ring. Last night, although badly beaten, the King finished with the official approval of one judge, Livingston Osborne, who voted 52 to 48 for him, adding, however, that Carnera's unethical tactics accounted for the decision. Rube Metz, the other judge, gave Carnera the bout, 52 to 48. Referee Ed Purdy plumped solidly for the Italian, 59 to 41.

King Gets One Vote.

The night's news may be summarized in Carnera's actions. The big Italian, 251 pounds in weight and 6 feet 7 inches in height, apparently has learned the rudiments of the prize ring. Primo never has been a lithe and speedy athlete. He's built for wear. But some one in the last year has taught this mountain of muscle to jab, and when Carnera reached out with his mammoth forearm, which would shame any village smithy, and snapped his glove in Levinsky's face, the King rocked on his heels.

That left hand, which moved slowly but effectively, had Levinsky dodging. The King couldn't realize how easily Primo could reach half across the ring and he was always stepping within range. Carnera also produced a right cross, and while he led with it, there were occasions when only the thickness of Levinsky's skull saved him from being dropped to the floor.

Carnera Switches Attack.
Carnera won, but the excitement was produced by Levinsky. Most of this action was crowded into the first round, which the King won by elevating his range to elude Carnera's large chin three times. Carnera staggered backward in surprise and his actions brought a roar of appreciation from the thousands, most of whom had come hoping to see the King knock out his opponent.

Levinsky affected no special technique. He merely plunged under the outlying arms and failed his right hand to the jaw. Carnera's grin disappeared and his face glowed with indignation. He glared anxiously at the squad of seconds in his corner, and they motioned encouragingly and pantomimed an attack to the body. Primo backed away and then walked in again to commence an attack which proved him unquestionably the better fighter.

King Has a Minute.
The first round was Levinsky's big minute. He leaped in the air, bounding like a cat, and went to the body, and generally expressed his lack of regard for Carnera. But the King's celebration was premature. At no time after this did he bother Primo, who plugged along with mechanical steadiness.

Carnera's size, of course, was the largest factor in his victory. But that was less willard's forte until a Dempsey came along to wage the small man's fight. Levinsky in his own right is a slow, large man, however, and certainly no Dempsey—or is it necessary to mention that?

Carnera shuffled across the canvas, pressing toward Levinsky and finally hitting him with his left hand. Finally Levinsky's mouth was battered and he frequently pawed at his bruised lips. His right eye also was partly closed by the sixth round of the one sided battle.

Carnera Knows Tricks.
Infrequently Levinsky rushed. But Carnera's superstrength forced the King back. On other occasions Primo clutched the King to his breast with one hand, methodically thumping his ribs with his other, until they gleamed a bright red.

Toward the end Levinsky was a mighty tired young man, whose natural vitality probably was sapped by his recent bout with Invincible. Even so the King managed a final spurt which earned him a draw in the last round.

Martin Levandowski, a light heavyweight, whose skill as an amateur boxer won a national championship for Grand Rapids, Mich., knocked out Harold Scarnay of Youngstown, O., in one of the eight round semi-finals.

Terry Beats Stuhley.
Young Terry of Trenton, N. J., outpointed Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., middleweight, in the other eight rounder.

Les Morrison, Chicago heavyweight, jabbed out a six round victory over Tony Cancelli, Tampa, Fla.

Texas Moore, waded through six uninteresting rounds to gain a decision over Tommy Davenport of Little Rock, Ark. Both are heavyweights. In the four round opener, Jack Moran, Chicago 160 pounder, after losing seven fights, won the decision over Ray Trumble of Rockford, Ill.

WHEN KING'S THREATS WERE ONLY KING'S JESTS

M'Hugh Beats Olin Dutra in Coast Golf

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Outstanding favorite of the tournament, giant Olin Dutra of Santa Monica, Cal., bowed out of the San Francisco national open match play championship today as the loser in a third round match with Johnny M'Hugh of San Diego, 3 and 2.

Medalist of the tourney and holder of the P. G. A. title, Dutra was unable to match the brilliant play which carried M'Hugh into tomorrow's quarter final.

Dutra's Putter Fails.
The youthful M'Hugh, four times winner of the California amateur crown before he decided to play for money, toured the course in par figures and was one up at the ninth, with a par 25 for the first half. Dutra used 37 strokes for the first nine.

Dutra's putter failed him throughout the match. He three-putted the ninth and missed a two-footer on the sixteenth for the half that would have kept him in the running.

Leo Diegel of Agua Caliente, winner of the 1928 tournament, advanced to the quarter final in a two up win over Robert Sweeney of London, last of the amateur entrants. Diegel held a one up lead at the ninth. Two of the four leading Espinosas, Romie, San Francisco, and Abe of Medina, Ill., put on a duel with Romie, youngest of the family, taking a 19 hole decision over his oldest brother, Romie shot a birdie four to win the extra hole.

Mortie Dutra Wins.
Mortie Dutra, 41, Long Beach, brother of Olin, edged out a close win over Jimmy Thomson of Colorado Springs, with the match going to the 19th. Dutra's par five was too good for Thomson on the additional hole. Each shot for the half that would have kept him in the running.

13 Southern Schools Quit Conference

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 9.—(AP)—The long rumored break within the Southern conference came tonight as thirteen institutions officially presented their resignations and announced the formation of a new group to be known as the Southeastern conference.

The teams which withdrew from the present conference were Alabama, Auburn, Tennessee, Sewanee, Vanderbilt, Kentucky, Florida, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Louisiana State, Tulane, Mississippi, and Mississippi State.

Kentuckian Heads Group.
Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky, was named president of the new conference. J. P. Broussard of Louisiana State was elected vice president, and A. H. Armstrong of Georgia Tech, secretary.

In offering the resignations, Dr. Tigert said: "Since in our judgment the time has arrived for a more compact organization for the administration of athletics, it seems wise for a division of the Southern conference to be made solely on geographical lines."

He said members of the Southeastern conference would continue intercollegiate relations with members of the Southern conference, and would at all times promote intimate and cordial contacts with members of the sister conference.

Hopes for Bigger Gates.
In receiving the resignations President C. R. Miles of the Southern conference said: "We regret you see fit to withdraw. I hope you may prosper, and may your gates be bigger and better."

Jimmy Maloney Wins in Third Comeback
Boston, Mass., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Jimmy Maloney of Boston got his third comeback campaign off to a successful start tonight by waddling around the inexperienced Johnny Dixon, former Boston college football captain, for a 10 round decision in the Boston Garden's feature contest.

Maloney's weight was announced as 210. He looked much heavier. Dixon had 207 pounds thinly spread over his 4 feet 4 inch frame.

CHOCOLATE GETS CLOSE DECISION OVER LA BARBA

Holds Title Claim by Thread in Thrilling Bout.

New York, Dec. 9.—[Special.]—Kid Chocolate, Cuban Negro, still is the world's featherweight champion in New York, but his crown hangs by a slender thread.

In fifteen rounds of scintillating boxing tonight in Madison Square Garden, carrying the added thrill of a champion almost toppled from his throne by a knockout punch, Chocolate emerged with the decision over Fidel La Barba, California challenger, but the majority of the fourteen thousand who witnessed the bout disagreed with the award which retained the title for Chocolate.

In one of the closest ring battles that can be imagined, where it was truly nip and tuck, with first one and then the other holding the upper hand, Chocolate got the palm. He won on the decision of the judges.

La Barba Impresses.
La Barba gave as fine an exhibition of boxing skill as a local ring has held in many months and fought a champion's battle from start to finish.

Both sparred cautiously at the start and then La Barba opened serious hostilities by scoring with a sharp left hook to the body. He followed this by sending Chocolate's head back with two lefts to the head, ending the flurry with a solid right to the body.

Midway in the second round Chocolate unleashed a furious offensive and forced La Barba around the ring under a flurry of rights and lefts. Many of the blows missed their mark, but others scored, and they hurt the challenger. They staged frequent mid-ring exchanges, but the champion dominated most of the action throughout this round.

Chocolate Slows His Foe.
Chocolate smashed three hard rights in quick succession to La Barba's body near the close of the third round and they slowed the attack of the Californian. After a fast fourth round, in which Chocolate pummeled La Barba savagely about the body, the challenger rallied in the fifth and scored repeatedly with solid left hooks to the body and head.

Chocolate missed a vicious right uppercut soon after the sixth got under way and he followed this with a brilliant attack that lasted until the bell sent the boxers to their corners.

The challenger braced in the seventh and closed a brilliant session by spitting the champion's lips with three successive lefts. Chocolate dominated the frequent exchanges in the next round, after smothering La Barba with the fierceness of his attack.

Fidel Slips to Canvas.
La Barba scored with a hard right to the heart in the ninth and slipped to his glove tips, evading Chocolate's wild counter, a right to the jaw. The challenger brought the crowd up standing with his closing outburst.

With neither boxer showing signs of weakening, the tenth and eleventh sessions saw the champion and challenger in furious rallies, with La Barba landing the more solid blows. Frequent exchanges marked the action at this stage with honors about even.

The challenger dominated the action in the next two sessions, staggering the champion midway in the twelfth with a terrific left to the face. La Barba followed this with a volley of lefts to the body, almost sending Chocolate to the floor.

La Barba maintained his fast pace in the thirteenth, frequently landing solid lefts to the heart and jaw.

Champion Is Staggered.
Just before the close of the fourthteenth La Barba staggered Chocolate with a solid left to the head and one to the jaw, but the champion came back strongly and hurt the challenger with lefts and rights to the face. Both maintained their fast pace, and in the final session the champion scored frequently with lefts and rights to the body and an occasional hook.

Paul Dazzo, Chicago, 135½, and Sid Lampe, Paterson, N. J., 125, fought a five round draw. Frank Battaglia, Winthrop, middleweight, won a ten round decision over Chick Devlin.

Canada Names Alex Wilson Best Athlete

OTTAWA, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Alex Wilson, former middle distance track star at Notre Dame and a point winner for Canada in the 1932 Olympics, today was voted Canada's outstanding amateur athlete by the annual convention of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

Wilson finished second to Tom Hampson of England in the 300 meters at Los Angeles and third to Bill Carr and Ben Eastman in the 400 meters.

The award, which carries with it the Norton H. Crowe memorial trophy, is similar to the Sullivan medal awarded to the outstanding athlete in the United States, who is picked by some 600 sports officials and writers.

WINS $1 VERDICT IN $50,000 SUIT AGAINST HUDKINS

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 9.—(AP)—Seeking $50,000 damages from Ace Hudkins, boxer, for a blow he said Hudkins administered to him, T. Leonard Parks was awarded $1 by a Superior court jury today.

Parks charged Hudkins knocked him to the sidewalk, causing his head to strike the concrete, thus rendering him unconscious for eight days. Hudkins said he only shoved Parks. After the verdict, the pugilist produced a $1 bill and handed it to the court clerk.

Ellen Dorsey, companion of Hudkins at the time of the encounter, exhibited a crooked little finger today, testifying that it was struck and broken by Parks as she tried to pull Hudkins away from the argument.

BY ARCH WARD.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 9.—Notre Dame and Southern California, inter-section rivals for seven years, meet tomorrow before the record crowd of 1932 and ere night falls on Olympic stadium the nation will know where they develop better football players, on the Pacific coast or in the middle west.

No better representatives of their sections could be obtained. Southern California enters the game with a record of 18 consecutive victories. Notre Dame, beaten only by Pittsburgh, has defeated Army, Navy, Northwestern, Carnegie, Kansas, Drake, and Haskell.

Rain Is Imminent.

So far as general interest is concerned, tomorrow's meeting of these two great eleven is the high spot of the season. More people will have heard the score a few minutes after the game than knew the result of the battle of Waterloo for weeks. As many spectators as attended any session of the Olympic games will be banded around the gridiron. There were only 5,000 unsold tickets tonight and barring rain, which seems imminent, a capacity gathering of 105,000 will look on.

Using the season's record as a measuring stick, you must like the Trojans. Southern California is undefeated. It is a battle tried. It has a brilliant open field runner in Homer Griffith, a crashing plunger in Bob Eskrine, and a pair of great tackles in Tay Brown and Ernie Smith.

More than all these, Southern California seems to have been kissed upon the forehead by fortune. The hunch won't down that this is a team of destiny. It knows how to put up a last ditch stand, as it did against Washington and Loyola. It knows how to drive to the end, early and stay there, as it did against Stanford and California. It has balance and sufficient versatility to make tactical adjustments. It is rich in reserves.

Dig Chance for Notre Dames.

Against this weighty combination is a Notre Dame team that started out like a house afire against Haskell, Drake and Carnegie and then blew out completely against Pittsburgh in its first major test. Decisive but impressive victories over Kansas, Northwestern and the Navy were followed by a brilliant exhibition against the Army and tonight Notre Dame finds itself in position to take a place beside its great eleven of the past. Whether or not it reaches that goal depends on its showing tomorrow.

Coach Hearty Anderson and his squad of 25 arrived this evening after an all day ride from Tucson, Ariz., where they have been trying to shake off flu germs for two days. They will have no more work until game time. The Southern California squad moved out of town last night to a seaside retreat, where it will rest until noon tomorrow.

If rain holds off, the day will be the best Los Angeles has had for football this fall. There is a tang in the air that midwest teams enjoy in October and November. The temperature is between 55 and 60 degrees. The

SMITTY—A NEW ROAD

He Boots in Two Victors at Jefferson Park.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 9.—(Special.)—Frank Mills rode two winners at Jefferson Park today, as against one for Johnny Gilbert, and the score between the two for the riding leadership now stands 134 for Gilbert and 133 for Mills. Mills had four mounts during today and Gilbert five.

Gilbert was the first to score, getting Mrs. R. L. Waters' Polaire home in the third race. Mills won on G. T. Young's Predict in the eighth, with Boone & Davis' Watchgirl in the sixth.

Predict was not a favorite, returning $14.40 for $2 after he had negotiated the six furlongs in 1:14 over slow track. Nell Kuhlman was second, half a length back, and Ante Bellum was a distant third.

Gilbert has no mount. Ante Bellum appeared as if he would win the race. He had a two lengths lead in the early stages and held on better than his wont. Turning into the stretch he still was in front, but stopped very badly to finish far back of the second horse. Mills had forced the pace with Predict and when Ante Bellum tried to shoot to the front, Nell Kuhlman came from well back and finished well.

They Ride One-Two. The spectators saw Mills and Gilbert ride one-two in the sixth, Gilbert being up on More Power, which finished a length and a half back of Watchgirl. Security Bound was third, three lengths behind More Power. Watchgirl was the favorite and returned $7.20 for $2. Her time for the mile and a furlong was 1:55.

Mutual Friend and Elkhart were the swiftest to begin when the barrier was sprung, but neither lasted once the final quarter was reached. Once in front, Watchgirl went along with a substantial lead and was able to withstand the challenge of More Power, which was driven through the stretch with Gilbert's best efforts.

SHAMROCKS PLAY SOUTH BEND TEAM INDOORS TONIGHT

The Shamrock professional football team meets the South Bend Hoosiers tonight at the 124th field artillery armory, 5200 Cottage Grove avenue.

Both elevens are exponents of the Rockne system. Shamrocks, however, ever, using the huddle for calling signals. The Hoosiers receive their coaching from a former Notre Dame man, Bernie Witlick.

Tonight's game will be the seventh indoors for the Shamrocks. In their previous games, they have won five times and played a scoreless tie. In South Bend they face a combination that has an even more impressive record. Last season the visitors won the Indiana state football championship and this year they have not lost a game. Every precaution is being taken to have the gridiron at Wrigley field in shape for the Bears' game with the Green Bay Packers tomorrow.

As early as Monday, or before the chill set in, the ridges and hoof prints resulting from the game with the New York Giants, were smoothed out and sand applied to the infield, parts of which are devoid of turf, and if necessary the field will be swept again before the game, which is to start at 2 o'clock.

It has been some time since the Packers and Bears have met in the final regularly scheduled game with something at stake for both. In this case it is second place for the visitors and a chance at the league title for the Bears, the latter to tie and then meet Portsmouth here Dec. 18 if victorious.

Bears in Condition.

The Bears are in the best physical condition they have been in since the season opened. Tiny Engenbretsen is the only player a bit off form. In fact, he hasn't been quite up to his standard for about three weeks, with the result that Coach Ralph Jones has named Bill Buckler to open at left tackle tomorrow.

Only two members of the Bears and Packers, who met for the first time in 1921, are on the rival squads now—George Trafton of Chicago and Jugger Earpe of Green Bay.

Earpe Weighs 257.

Earpe, who cracks the scales at 257 pounds, has seen the Packers beat the Bears 12 times and tie 4, while Trafton, whose record as an outstanding center for years probably never will be equaled, was in nine Bear vic-

However, it is the new men on each squad who will bear watching. In Herber and Hinkle the Packers have a half back and full back considered among the best, although it is only the first season for Hinkle and the second for Herber.

GREENLEAF AND
BILLIARD LEAD

The victory, Greenleaf's third of the tournament here, carried the 33 year old champion into a tie for the lead with young Jimmy Caras of Wilmington, Del. Caras won his third match earlier in the day, defeating Bennie Allen of Kansas City, former champion, 125 to 86, in eleven innings.

quired his fellow townsman, George Kelly, 125 to 15, in six innings, during which he sank 72 balls for the high run of the tournament.

RAIL LABOR MAY TELL VIEWS TO CODE GROUP

Chicagoan Pleads for R. F. C. Loans.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
New York, Dec. 9.—Two days of apparent misunderstanding between the railroad labor and the national transportation committee ended today when Calvin Coolidge, chairman of the committee, announced the receipt of a message indicating that the union organization would help his organization in its investigation of the transportation situation. On Wednesday the union rejected an invitation to appear before Mr. Coolidge's group.

Something of the difficulty reflected the influence of Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, who was understood to have been in touch with the unions and with Mr. Coolidge's group. He conferred briefly with Mr. Coolidge today. Mr. Coolidge said he would not know whether his group would include wages in its report until after it had conferred with labor.

Willard Smooths Way.
The Association of Railway Executives declared present railway wage levels "unjustified and profoundly injurious to the public interest." In a report presented to Mr. Coolidge's committee, this statement was made in the face of a protest of Mr. Willard that the question of wages was one outside the purview of the committee. Other executives overruled Mr. Willard at a meeting of the railroad men and the committee on Thursday.

The national transportation committee had previously extended an invitation to the Railway Labor Executive association to state its views to the committee, but this invitation the association rejected in a telegram sent on Wednesday. The management having declined to participate in the wage question before the committee, Mr. Willard, despite his views, used his influence to have the labor group also cooperate with the committee.

Coolidge's Statement.
First indication of progress in this direction was afforded today when Mr. Willard called at the office of the national transportation committee. Mr. Coolidge withdrew from his place at the conference table and conversed briefly with Mr. Willard. Soon after Mr. Coolidge issued the following statement:

"We have been informed that the railroad labor representatives are now engaged in conference at Chicago and probably cannot arrange to appear before the national transportation committee at this period. But the committee understands that they have under consideration appearing at a date later to be determined."

Late in the afternoon Mr. Coolidge was called again from the conference table and on his return he stated to other members of the committee and then to the press a pending memorandum. The memorandum stated that he had had a telephone call from Mr. F. Whitney, chairman of the Railway Labor Executive association, that the labor group "will consider filing a statement" and make a "possible appearance later."

Finish Present Meeting.
Taking of testimony by the committee at the present series of meetings, which lasted three days, concluded with the appearance of railway equipment manufacturers, shipbuilding and waterways organizations. Saying that a continued curtailment of expenditures by the railways might endanger lives and property, Mr. Wheeler recommended that the Reconstruction Finance corporation relax its requirements for collateral pledged by railroads for loans.

In the last two years, Mr. Wheeler pointed out, the maintenance and structure expenditures of the railroads have averaged only 400 million dollars annually, as compared with an average of 800 million dollars annually from 1922 to 1930.

Mr. Wheeler told the committee that while the report of the railroad labor group has been exhausted their basic credit is still good. For this reason, he said, they should receive loans on such self-liquidating projects as car construction. He said that by 1932 nearly 600,000 freight cars will have to be taken off the rails.

Call Rail Wages High.
The National Association of Manufacturers was represented by James A. Emery, general counsel, and others. Mr. Emery said that railway wage levels were higher than those in other industries. To this Alfred E. Smith, former governor of New York and a member of the committee, objected that railway managements and presumably the equipment manufacturers all believed they would benefit from reduced wages and that this would increase employment.

States Limit Real Estate Tax Burden

BY SCRUTATOR.

The revolt of property owners against saddling an excessive portion of taxes on real estate is not confined to Chicago. In fact, it appears to be spreading over the country and coupled with a demand that taxation be both equalized and generally reduced. In the November elections the property owners of several states forced constitutional amendments imposing either definite limitations on real estate taxes or providing offsets in the form of limited exemptions from other forms of taxation. One state took action to exempt wholly from state taxes homesteads below a certain value, while similar provisions were proposed but defeated in two other states.

Two states, Michigan and Washington, adopted tax limitation provisions. In Michigan a constitutional amendment generally provides that the total amount of taxes against property for all purposes in any one year shall not exceed 1 1/2 per cent of the assessed valuation, which is on the basis of true cash value of property. This limitation does not apply to the 1932 tax levy and the amendment except taxes levied for payment of interest on principal on obligations heretofore incurred, which sums are to be separately assessed.

May Raise Limitation.
A provision of the amendment states the limitation of taxes may be raised for a period of not more than five years at a time to not more than 2 per cent of assessed valuation. But this is permissible only by a two-thirds vote of the electors in any assessing district or when provided by charter of municipal corporations.

The Washington limitation on real estate taxes is more drastic, but is balanced to some degree by adoption of a state income tax to make up expected lower revenue from property taxes. It provides that general property taxes shall not exceed 40 mills per dollar of assessed valuation, which is based on half of true value. Previous rate had been 80 mills. The rate is limited to 2 per cent on true value.

Moreover, the Washington income tax law provides that a home owner may deduct up to $50 from his income taxes for any real estate taxes paid on a home, while other taxpayers have a 50 per cent offset for real estate and personal property taxes paid.

Allow $3,000 Free.
The voters of Texas went a step further by adopting a constitutional amendment whereby the first $3,000 of assessed valuation of residential property is exempted from all state taxes. Similar amendments were proposed in Michigan and Arkansas, with certain exceptions, but failed to pass.

Indicative of the sentiment in the different states for ameliorating property taxes are the facts that the Michigan tax limitation measure was put on the ballot by petition of more than 350,000 persons, the Washington measure was initiated by petition of some 70,000 voters and the Texas amendment was reported to have won by an overwhelming vote.

Action in these states followed closely that in Indiana, where a law enacted at a recent session of the legislature limited the state tax to 15 cents per $100 of taxable property and the municipal corporation tax to 15 cents. Two years ago Ohio adopted a constitutional amendment providing that real property shall not be taxed more than 1 1/2 per cent of its true value for all state and local purposes.

CHIEF SAYS RAIL
FOR WAGE PARLEY
The claim of labor for a "fair" wage and the effect of such a wage on the depression will be made the basis for the argument of the Railway Labor Executive association, representing twenty-one railroad brotherhoods, against a continuation of the 10 per cent wage cuts when negotiations with the railroad managements are opened Monday morning.

The above report covers operating activities only, excluding nonoperating income such as dividends, interest, and other revenue received and nonoperating charges, such as interest and rents paid.

The Associated Bell System Companies had a net loss of about 102,000 in November, as compared with 105,000 in October. It was announced today.

COPPER PARLEY
WORLD BATTLE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
New York, Dec. 9.—The last international meeting of copper men broke up today about noon without an agreement being reached to curtail world production, according to information obtained in authoritative quarters.

Demoralization of the industry, which had been predicted if curtailment was discontinued, immediately appeared in the form of a break in the export price of copper to 6 cents a pound, which was followed by losses in the leading copper shares on the stock exchange. The export price would indicate a level below 4 1/2 cents.

LEVEL RALLY IN STOCK MART BOOSTS PRICES

Close Finds Shares at High for Day.

BY FRED HARVEY.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
New York, Dec. 9.—Traders switched suddenly to the buying side of the stock market in the late dealings today and the result was one of the smartest little price rallies the bull market could desire. The leaders rushed up 1 to as much as 3 and 4 points and did it with gusto that set the ticker back minutes behind floor operations.

Numerous issues which have been bumping along with a few hundred shares a day for weeks came out in lots of one to three thousand shares in a way that made tape watchers rub their eyes in astonishment. The rally carried right up to the closing and final prices were generally the tops of the day.

Holiday Rise Expected.
Nothing developed in the news to warrant the sudden outburst of enthusiasm and observers were at a loss to account for it. The board rooms have been buzzing with speculation on the probability of a holiday rally and operators of the bear persuasion have been displaying signs of increasing caution in their commitments.

Some commentators guessed that the bulls had taken advantage of this display of nervousness in the enemy's camp to give the shorts a little run-around. The rally struck the utilities section and some of the most imposing gains were scored by issues of this group. Such stocks as Consolidated Gas, American Telephone, Columbia Gas, United Gas Improvement, and Standard Gas were conspicuously active and ended Brooklyn Union Gas jumped 5 1/2 points on a nominal upturn.

Union Pacific Advances.
The rails plugged in with vigor and Union Pacific bettered its record by more than 3 points. New York and Harlem rose almost as much and Atchafalaya, Delaware and Hudson and others jumped 2 points or so each. Followers of the carrier group are expecting a helpful cardinals report tomorrow.

Neither General Electric nor Radio was greatly affected by the news of General Electric's plan for distributing its Radio stock on Feb. 29. The corporation will distribute one share of Radio to holders of each six shares of its stock held. Market observers have been anticipating a flurry of selling in Radio when the announcement is made, but the issue ended only a slight fraction from its previous close.

A flurry of interest in New York traction shares was accompanied by rumors that a rise in subway fare will be announced in the near future. The recent fare is 5 cents. Brooklyn Manhattan Transit rose 1/4 and Interborough 1/2 points.

In spite of the show of increased activity the trading was confined to a narrow range, about fifteen stocks accounting for considerably more than a third of the total turnover.

A. T. & T. REPORTS
INCOME IN MONTH
American Telephone and Telegraph company yesterday reported October operating income of $1,744,737, which compares with $1,807,018 in September and $2,570,551 in October, 1931. Gross amounted to $1,191,149, as against $7,215,131 in September and $8,929,286 in October a year ago.

For the first ten months of 1932 operating income aggregated $17,915,570, contrasted with $23,234,241 for the corresponding period last year, while gross totaled $72,152,664, as against $91,309,851.

The above report covers operating activities only, excluding nonoperating income such as dividends, interest, and other revenue received and nonoperating charges, such as interest and rents paid.

Building Contracts in the First Ten Months Slightly Over One Billion Dollars

Two of Big Loop Banks Vote Dividends

Directors of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company yesterday authorized the distribution of a quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share. The action places the stock on a $4 annual basis. Three months ago a dividend of $2 a share was paid, prior to which the bank had paid at the rate of $1 quarterly. The present distribution will be made Jan. 2 to stockholders of record Dec. 21.

Directors of the First National bank yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1 a share, payable Dec. 31 to stock of record Dec. 26. Earlier this year the directors cut the rate from $1.25 to $1.25 yearly.

Peoples Gas Pays Regular.
The Peoples Gas Light and Coke company yesterday announced that the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share would be paid to stockholders Jan. 17 for stock owned as of Jan. 3.

The declaration maintains the $5 an annual rate which was adopted last June shortly after the change in management of the big Chicago operating companies. If reports in La Salle street may be relied upon the company may decide to pay a higher dividend in the near future.

These hopes are based on the fact that the reductions were made with the purpose of building up the cash reserves. Since the cut was made the earnings of the companies have held up substantially in excess of current dividend requirements. Prior to June this year both stocks were on an $3 annual basis.

Safeway Cuts Rate.
The yearly rate on the common stock of Safeway Stores was reduced to $3 yesterday by directors through the declaration of a quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share. Hitherto the stock has paid yearly or at the rate of $1.25 quarterly.

The preferred dividends of the General Electric and Electric corporation will be paid in script, according to an announcement made yesterday. The latter sum involved and the collateral possible to be offered as security for the loan, it would require that information.

UNITED GAS CO.
CAPITAL STOCK
New York, Dec. 9.—Stockholders of the United Gas corporation, principal natural gas system in the southwest, have been called to a special meeting on Dec. 29 to consider and act upon a plan to reduce the common capital from $14,811 to $1 a share, and to exchange present no par common shares into an equal number of $1 par common shares. The preferred and second preferred shares will not be affected by the plan.

The United Gas corporation began business in June, 1930, by acquiring control of about forty separate holding and operating companies in the southwest. The corporation has since then been engaged in a program to eliminate all intermediate holding companies and to simplify the underlying corporate structure by creating one operating subsidiary. This has been done in the reduction in the number of active natural gas companies in the group to ten.

Here Is Company That Is Increasing Dividend Rate
New York, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Directors of Nuyve-Agrop corporation today increased the annual dividend on the common stock to $5 from $4 by declaring a quarterly payment of $1.25, payable Jan. 2 to stock of record Dec. 21.

PROOF GROWS POLITICAL 'AD' HURTS FARMERS

Farm Board Actions Glut Markets.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

While various interests are preparing to approach congress with demands for new and better farm relief, evidence continues to accumulate definitely indicating that much of the farmers' present woes is the result of the last political attempt to relieve them.

To date this year the total wheat export of the United States has amounted to only about 22 million bushels, compared with 60 million bushels for the comparative period last year.

Because of the drying up of foreign markets the United States is endeavoring to accumulate a larger percentage of the world's total wheat surplus. On July 1, 1932, about the time the agricultural marketing act was passed, the total world wheat carryover was approximately 681 million bushels. Of this amount 242 million bushels, or about 35 per cent, was held in the United States.

This latter sum is sought by the receivers for use in preserving the equity of the ineffectual olding company in an estimated $400,000 of investments in utility properties along the Atlantic seaboard.

Needed to Save Collateral.
The $2,000,000 which the receivers would like to obtain from the R. F. C. would be applied to paying off bank loans made by eastern financial institutions. Assets said to be valued at $400,000 have been deposited as collateral on the loans and the eastern banks have been urged to sell them.

Think Loan Can't Be Made.
The point was made that institutions eligible to borrow from the corporation are clearly set forth in section five of the Reconstruction Finance corporation act and the emergency relief and construction act of 1932, and that utility concerns, not mention nonoperating utility concerns, are not among those listed.

It was recognized that since banks and trust companies are not always asked specifically what they intend to do with the loans obtained from the corporation, funds might legally be obtained in this way. But it was stated definitely that the corporation would be unwilling to make such a loan if it knew it was to be applied for such a purpose and that, because of the large sum involved and the collateral possible to be offered as security for the loan, it would require that information.

Output Outpacing Consumption.
Mr. Mowbray's analysis covers a twelve year period ending in 1932. Production in the United States in the six years ended in 1932 averaged 3,550,000 bushels per year higher than in the six year period ended in 1926. The increase in production outside the United States averaged 1,500,000 bushels per year.

During this period, however, consumption in the United States averaged an annual increase of only 600,000 bushels per year. In the United States, the average annual rate of only 1,000,000 bushels, world production was increasing at the annual rate of 5,050,000 bushels per year, and the greater part of the overproduction was in the United States, where the artificial stimulus of farm board stabilization was at work.

The result has been the piling up in this country of a big surplus of cotton, just as a surplus of wheat has accumulated.

In August, 1932, the world carryover of cotton was 2,200,000 bales. In August, 1932, the world carryover amounted to 7,000,000 bales, of which 13,000,000 bales were in the United States.

Thompson Jr. Says He Won't Quit Company

John R. Thompson Jr. yesterday denied reports that he intends to tender his resignation as president of the John R. Thompson company at a meeting of the board of directors today.

"You can say that I do not intend to resign," Mr. Thompson declared. "I do not know who started the talk that I was giving up my job. The source of the report is unknown to me."

William Collins, chairman of the board, who was elected JOHN R. THOMPSON JR. chairman of the board of directors today, said that he did not believe that Mr. Thompson intended to resign.

Collins Denies Report.
"If Mr. Thompson says he isn't quitting that ought to settle it," Mr. Collins asserted.

Control of the Thompson company passed into the hands of a group of Chicago capitalists two years ago. The group consisted of Charles A. McCulloch, John D. Herz, and the late William Wrigley Jr. Mr. McCulloch was elected chairman of the board early in 1931 but resigned last June to become co-president of the Middle West Utilities company.

Patch Up Other Fight.
Shortly before the company's annual meeting early this year Thompson began to solicit votes against the McCulloch-Herz group. At that time it was rumored that Mr. Thompson was slated to resign. Before the meeting was held, however, the two groups patched up their differences and Thompson continued as president.

The estate of John R. Thompson Sr. still holds a minority of the company's stock.

REPORT FRANCE SHIPS GOLD TO U.S.; EXCHANGES FIRM

New York, Dec. 9.—Interest in the foreign exchange market today centered principally on reports from Paris that about $3,000,000 had been shipped to New York on the Bremen, the transfers representing exchange arbitrage transactions made profitable by the recent fall of the franc. No confirmation could be obtained locally, but it was ascertained that about $200,000 of gold was being sent on the Bremen consigned to the New York office of the Banque Paribas.

The shipment of gold from France will be the first since May, 1931, when an import movement began in April and brought $19,141,000 from Paris to New York. It was ended by the action of the Federal Reserve banks in instituting an aggressive easy-money policy. Since then the movement of gold has been almost entirely a total of $13,124,000 gold having been shipped to France by the Bank of France between August, 1931, and last August.

JOBS, PAY ROLLS
SAYS U. S. REPORT
Washington, D. C., Dec. 9.—(AP)—An increase in employment and larger pay roll disbursements were the bright spots of the business situation in the United States during October, and general business activity remained at the level reached during the September rise.

There was net forth today by the commerce department in its monthly review. Industrial output, it said, remained unchanged by virtue of further increase in mineral production, chiefly coal. Manufacturing production was slightly lower and the consumer goods, which have been responsible for recent increases, showed some recession.

Employment increased further during October, marking the third successive month of gain. The report said "but the increase was not as great as in the preceding month. Pay roll disbursements increased by a larger percentage than did the number employed."

BEST HOGS $3.25 A 54 YEAR LOW; $23.60 IN 1919

Call Pork Cheapest in Packing History.

All previous low records for the last 54 years were broken yesterday when top hogs sank 15c to $3.25, going 6c under the previous low mark for top grades since December, 1878. Searching through the records, statisticians found top grades had sold down to $3.30 on numerous days back in 1895 and have also been that low several times this year, but yesterday was the first time they sold below this line.

New lows always bring up the question of how high hogs ever sold. During the hectic period following the end of the world war swine sold at an all time record high of $23.50 on July 31, 1919. The average that day was $22.70. The record top for cattle was $22.40, also in that year, and the record in lamb sales was $22.40. In 1919, in former years, hogs sold higher than cattle more than 75 per cent of the time, but during the last five years swine prices have been counted as the lowest of the pack, the current hog average is 22 c, lower than cattle and 42 c per cent lower than lambs.

Pork Cheapest in History.
"Pork at going prices is relatively the cheapest in the history of packing," declared one of the representatives of one of the packing houses in the stock yards yesterday. "It is almost unbelievable that prices can go much lower."

Buying orders increased perceptibly after prices had touched the minimum yesterday. Losses of $109,250 were registered, but there was a mild rally toward the close, with large local houses leading the late buying on the market. The general average for the day showed a slight advance.

Supplies have been running unusually light the last month, which adds to the theory that hogs will be held out on cheap grain longer than usual this winter. The federal inspected slaughter figures for the whole country show that 2,778,122 hogs were killed during November, against 4,171,541 a year ago. It was the smallest November slaughter in five years.

Smaller Cattle in Demand.
Trading in the cattle slaughter yesterday was a repetition of the preceding session. Light steers and yearlings pulled steadily away from the big cut on a strong to slightly higher market. The lightest of the pack, the 1,100 lbs and less, McPun and heavy steers continued to lag behind and in many instances suffered additional price penalty on unsatisfactory closing.

Foreign exchanges were dull and inactive, although sterling was pushed up a point around midday by French buying and closed at $2.23 1/2, up 1/4 cents on the day. The franc rallied for a time, but closed unchanged.

GEN'L ELECTRIC TO DISTRIBUTE RADIO STOCK

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
New York, Dec. 9.—In accordance with the recent consent decree whereby General Electric and Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing are to divest themselves of their holdings of Radio Corporation of America, directors of the former announced today a distribution of one share of Radio for every six shares of General Electric held.

The distribution will be made Feb. 10 to stockholders of record Dec. 15. Directors of Westinghouse Electric have not yet acted on a plan for distributing that corporation's holdings, but it is believed in financial circles that action will be taken in the near future.

The General Electric company holds a total of 5,188,785 common shares of Radio corporation. After divesting itself of the shares under the plan decided upon today, the company will have in its treasury a balance of approximately $1,000,000.

BONDS FOR RELIEF HEED NECESSITY CITY FINANCING

Investment Bankers Talk of Term Length.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Emergency relief bonds issued by various local communities were held to have a legitimate place in municipal financing by speakers at the Municipal Finance Forum, which has been meeting at the Palmer House. The forum is one of the activities of the central states group of the Investment Bankers' association.

It was disclosed during yesterday's meeting that there has been a feeling in some sections of American finance that emergency relief bonds should be classified with solidly backed demands constituting unwarranted drains on public treasuries.

A number of speakers criticized this viewpoint, stating that these bonds should be looked upon as a necessity to preserve the social order of the country and as instruments of simple humanity.

Differ on Relief Bond Terms.

Argument developed as to the length of terms for which this type of bond should be issued. One group held that they should be short-term bonds, others asserted that the situation of the community ought to be considered in its merits.

For instance, some communities are faced with large maturing bonds in the immediate future. To add new bonds with short term maturities would too heavily burden the local treasuries. In such cases it is held that emergency relief bond maturities should be extended.

In cases where there are no immediate maturing bonds, speakers held that it would be better to provide short term bonds.

One point developed was that there is little likelihood of such indiscriminate issue of emergency relief bonds. It was pointed out that citizens are becoming pretty level headed with respect to municipal expenditures, and bonds are now only being issued in real emergencies.

Prize Advisory Councils.

Another subject discussed was the advisory councils which have been organized by municipal security departments and bankers in the states of Ohio, Michigan, North Carolina, and Florida. Speakers familiar with these organizations told of the assistance troubles. Bankers and dealers have been able to render their respective communities financial assistance in the settlement of financial tangles.

These councils have been set up as machines to function for entire states. Where they are functioning they have obtained the necessary for bondholders' committees, which have been expensive for both bondholders and municipalities in some instances.

Advocate Depository of Opinions.

Finally, the members of the forum discussed the advantages of a depository of opinions. In normal circumstances opinions as to the legal status of bond issues are filed for record so that a buyer for a small fee, can obtain information as to the legal status of the issue he is buying. Issues on which no opinions have been made may lose several points in their value.

D. T. Richardson of Chicago was in charge of yesterday's discussion, which closed the forum. Among the speakers yesterday were H. S. Judd of St. Paul; Howard H. Fitch of Kansas City; Harry E. Wild, Cincinnati; J. Andrews, Minneapolis; P. P. Purdum, Omaha; and Cushman McGee, managing director of the municipal advisory council of Chicago.

Heavy Construction Jobs Better Recent Average

Engineering News-Record estimates the value of heavy construction contracts for the week ended Dec. 5 at $28,694,000, or $8,000,000 more than average for the previous four weeks. The federal building contracts helped swell the volume.

DOUGHNUT SHOP ON THE RIALTO

National Chain Leases Randolph Corner.

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago's Rialto is to have a brand new combination amusement and restaurant. Our theatergoers are to be initiated into the culinary mysteries of how the doughnut is made, but the doughnut machine on the Rialto is not the one that has been leased to the theater. The Doughnut Machine Co. has leased the store at the southeast corner of Randolph and Dearborn for a term of years and, after installing an intricate group of doughnut machines in the windows, will operate them on a twenty hour daily schedule.

Not only it will make fried cakes for consumption at a table, but counter doughnuts for distribution throughout the neighborhood and vicinity by the Ward Baking company. This new Chicago window factory idea, somewhat similar to that of the Chesterfield cigarette stand at Jackson and Michigan, is the third in a national chain of stores that Doughnut Machine Co. has leased. The first was leased to W. R. Rainey of H. H. Harp, and the second to the Doughnut Machine Co. when they were leased.

Building Hits New Low.

Illinois building figures for November, made public last night, broke all former low records since the inception of statistics and research of the department of labor began. According to figures from the Illinois department of labor, the total value of building work in the state for November was $581,739 in forty-four days. These represent a decrease of 46.3 per cent from the number of projects and 47.6 per cent from total estimated expenditure as compared with October, 1932.

In comparison with November, 1931, the total estimated expenditure for November, 1932, declined 73.2 per cent. The previous low monthly total since the records started in January of this year, when they were $943,129.

Eleven Months Less.

During the first eleven months of 1932 permits were issued in all reporting cities of the state for projects estimated to cost $12,952,313. This figure represents a decline of 82.8 per cent from the total during the corresponding period of the previous year. For Chicago the total for the first eleven months of 1932 was $7.6 million, below the total for the first eleven months of 1931, $10.6 million. The figures for the first eleven months of 1932 show a larger total than for the first eleven months of 1931, $10.6 million.

Foreclosure Cases Be Avoided.

TO THE EDITOR: I am about to lose my home on account of foreclosure. The owner of the first mortgage, which is $2,000, is willing to renew this mortgage, but I have been out of work for the last two years and am unable to pay the expenses of renewal, such as per cent commission, 30 percent interest, and pay the interest and insurance, but no more.

The building is located at Sacramento and consists of a 1 1/2 garage. I occupy the first floor with my son and live on the second floor. I paid $6,000 for the property eight years ago and have made considerable improvements. All assessments are paid to date.
